A LAUSD iPad Program Bud Jacobs on behalf of the Education Committee)
bjacobscislaw@verizon.net (30 minutes) [EXHIBIT]

MOTION: Whereas, many Los Angeles Unified School District (LAUSD) schools are need of repair including broken air-conditioning and heating systems, cracked cement, leaking ceilings; in Whereas, Los Angeles voters approved a bond measure to fund school repair and construction; Whereas, the Citizens Bond Oversight Committee recommended denial of the iPad purchase beyond the first phase;
Whereas, the long term negative effects of the misuse of construction bond funds include a skeptical public refusing to pass critical future bond measures;
Whereas, there is a great need to support technology to Title I students who are disproportionately without wi-fi service at home and would therefore not be able to use the iPads away from school;
Whereas the selection process was flawed. The iPad that was selected was bundled with software which the selection panel has not been allowed to see or evaluate, the software cannot contain text books;
Whereas, local schools need flexibility to recommend specific technology solutions to support local programs and curricula, and teachers, principals and parents on various local leadership councils can best make recommendations for individual schools rather than a one-size-fits-all solution;
Whereas, the Common Core Technology Project commits untold future expenditures from the general fund that cannot legally be covered by construction bonds;
Whereas, LAUSD superintendent Deasy has not explained to the public what further cuts will be made to pay for the iPad program after the school repair and construction bond is depleted;
Whereas, the exorbitant cost of the iPads does not reflect the priorities of parents, teachers and administrators while LAUSD class sizes are unreasonably high and important programs such as early education, arts education, PE and adult education have been cut close to elimination;
Whereas, LAUSD officials state that the school district is deeply in debt;

Therefore, be it resolved that the Venice Neighborhood Council respectfully requests that the LAUSD
