

Dangerous streets are the leading cause of death of our children. It's time to finally make L.A. walkable

<http://www.latimes.com/opinion/livable-city/la-oe-podemski-walkable-city-20160912-snap-story.html>

MAX PODEMSKI & MEHMET BERKER

SEP 12, 2016

Max Podemski is the planning director at Pacoima Beautiful, a member-based environmental health and justice non-profit working in the Northeast San Fernando Valley. He is a graduate of the Columbia University Graduate School of Architecture, Planning and Preservation. He is a member of the Los Angeles Pedestrian Advisory Committee.

Mehmet Berker is a cartographer and geographic information system specialist and a member of the Los Angeles Pedestrian Advisory Committee.

How Much Do Parents Matter?

<http://www.theatlantic.com/international/archive/2016/09/do-parents-matter-world/499808/>

URI FRIEDMAN

SEP 15, 2016

Uri Friedman is a staff writer at The Atlantic, where he covers global affairs. He was previously the deputy managing editor at Foreign Policy.

L.A. schools chief urges administrators to break bureaucratic rules to help kids

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-austin-beutner-speech-20180809-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 9, 2018

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

It's come to this: A checkup with the pediatrician may soon include a prescription for play

<http://www.latimes.com/science/sciencenow/la-sci-sn-children-playtime-health-20180820-story.html>

MELISSA HEALY

AUG 20, 2018

Melissa Healy is a health and science reporter with the Los Angeles Times writing from the Washington, D.C., area. She covers prescription drugs, obesity, nutrition and exercise, and neuroscience, mental health and human behavior. She's been at The Times for more than 30 years, and has covered national security, environment, domestic social policy, Congress and the White House. As a baby boomer, she keenly follows trends in midlife weight gain, memory loss and the health benefits of red wine.

Gates Foundation dumps 'big idea' approach to build on school progress in L.A. and elsewhere

<http://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-gates-foundation-education-grants-20180828-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
AUG 28, 2018

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Cheerleader's blackface video raises ghosts of Fresno's racist past

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-08-31/fresno-racism-slur-blackface-election>

MARIA L. LA GANGA
FRESNO
AUG. 31, 2019

Maria L. La Ganga is a Metro reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She joined The Times in 1981 as an academic intern, splitting her time between the former Metro section and National Dragster, the official publication of the National Hot Rod Assn. She has served as Seattle bureau chief, San Francisco bureau chief, edited in the Business section and pitched in on six presidential elections, five for The Times and one for the Guardian. La Ganga left The Times in 2015 and returned in 2018 after a brief hiatus during which she wrote for the Guardian and the Idaho Statesman.

LAUSD chief signals desire to limit teacher job protections and change funding rules

<http://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-beutner-teacher-job-protections-20180913-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
SEP 13, 2018

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

California's children fall behind before they start school, and some never catch up, study finds

HOWARD BLUME
SEP 18, 2018

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Don't let the SAT become the yardstick to measure California high schools

<http://www.latimes.com/opinion/editorials/la-ed-sat-20180921-story.html>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
SEP 21, 2018

The Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

Kids skip school in alarm-bell numbers. A simple solution: Make sure their parents know

<http://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-kirp-laUSD-absenteeism-solution-20180921-story.html>

DAVID L. KIRP
SEP 21, 2018

David L. Kirp is a contributing opinion writer for The New York Times. A professor of public policy at the University of California, Berkeley, as well as a prolific author and policy adviser, Mr. Kirp has focused on education policy issues, from cradle to college. He writes for national publications, among them The New York Times, The Los Angeles Times, The Nation and the American Prospect, and is a former associate editor at The Sacramento Bee. His 16 books include "Shakespeare, Einstein and the Bottom Line: The Marketing of Higher Education" (2003), "The Sandbox Investment: The Preschool Movement and Kids-First Politics" (2007) and "Kids First: Five Big Ideas for Transforming Children's Lives and America's Future" (2011).

Mr. Kirp was the founding director of the Harvard Center for Law and Education, which filed landmark lawsuits seeking equal educational opportunity. His latest book, "Improbable Scholars: The Rebirth of a Great American School System and a Strategy for America's Schools" (2013), tells the remarkable story of the Union City, N.J., school district, which relied on tried-and-true strategies, not faddish reforms. The American Education Research Association selected it as the year's outstanding book.

Mr. Kirp has lectured at universities around the world and has been the keynote speaker at many national conferences. In 2008, he was a member of President-elect Obama's transition team.

David L. Kirp is a senior fellow at the Learning Policy Institute and an emeritus professor of the School of Public Policy at UC Berkeley.

Austin Beutner: LAUSD's teacher contract offer creates a pathway to prevent a strike

<http://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-beutner-laUSD-utla-mediation-20180925-story.html>

AUSTIN BEUTNER

SEP 25, 2018

Austin Beutner is superintendent of the Los Angeles Unified School District. He is an American businessman, civic leader and philanthropist. He co-founded Evercore Partners and is the former publisher and CEO of the Los Angeles Times and the San Diego Union-Tribune. He was the First Deputy Mayor of Los Angeles in 2011 and ran for Mayor of Los Angeles in 2012. Beutner, the son of German immigrants, was born in New York and raised in Grand Rapids, Michigan. His mother is a retired schoolteacher and his father is a retired manufacturing engineer.

Beutner attended Dartmouth College, where he majored in economics. After graduation in 1982 he went to work at Smith Barney as a financial analyst. At the age of 29, he became partner at The Blackstone Group. In the 1990s he co-founded the investment banking group Evercore Partners, which went public in 2006.

After the fall of the Soviet Union, Beutner went to work for the U.S. State Department. The Clinton administration tapped him to lead a team into Russia and help transition them from communism to a free-market economy, including the decommission of weapons and other materiel.

In 1996 Beutner co-founded Evercore Partners, an American independent investment banking advisory firm, with former Deputy Secretary of the Treasury, Roger Altman. When Evercore went public (NYSE:EVR) in 2006, the IPO reportedly made Beutner more than $100 million.

LA City Commission on Children, Youth and their Families

https://codelibrary.amlegal.com/codes/los_angeles/latest/laac/o-o-o-37139

OCT 10, 2018

JDM – not sure where I got this but there appears to be no such commission functioning at either city or county levels – but it is Chapter 23 of the LA City Charter.

If L.A. Unified truly wants to put students first, it should reduce classroom sizes now

<http://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-goldberg-laUSD-class-size-matters-20181023-story.html>

JACKIE GOLDBERG

OCT 23, 2018

Jackie Goldberg was a classroom teacher for 17 years and a former member and president of the Los Angeles School Board where she represented northeast Los Angeles neighborhoods. She also was a former member of the Los Angeles City Council, and of the California State Assembly where she chaired the Education Committee.

If you want better schools, don't evaluate teachers, coach them

<http://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-kirp-teacher-coaching-better-than-evaluation-20181116-story.html>

DAVID L. KIRP
NOV 16, 2018

David L. Kirp is a contributing opinion writer for The New York Times. A professor of public policy at the University of California, Berkeley, as well as a prolific author and policy adviser, Mr. Kirp has focused on education policy issues, from cradle to college. He writes for national publications, among them The New York Times, The Los Angeles Times, The Nation and the American Prospect, and is a former associate editor at The Sacramento Bee. His 16 books include “Shakespeare, Einstein and the Bottom Line: The Marketing of Higher Education” (2003), “The Sandbox Investment: The Preschool Movement and Kids-First Politics” (2007) and “Kids First: Five Big Ideas for Transforming Children’s Lives and America’s Future” (2011).

Mr. Kirp was the founding director of the Harvard Center for Law and Education, which filed landmark lawsuits seeking equal educational opportunity. His latest book, “Improbable Scholars: The Rebirth of a Great American School System and a Strategy for America’s Schools” (2013), tells the remarkable story of the Union City, N.J., school district, which relied on tried-and-true strategies, not faddish reforms. The American Education Research Association selected it as the year’s outstanding book.

Mr. Kirp has lectured at universities around the world and has been the keynote speaker at many national conferences. In 2008, he was a member of President-elect Obama’s transition team.

David L. Kirp is a senior fellow at the Learning Policy Institute and an emeritus professor of the School of Public Policy at UC Berkeley.

California should spend $1.6 billion more next year to combat its child poverty crisis, new task force finds

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/la-pol-ca-child-poverty-task-force-report-20181119-story.html>

JAZMINE ULLOA
SACRAMENTO
NOV 19, 2018

Jazmine Ulloa covers California state politics and policy for the Los Angeles Times and is based in Sacramento. A native of El Paso, she covered state and federal courts for the Austin American-Statesman in the Texas capital. Her work has appeared in Texas Monthly, the Texas Observer and the Boston Globe. She is a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin.

Hirokazu Kore-eda carries on through success and sadness with the release of his Palme d'Or winner, 'Shoplifters'

<https://www.latimes.com/entertainment/movies/la-ca-mn-shoplifters-hirokazu-koreeda-20181123-story.html>

JUSTIN CHANG
FILM CRITIC
NOV 23, 2018

Justin Chang is a film critic for the Los Angeles Times and for NPR’s “Fresh Air,” and a regular contributor to KPCC’s “FilmWeek.” Before joining The Times, he was chief film critic at Variety. He is the author of the book “FilmCraft: Editing” and serves as chair of the National Society of Film Critics and secretary of the Los Angeles Film Critics Assn. In 2014 he received the inaugural Roger Ebert Award from the African-American Film

Critics Assn. A Southern California native and USC graduate, he lives with his wife and daughter in Pasadena.

California's housing shortage has companies carving up apartments to lower the rent

<https://www.latimes.com/business/la-fi-apartment-co-living-20181125-story.html>

ANDREW KHOURI

NOV 25, 2018

Andrew Khouri covers the California economy for the Los Angeles Times. Before coming to The Times he wrote about commercial real estate for the San Fernando Valley Business Journal. He holds a master's degree in journalism from the University of Southern California's Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism & he graduated from the University of San Diego with a degree in history.

A note on this series: Facing child poverty in L.A. and our own conflicting emotions

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-california-poverty-suburbs-homeless-note-20181109-story.html>

STEVE LOPEZ

NOV 25, 2018

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called “The Soloist,” which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez’s television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

Hidden in L.A. suburbia, wrenching poverty preys on children and destroys dreams

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-california-poverty-suburbs-homeless-part1-20181125-htlmstory.html>

STEVE LOPEZ

NOV 25, 2018

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called “The Soloist,” which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez's television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

For the principal with the most homeless students in L.A., the reality of poverty is personal

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-california-poverty-suburbs-homeless-part2-20181126-htmstory.html>

STEVE LOPEZ
NOV 26, 2018

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called “The Soloist,” which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez's television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

Whether home is a van, a motel or a garage, L.A.'s suburban poor children learn to survive

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-california-poverty-suburbs-homeless-part3-20181127-htmstory.html>

STEVE LOPEZ
NOV 27, 2018

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called “The Soloist,” which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez's television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

For children trapped in poverty, breaking free is getting harder

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-california-poverty-suburbs-homeless-part4-20181128-htmstory.html>

STEVE LOPEZ
NOV 28, 2018

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called “The Soloist,” which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez’s television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

Some want to help kids trapped in poverty, while others question why parents had so many children

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-lopez-pacoima-20181202-story.html>

STEVE LOPEZ
DEC 2, 2018

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called “The Soloist,” which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez’s television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

Why shouldn’t the L.A. school system look for places to house homeless families?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/editorials/la-ed-laUSD-homeless-housing-study-20181203-story.html>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
DEC 3, 2018

The Times’ editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

Betsy DeVos was (sort of) right. We should arm teachers — with supplies, support and a livable salary

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-babcock-teachers-20181209-story.html>

NATALIE BABCOCK
DEC 9, 2018

Natalie Babcock is in her second year of teaching elementary school in Los Angeles. She previously worked in early childhood education in the Bay Area. She also hosts Small Tales, a storytelling podcast for children.

Protesters shut down Los Angeles Board of Education meeting

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-los-angeles-school-board-meeting-20181211-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

DEC 11, 2018

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. teachers could strike a few weeks from now. Here's what you need to know

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-parent-guide-teachers-strike-20181213-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

DEC 13, 2018

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Rather than waging a contract war at home, L.A. teachers should take their demands to Sacramento

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-melvoyn-why-laUSD-cannot-meet-utla-demands-20181213-story.html>

NICK MELVOIN

DEC 13, 2018

Nick Melvoin is a former L.A. Unified teacher who has served on the Board of Education since July 2017. Nick's election to the Board in May of 2017 follows a career fighting for our city's schoolchildren. He believes that together, with the right leadership, we can ensure that every student in Los Angeles has the opportunity to succeed. Born and raised on the Westside of LA, Nick served as a seventh and eighth grade English teacher at Markham Middle School, an LAUSD campus in Watts, where he coached soccer and baseball and helped his students launch a school newspaper. At Markham, he saw firsthand how poor governance neglected the needs of our city's most vulnerable students. When he and two-thirds of Markham's teachers lost their jobs due to budget cuts, he fought to be re-hired and worked to end the indiscriminate, seniority-based teacher layoffs that harm so many LA families. As a teacher, Nick joined the ACLU, Mayors Riordan and Villaraigosa, and others to bring a ground-breaking civil rights lawsuit which argued that LA's layoffs violated the rights of students.

Nick holds a Bachelor's degree from Harvard University, a Masters in Urban Education from Loyola Marymount University (LMU), and a law degree from the New York University School of Law, where he was a Root-Tilden-Kern Public Service

Scholar. In addition to serving as a teacher, Nick has worked in the Obama White House with the Domestic Policy Council and the US Attorney's office where he took part in various civil rights investigations as a legal clerk. Prior to his election, Nick led and facilitated efforts by students, parents, teachers, and community members to rethink and shape the future of our city's schools. He also served as an adjunct professor at LMU where he taught a course on Education Law. In working for nonprofits such as Teach Plus and Educators 4 Excellence, Nick helped to improve the support teachers across the state receive before and during their time in the classroom, as well as amplify teacher voice in policy-making. Nick has recently served on the boards of the Los Angeles County Young Democrats, Brentwood Community Council, Teach For America Associates, University Synagogue's Social Justice Committee, and United in Harmony. He is a graduate of the Jewish Federation's New Leaders Project and the New Leaders Council and has chaired the Jewish Federation's Educators' Network. Nick is also proud to serve as a director of Camp Harmony, a camp for homeless and underserved children. His commitment to solving educational inequity was first sparked as a volunteer at Camp Harmony more than sixteen years ago.

Team Trump says it's making school lunches 'great again.' It's making them less healthy

<https://www.latimes.com/lanews-david-lazarus-20130507-staff.html>

DAVID LAZARUS
DEC 14, 2018

David Lazarus is an award-winning business columnist for the Los Angeles Times, focusing on consumer affairs. He also appears daily on KTLA-TV Channel 5 and is a part-time radio host. His work appears in newspapers across the country and has resulted in a variety of laws protecting consumers. Education: University of California, Berkeley, Crossroads School

Thousands of LAUSD teachers march downtown as union moves closer to calling first strike in nearly 30 years

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-ln-teachers-march-20181215-story.html>

SONALI KOHLI
DEC 15, 2018

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Times staff writer Howard Blume contributed to this report.

California's new school rating tool is better, but still flawed

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/editorials/la-ed-california-school-dashboard-20181215-story.html>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
DEC 15, 2018

The Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

L.A. teachers set to strike Jan. 10. Union says it has no plans for more negotiating

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-los-angeles-teachers-strike-20181219-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

DEC 19, 2018

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

A report that offers a path to compromise at L.A. Unified

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/editorials/la-ed-laUSD-contract-20181220-story.html>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

DEC 20, 2018

The Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

L.A. teachers union rallies supporters with call for cap on charter schools

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-teachers-union-charter-cap-20181221-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

DEC 21, 2018

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Will L.A. raise a fist — or shake it — when teachers strike?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-arellano-teachers-strike-20181226-story.html>

GUSTAVO ARELLANO

DEC 26, 2018

Gustavo Arellano is a features writer for the Los Angeles Times, covering Southern California everything and a bunch of the West and beyond. He previously worked at OC Weekly, where he was an investigative reporter for 15 years and editor for six, wrote a column called iAsk a Mexican! and is the author of "Taco USA: How Mexican Food Conquered America." He's the child of two Mexican immigrants, one whom came to this country in the trunk of a Chevy.

Remember the iPads? L.A. Unified needs more transparency and caution on reorganization

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/editorials/la-ed-laUSD-reorganization-20181227-story.html>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

DEC 27, 2018

The Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

Major charter organization says it will sit out March primary for L.A. school board seat

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-school-board-endorsements-20181228-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

DEC 28, 2018

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

If Los Angeles teachers strike, poor students will lose

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-ali-hernandez-ross-teachers-strike-20181228-story.html>

FRED ALI & ANTONIA HERNÁNDEZ & ROBERT K. ROSS

DEC 28, 2018

Fred Ali, President & Chief Executive Officer of Weingart Foundation.

Antonia Hernández, President & Chief Executive Officer of California Community Foundation.

Robert K. Ross, MD, President & Chief Executive Officer of the California Endowment.

Gov.-elect Gavin Newsom will propose almost $2 billion for early childhood programs

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/essential/la-pol-ca-essential-politics-may-2018-gov-elect-gavin-newsom-will-propose-1546395091-htmlstory.html>

JOHN MYERS
SACRAMENTO

JAN 2, 2019

John Myers joined the Los Angeles Times as Sacramento bureau chief in 2015 after more than two decades in radio and television news, much of that as an award-winning reporter covering statehouse policy and politics. During a decade of work for San Francisco's NPR affiliate, his unique online projects included everything from one of Sacramento's original politicsblogs to California's first politics podcast. He also served as the moderator of gubernatorial debates in 2014 and 2010. Often cited by state and national news organizations as one of Sacramento's top journalists, he's a graduate of Duke University and the University of California, Berkeley.

Could last-minute talks and maneuvers forestall a teachers' strike?

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-new-negotiations-teachers-strike-20190103-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

JAN 3, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

If teachers strike in Los Angeles, where will half a million kids go?

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-los-angeles-teachers-strike-parents-preparation-20190104-story.html>

SONALI KOHLI

JAN 4, 2019

SonaliKohli is a reporter covering educationfor the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Times staff reporter Andrea Castillo contributed to this report.

Judge denies L.A. school district's bid to block teachers strike

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-judge-wont-block-teachers-strike-20190105-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

JAN 5, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

The nation's wave of teacher strikes may hit L.A. this week. But here's how ours is different

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-los-angeles-teachers-strike-national-context-20190106-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME & SONALI KOHLI
JAN 6, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Leaders of L.A. school district and teachers union head to church as scheduled strike approaches

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-teachers-strike-approaches-20190106-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
JAN 6, 2018

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Alex Caputo-Pearl: Why Los Angeles teachers may have to strike

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-caputo-pearl-teachers-strike-20190106-story.html>

ALEX CAPUTO-PEARL
JAN 6, 2019

Alex Caputo-Pearl is president of United Teachers Los Angeles. He is an LAUSD parent and previously taught for 22 years in the Compton and Los Angeles school districts.

Newsom unveils a $209-billion budget to boost schools and healthcare and fight poverty

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/la-pol-ca-gavin-newsom-california-budget-20190110-story.html>

JOHN MYERS
SACRAMENTO
JAN 10, 2019

John Myers joined the Los Angeles Times as Sacramento bureau chief in 2015 after more than two decades in radio and television news, much of that as an award-winning reporter covering statehouse policy and politics. During a decade of work for San Francisco's NPR affiliate, his unique online projects included everything from one of Sacramento's original politicsblogs to California's first politics podcast. He also served as the moderator of gubernatorial debates in 2014 and 2010. Often cited by state and national news organizations as one of Sacramento's top journalists, he's a graduate of Duke University and the University of California, Berkeley.

Times staff writers Taryn Luna, Phil Willon, Patrick McGreevy and Melody Gutierrez contributed to this report.

Gavin Newsom's $1.8 billion early education plan deserves credit, but it isn't enough

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-kirp-newsom-early-childhood-education-agenda-20190111-story.html>

DAVID L. KIRP
JAN 11, 2019

David L. Kirp is a contributing opinion writer for The New York Times. A professor of public policy at the University of California, Berkeley, as well as a prolific author and policy adviser, Mr. Kirp has focused on education policy issues, from cradle to college. He writes for national publications, among them The New York Times, The Los Angeles Times, The Nation and the American Prospect, and is a former associate editor at The Sacramento Bee. His 16 books include "Shakespeare, Einstein and the Bottom Line: The Marketing of Higher Education" (2003), "The Sandbox Investment: The Preschool Movement and Kids-First Politics" (2007) and "Kids First: Five Big Ideas for Transforming Children's Lives and America's Future" (2011).

Mr. Kirp was the founding director of the Harvard Center for Law and Education, which filed landmark lawsuits seeking equal educational opportunity. His latest book, "Improbable Scholars: The Rebirth of a Great American School System and a Strategy for America's Schools" (2013), tells the remarkable story of the Union City, N.J., school district, which relied on tried-and-true strategies, not faddish reforms. The American Education Research Association selected it as the year's outstanding book.

Mr. Kirp has lectured at universities around the world and has been the keynote speaker at many national conferences. In 2008, he was a member of President-elect Obama's transition team.

David L. Kirp is a senior fellow at the Learning Policy Institute and an emeritus professor of the School of Public Policy at UC Berkeley.

The long-term problem at L.A. Unified that a strike can't fix

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/editorials/la-ed-laUSD-declining-enrollment-20190112-story.html>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JAN 12, 2019

The Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

L.A. teachers' strike: It's not too late to avert disaster

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-lopez-strike-20190112-story.html>

STEVE LOPEZ
JAN 12, 2019

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called “The Soloist,” which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez’s television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

What to know as LAUSD teachers prepare to strike Monday

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-laUSD-teachers-strike-guide-20190113-story.html>

SONALI KOHLI
JAN 13, 2019

SonaliKohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Times staff reporters Howard Blume, Corina Knoll and Joel Rubin contributed to this report.

L.A. teachers’ strike: How we got here and how we get out

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-lopez-strike-begin-01142019-story.html>

STEVE LOPEZ
JAN 14, 2019

L.A. City Council members rally with teachers on first day of LAUSD strike

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-laUSD-strike-council-members-20190114-story.html>

SAM OMAR HALL & DAKOTA SMITH
JAN 14, 2019

Sam Omar Hall is Multiplatform Editor at the Los Angeles Times. “The thread that ties together my experience in journalism and education is communication. Clear communication is necessary for learning, and learning is necessary if the world is to improve. Whether in text, photo, audio, or video, I strive for clear communication that will engage and educate.”

Dakota Smith covers Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti and City Hall for the city-county bureau. She joined the Los Angeles Times in 2016 & previously covered City Hall for the Los Angeles Daily News. She is a graduate of Lewis & Clark College & lives in Los Angeles.

In L.A. strike, leading Democrats — including presidential hopefuls — side with teachers

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-laUSD-strike-national-politics-20190115-story.html>

DAKOTA SMITH

JAN 15, 2019

Dakota Smith covers Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti and City Hall for the city-county bureau. She joined the Los Angeles Times in 2016 & previously covered City Hall for the Los Angeles Daily News. She is a graduate of Lewis & Clark College & lives in Los Angeles.

Teachers strike at L.A. charter schools too, a first for California

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-laUSD-strike-accelerated-school-20190114-story.html>

DAKOTA SMITH

JAN 15, 2019

Dakota Smith covers Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti and City Hall for the city-county bureau. She joined the Los Angeles Times in 2016 & previously covered City Hall for the Los Angeles Daily News. She is a graduate of Lewis & Clark College & lives in Los Angeles.

No matter how the teachers' strike ends, LAUSD's long-term problems aren't going away

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/editorials/la-ed-laUSD-teachers-strike-long-term-issues-20190119-story.html>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JAN 19, 2019

The Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

Americans are ignoring the creation of a lost generation of children around the world

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-greenberg-crisis-of-childhood-20190122-story.html>

KAREN J. GREENBERG

JAN 22, 2019

Karen J. Greenberg is the director of the Center on National Security at Fordham Law. She is the author of "Rogue Justice: The Making of the Security State." Julia Tedesco helped with research for this article, and a longer version of it appears at TomDispatch.com.

The LAUSD strike may be over, but the real work lies ahead

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/editorials/la-ed-teacher-strike-ends-20190123-story.html>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JAN 23, 2019

The Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

Parents, students celebrate return to routine as L.A. teachers end strike, head back to class

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-teachers-strike-back-to-school-20190123-story.html>

HANNAH FRY & RUBEN VIVES & MATTHEW ORMSETH
JAN 23, 2019

Hannah Fry is the public safety reporter for the Daily Pilot. Before joining the Pilot in August 2013, she had two stints covering Costa Mesa as an intern for the Orange County Register and writing about the restaurant industry for the Fast Food Maven blog. While attending Chapman University, she was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, the Panther. (714) 966-4632

Ruben Vives is a general assignment reporter for the Los Angeles Times. A native of Guatemala, he got his start in journalism by writing for The Times' Homicide Report in 2007. He helped uncover the financial corruption in the city of Bell that led to criminal charges against eight city officials. The 2010 investigative series won the Pulitzer Prize for public service and other prestigious awards.

Matthew Ormseth is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining The Times in 2018, he covered city news and state politics at the Hartford Courant. He grew up in Arcadia and graduated from Cornell University.

Times staff writers Howard Blume and Sonali Kohli contributed to this report.

I'm a charter school teacher. The LAUSD strike made me realize how I'm part of the problem

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-vaca-teacher-strike-20190123-story.html>

RILEY MCDONALD VACA
JAN 23, 2019

Riley McDonald Vaca is a teacher at Camino Nuevo High School and an LAUSD parent. Her views do not represent those of her school's management.

Charity Finds Success in Work With At-Risk Children, but It's Costly

<https://www.nytimes.com/2019/01/25/your-money/friends-of-the-children-charity.html>

PAUL SULLIVAN
WEALTH MATTERS
Jan. 25, 2019

Paul Sullivan writes the Wealth Matters column for The New York Times.

His articles have appeared in Fortune, Money, Conde Nast Portfolio, The International Herald Tribune, Barron's, The Boston Globe, and Food & Wine. From 2000 to 2006, he was a reporter, editor and columnist at the Financial Times.

His first big story for the FT was a profile of the author Kurt Vonnegut based on a train ride they took from Springfield, Massachusetts to New York City. His last piece for the FT was Vonnegut's obituary.

Paul has been interviewed on radio and television programs across America, including NPR, Marketplace, CNN, and Fox News.

Paul lives in Fairfield County, Connecticut, with his family—three members of which have four legs and shed. He received degrees in history from Trinity College and the University of Chicago.

The Thin Green Line: The Money Secrets of The Super Wealthy is Paul's second book. His first was Clutch: Why Some People Excel Under Pressure and Others Don't.

An all-nighter, then a deal to end the L.A. teachers' strike

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-teachers-strike-negotiations-20190127-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME & SONALI KOHLI

JAN 27, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

L.A. plan would guarantee 18 weeks of parental leave

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-ln-parental-leave-20190129-story.html>

EMILY ALPERT REYES

JAN 29, 2019

Emily Alpert Reyes covers City Hall for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported on the census & demographics, tracking how our lives are changing in Los Angeles, California & the country. Before joining The Times, she worked for the pioneering nonprofit news website voiceofsandiego.org, winning national awards for her reporting on education. She has also traveled to Bolivia as a fellow with the International Reporting Project & survived the University of Chicago.

Times staff writer Melody Gutierrez contributed to this report.

The U.S. is the most powerful country. Why are we so far behind Europe on children's well-being?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-alexander-children-health-welfare-20190130-story.html>

DAVID ALEXANDER

JAN 30, 2019

Dr. David Alexander is a practicing pediatrician and an advocate for children for more than three decades. He is currently President of Leading for Kids, which was established in 2018 with initial funding from the Lucile Packard Foundation for Children's Health with the mission to create a society that puts children first.

From 2007 to 2018, David served as President and CEO of the Lucile Packard Foundation for Children's Health, where his many accomplishments included leading the Foundation's fundraising efforts, resulting in more than $800 million raised during his tenure. David also worked to actively engage clinical staff and board members in philanthropy and personally led solicitation efforts resulting in several transformational gifts.

David served as President for Devos Children's Hospital in Grand Rapids, Michigan from 2002 to 2005, directing all aspects of operations including strategic planning, clinical quality, physician alignment and community relations.

For nine years, David was Medical Director and Administrator at Blank Children's Hospital in Des Moines, Iowa. Prior to Blank Children's, he served as Medical Director and Assistant Professor of Pediatrics at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia from 1988 to 1993.

From 1984 to 1988, David served as Assistant Professor of Pediatrics and Director of Inpatient Pediatrics at Thomas Jefferson University, where, in 1987, he was named "Pediatric Faculty Member of the Year."

He has served on numerous boards including The Woodmark Group Board of Directors and Stanford Child Health Research Institute Board of Directors – serving on both from 2010 to 2018. He sits on four editorial boards related to pediatric medicine and is, himself, a published author.

Do charter schools harm traditional public schools? Gov. Newsom wants to find out

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-governor-launches-charter-school-review-20190206-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
FEB 6, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Nearly one in five girls is wed before she turns 18. Think about them on Valentine's Day

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-child-marriage-valentines-day-20190214-story.html>

SIDDHARTH CHATTERJEE
FEB 14, 2019

Siddharth Chatterjee, is the UN Resident Coordinator and the UNDP Resident Representative to Kenya. Before this role he was the UNFPA(United Nations Population Fund) Representative to Kenya. Most of his career has been spent serving in countries affected by conflicts and natural disasters. He has seen firsthand compelling human tragedies and triumphs. He was the Chief Diplomat at the International Federation of the Red Cross & Red Crescent Societies from 2011 to 2014. Before joining the IFRC, he had served with the United Nations in Peace Keeping, UNICEF and UNOPS since January 1997. He has lived and worked in the US, Denmark, Iraq, Iraqi Kurdistan, Jordan, Somalia, Kenya, Sudan(Darfur), Indonesia, South Sudan, Bosnia & Herzegovina. In South Sudan, he negotiated the release and demobilized 3551 child soldiers from the Sudan People's Liberation Army. This demobilization of child soldiers was attempted during an ongoing conflict in 2001. He is a graduate in Public Policy from the Woodrow Wilson School for Public & International Affairs in Princeton University, USA. Prior to joining the UN in January 1997, he had served in the Indian Army in a Special Forces unit. He was decorated for gallantry during active service. He tries to keep the spotlight on things that adversely effect humanity through his editorials and opinion pieces. He writes on issues spanning polio eradication, food security, child soldiers, sexual and gender based violence, water and sanitation, public health and human development. His articles have featured in the Huffington Post, CNN, Al Jazeera, the Guardian, Forbes, Reuters, the Global Observatory as well as mainstream Indian journals like the Times of India, the Hindu and the First Post. All his articles can be found in his blog site. He has been interviewed by the Inter Press Service, BBC, Forbes, NPR, VOA, Global Observatory and UNICEF Radio. A full list of his press mentions and interviews are here. He has been a keynote speaker at a TED x event in Spain and at the Institute of Cultural Diplomacy. A husband and a dad, he dotes on his son. He also enjoys running, parachuting, biking, SCUBA diving, poetry, current affairs and English literature.

L.A. school board signals support for an education tax increase this year

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-lausd-parcel-tax-20190226-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
FEB 26, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Surrounded

Killings near school, and the students left behind

HTTPS://WWW.LATIMES.COM/PROJECTS/LA-ME-EDU-SCHOOL-SAFETY/

SONALI KOHLI & IRIS LEE
FEB 26, 2019

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Iris Lee is a Metpro trainee and data journalist at the Los Angeles Times Data Desk. She previously reported for the San Fernando Valley Business Journal, covering healthcare and law. She graduated from the University of Southern California with a master's in journalism and holds chemistry and international studies degrees from UC Irvine.

SERIES: #1

This series is a product of The Homicide Report, The Times' effort to tell the story of every homicide victim in Los Angeles County.

The project was written and reported by Sonali Kohli. The photography is by Marcus Yam. Iris Lee and Priya Krishnakumar provided the data analysis, graphics and digital production. The idea for the series came from former Times writer Jerome Campbell, who, along with Nicole Santa Cruz, also contributed to reporting.

The Times' Homicide Report compiled deaths by reviewing records from the Los Angeles County Medical Examiner-Coroner's office. The Times used the coroner's definition of homicide, which includes any death of a human being caused by another. This includes criminal homicides as well as justifiable homicides by civilians acting in self-defense.

Information about Los Angeles County's 295 public high schools, including location and student demographics, were obtained from the California Department of Education.

The Times then developed a custom computer program to identify homicides within a one-mile radius of each school. Schools were only included if they were open for the full duration of the study, which examined all killings in the past five years.

The computer code that conducted the analysis is available for review as open-source software.

Kohli worked on this project while participating in the USC Annenberg Center for Health Journalism's 2018 California Fellowship.

What it's like to go to school when dozens have been killed nearby

HTTPS://WWW.LATIMES.COM/PROJECTS/LA-ME-EDU-SCHOOL-SAFETY-DEATHS-NEARBY/

SONALI KOHLI & IRIS LEE

FEB 27, 2019

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Iris Lee is a Metpro trainee and data journalist at the Los Angeles Times Data Desk. She previously reported for the San Fernando Valley Business Journal, covering healthcare and law. She graduated from the University of Southern California with a master's in journalism and holds chemistry and international studies degrees from UC Irvine.

SERIES: #2

Resources for students and families affected by violence near schools

<https://www.latimes.com/projects/la-me-edu-school-safety-resources/>

SONALI KOHLI & IRIS LEE

FEB 27, 2019

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Iris Lee is a Metpro trainee and data journalist at the Los Angeles Times Data Desk. She previously reported for the San Fernando Valley Business Journal, covering healthcare and law. She graduated from the University of Southern California with a master's in journalism and holds chemistry and international studies degrees from UC Irvine.

SERIES: #3

L.A. councilman floats idea of ballot measure to fund child care

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-ln-child-care-20190227-story.html>

EMILY ALPERT REYES

FEB 27, 2017

Emily Alpert Reyes covers City Hall for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported on the census & demographics, tracking how our lives are changing in Los Angeles, California & the country. Before joining The Times, she worked for the pioneering nonprofit news website voiceofsandiego.org, winning national awards for her reporting on education. She has also traveled to Bolivia as a fellow with the International Reporting Project & survived the University of Chicago.

A NEW DIRECTION HOME

<https://argonautnews.com/a-new-direction-home-2/>

GARY WALKER

FEB 27, 2019

Gary Walker is a reporter for The Argonaut: I have covered City Hall, municipal, county state and national elections. Environmental, education, explanatory and investigative reporting are also a part of my portfolio. We cover a district that has a plethora of newsmakers and we have been at the forefront of informing our readers with solid, old-school journalism combined with new 21st century style technology. I won the highest education award that a California reporter can win, the John Swett Award for Media Excellence, in 2008.

L.A. school board asks property owners to show support with more tax money

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-laUSD-parcel-tax-20190228-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

FEB 28, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Monyae's story

When a killing near school hits home

<https://www.latimes.com/projects/la-me-edu-school-safety-monyae/>

SONALI KOHLI & IRIS LEE

FEB 28, 2019

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Iris Lee is a Metpro trainee and data journalist at the Los Angeles Times Data Desk. She previously reported for the San Fernando Valley Business Journal, covering healthcare and law. She graduated from the University of Southern California with a master's in journalism and holds chemistry and international studies degrees from UC Irvine.

SERIES: #4

How should journalists write about killings near schools? The students weigh in

<https://www.latimes.com/projects/la-me-edu-school-safety-students-weigh-in/>

SONALI KOHLI & IRIS LEE

FEB 28, 2019

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Iris Lee is a Metpro trainee and data journalist at the Los Angeles Times Data Desk. She previously reported for the San Fernando Valley Business Journal, covering healthcare and law. She graduated from the University of Southern California with a master's in journalism and holds chemistry and international studies degrees from UC Irvine.

SERIES: #5

Newsom fast-tracks legislation to hold charter schools to same standards as public schools

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/la-pol-ca-charter-school-transparency-20190228-story.html>

TARYN LUNA
SACRAMENTO

FEB 28, 2019

Taryn Luna covers state government and politics in Sacramento. Prior to joining the Los Angeles Times in 2018, Luna covered the California Legislature and lobbying industry for The Sacramento Bee. She previously wrote about retail for The Boston Globe and worked as a general assignment reporter for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. Luna grew up in Dixon, a small town in Northern California, and graduated from Oregon State University.

Times staff writer Phil Willon contributed to this report.

L.A. school board seat could tip political scales on charter movement

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-laUSD-school-board-race-20190304-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

MAR 4, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Eli Broad weighs in at last minute with $100,000 donation in L.A. school board race

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-eli-broad-laUSD-school-board-election-20190307-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

MAR 7, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

A charter school report card: They cause problems. But for many families they're the solution

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-lopez-schools-charters-20190308-story.html>

STEVE LOPEZ

MAR 9, 2019

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called "The Soloist," which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez's television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

How a couple worked charter school regulations to make millions

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-charter-schools-20190327-htmlstory.html>

ANNA M. PHILLIPS

MAR 27, 2019

Anna M. Phillips is an environmental policy reporter based in the Los Angeles Times' Washington, D.C., bureau. Before joining The Times, she worked for the Tampa Bay Times, the New York Times and Chalkbeat New York. She grew up in a suburb of Philadelphia and graduated from Columbia University.

Zahira Torres, a former Times staff writer, contributed to this report.

Do you know what a charter school is? Are you sure? See video here.

Small districts reap big profits by approving charter schools with little oversight

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-charter-school-fees-20190328-story.html>

ANNA M. PHILLIPS

Mar 28, 2019

Anna M. Phillips is an environmental policy reporter based in the Los Angeles Times' Washington, D.C., bureau. Before joining The Times, she worked for the Tampa Bay Times, the New York Times and Chalkbeat New York. She grew up in a suburb of Philadelphia and graduated from Columbia University.

California's broken charter school law has defied reform.

Can Newsom break the gridlock?

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-charter-school-policy-paralysis-20190329-story.html>

ANNA M. PHILLIPS

MAR 29, 2019

Anna M. Phillips is an environmental policy reporter based in the Los Angeles Times' Washington, D.C., bureau. Before joining The Times, she worked for the Tampa Bay Times, the New York Times and Chalkbeat New York. She grew up in a suburb of Philadelphia and graduated from Columbia University.

Garcetti, in yearly address, pushes new tax to support L.A. schools

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-ln-mayor-eric-garcetti-state-of-the-city-20190417-story.html>

DAVID ZAHNISER & HOWARD BLUME & DAKOTA SMITH

APR 17, 2019

David Zahniser covers Los Angeles City Hall for the City-County bureau. He joined the Los Angeles Times in 2007 and previously wrote on local government for the Claremont Courier, Pasadena Star-News, the Daily Breeze, the L.A. Weekly and the San Diego Union-Tribune. He is a graduate of Pomona College and lives in Los Angeles.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Dakota Smith covers Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti and City Hall for the city-county bureau. She joined the Los Angeles Times in 2016 & previously covered City Hall for the Los Angeles Daily News. She is a graduate of Lewis & Clark College & lives in Los Angeles.

Times staff writer Dakota Smith contributed to this report.

Give teachers more money. The raises will pay for themselves

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-startz-teacher-raises-20190417-story.html>

DICK STARTZ

APR 17, 2019

Dick Startz is an economics professor at UC Santa Barbara and author of "Profit of Education."

Teachers union and Eli Broad — usually foes — unite behind parcel tax for L.A. schools

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-laUSD-parcel-tax-unites-foes-20190419-htmllstory.html>

HOWARD BLUME & SONALI KOHLI
APR 19, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

California probation chiefs brace for changes to the juvenile justice system

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/la-pol-ca-probation-juvenile-justice-20190421-story.html>

JAZMINE ULLOA
APR 21, 2019

Jazmine Ulloa covers California state politics and policy for the Los Angeles Times and is based in Sacramento. A native of El Paso, she covered state and federal courts for the Austin American-Statesman in the Texas capital. Her work has appeared in Texas Monthly, the Texas Observer and the Boston Globe. She is a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin.

Times reporter Matt Stiles contributed to this report.

Candid conversation about race

<http://news.mit.edu/2019/beverly-daniel-tatum-conversation-race-0422>

PETER DIZIKES
April 22, 2019

Peter Dizikes is the social sciences, business, and humanities writer at the MIT News Office.

L.A. students are already activists. Now they want to vote at 16.

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-laUSD-teen-voting-20190423-story.html>

SONALI KOHLI
APR 23, 2019

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

How to make high schools better for students

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-mehta-fine-education-high-school-excellence-20190426-story.html>

JAL MEHTA & SARAH FINE
APR 26, 2019

Jal Mehta is an associate professor at the Harvard Graduate School of Education. His research explores the role of different forms of knowledge in tackling major social and political problems, particularly problems of human improvement. He has also written extensively on what it would take to improve American education, with a particular focus on the professionalization of teaching. Jal is the author of The Allure of Order: High Hopes, Dashed Expectations and the Troubled Quest to Remake American Schooling (New York: Oxford University Press, 2013) and the co-editor of The Futures of School Reform (Cambridge: Harvard Education Press, 2012). He is currently working on two projects: In Search of Deeper Learning, a contemporary study of schools, systems, and nations that are seeking to produce ambitious instruction (co-authored with Sarah Fine); and The Chastened Dream, a history of the effort to link social science with social policy to achieve social progress. He is co-editor of the Learning Deeply blog at Education Week, and in 2014 was the top-ranked junior faculty scholar in the Rick Hess Education Week rankings. He is also the winner of the Morningstar Teaching Award at the Harvard Graduate School of Education. He was recently awarded a Radcliffe Fellowship and will be on sabbatical for the 2016-17 academic year.

Sarah Fine is Program Director, High Tech High GSE Teaching Apprenticeship. She recently earned her doctorate from the Harvard Graduate School of Education, where she collaborated with Associate Professor Jal Mehta on a long-term ethnographic study of secondary schools that are striving to enact deeper learning for all of their students. Prior to starting her doctoral studies, she worked as a teacher, department chair, and instructional coach at an urban charter high school in the District of Columbia, and as a freelance education journalist. Her work has appeared in a diverse array of publications, including the Washington Post, Education Week, and academic journals such as the Harvard Educational Review. Her co-authored book, In Search of Deeper Learning: Inside the Effort to Remake the American High School is forthcoming from Harvard University Press in 2018.

California is weighing bills — some helpful, others vicious — to rein in charter schools

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/editorials/la-ed-charter-school-bills-20190429-story.html>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
APR 29, 2019

The Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

Last-minute changes to ballot language could create problems for L.A. schools tax measure

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-edu-laUSD-parcel-tax-mistake-20190502-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
MAY 2, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Beutner's changes to ballot language spark debate over parcel tax for L.A. schools

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-debate-over-lausd-parcel-tax-changes-20190503-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

MAY 3, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

In L.A. Unified elementary schools, library books could be off-limits to many students

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-lopez-lausd-libraries-20190504-story.html>

STEVE LOPEZ

MAY 4, 2019

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called "The Soloist," which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez's television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

L.A. school board to vote on exempting garages from education tax

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-school-parcel-tax-controversy-20190507-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

MAY 7, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on

KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. school board votes to exempt garages from education tax

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-school-parcel-tax-controversy-20190507-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
MAY 7, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Let 16-year-olds vote for L.A. school board

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/op-ed/la-oe-mcdonald-school-board-voting-age-16-20190508-story.html>

MICHAEL McDONALD
MAY 8, 2019

Dr. Michael P. McDonald is Associate Professor of Political Science at University of Florida where he studies voter turnout and American elections, and a Non-Resident Senior Fellow at the Brookings Institution. He received his Ph.D. in Political Science from University of California, San Diego and B.S. in Economics from California Institute of Technology. He held a one-year post-doc fellowship at Harvard University and previously taught at George Mason University, Vanderbilt University, and University of Illinois, Springfield.

Vote yes on Measure EE, the parcel tax to increase L.A. schools funding

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/endorsements/la-ed-endorsement-measure-ee-20190510-story.html>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
MAY 10, 2019

The Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

Two elections affecting L.A. schools make for strange bedfellows

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-laUSD-elections-strange-money-trail-20190513-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
MAY 11, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

In majority-Latino LAUSD, this election will tip the board mostly white

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-lausd-district-5-latinos-20190512-story.html>

ALEJANDRA REYES-VELARDE & SONALI KOHLI

MAY 12, 2019

Alejandra Reyes-Velarde started as a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times in 2017. She previously wrote for the San Francisco Business Times and covered local news and crime for the Sacramento Bee. She received her bachelor's degree in communication studies from UCLA, where she worked at the student-run Daily Bruin. Originally from Duarte, Calif., Reyes is a native Spanish speaker.

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Times staff writers Ben Welsh and Howard Blume contributed to this report.

California's education funding is at a record high. So why are schools short on cash?

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/la-pol-ca-road-map-california-school-funding-shortfall-20190512-story.html>

JOHN MYERS
SACRAMENTO

MAY 12, 2019

John Myers joined the Los Angeles Times as Sacramento bureau chief in 2015 after more than two decades in radio and television news, much of that as an award-winning reporter covering statehouse policy and politics. During a decade of work for San Francisco's NPR affiliate, his unique online projects included everything from one of Sacramento's original politics blogs to California's first politics podcast. He also served as the moderator of gubernatorial debates in 2014 and 2010. Often cited by state and national news organizations as one of Sacramento's top journalists, he's a graduate of

Ron Finley Plants Vegetable Gardens in South Central LA in abandoned lots & traffic medians & along curbs as alternative to fast food

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=EzZzZ_qpZ4w&feature=share&fbclid=IwAR1wRc19pck7K_FRhO4UT681G9EKi_KVO564JTuDoeat17QJdWUKJUvTrmw

KAYLA JASMINE DEFOREST

May 13, 2019

Kayla Jasmine DeForest is a grandniece of Joe Murphy, chair of Venice Neighborhood Council's DFC Focus on Children Committee.

Jackie Goldberg's win changes LAUSD equation for unions, charters and Beutner

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-laUSD-board-election-analysis-20190516-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
MAY 16, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. County juvenile halls are so chaotic, officers are afraid to go to work

<https://www.latimes.com/local/countygovernment/la-me-juvenile-halls-chaos-pepper-spray-detention-probation-20190519-story.html>

MATT STILES
MAY 19, 2019

Matt Stiles is a senior reporter for the Los Angeles Times who combines traditional reporting with computer programming, data analysis and data visualization to find and tell compelling stories about the state. He previously covered Los Angeles County, the nation's largest local municipal government, after reporting on North and South Korea in Seoul for the newspaper's foreign desk. Prior to joining The Times, Stiles wrote about national economics at the Wall Street Journal, served as data editor at NPR and was the founding news applications editor at the Texas Tribune. He lives in Los Angeles. Contact him confidentially using the Signal smartphone app: (202) 670-8742.

Goldberg joins L.A. Unified school board, immediately challenges aid to charter schools

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-goldberg-joins-laUSD-board-20190521-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
MAY 21, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Youths focused on gun violence prevention hope ads speak Louder Than Guns

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-teen-gun-violence-prevention-20190527-story.html>

SONALI KOHLI
MAY 27, 2019

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Online charter schools in L.A. and San Diego counties to close after indictments

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-ln-edu-charter-school-indictments-20190528-story.html>

KRISTEN TAKETA & MORGAN COOK & JACLYN COSGROVE
MAY 28, 2019

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

Morgan Cook is a member of the investigative reporting team at The San Diego Union-Tribune. She was named journalist of the year in 2017 by the local Society of Professional Journalists for a series of stories uncovering tens of thousands of dollars of improper campaign spending by Rep. Duncan Hunter. Cook has also worked at the North County Times and The Orange County Register.

Jaclyn Cosgrove is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. Previously, she worked as the health reporter at the Oklahoman. She was selected for a 2015-16 Rosalynn Carter Fellowship for Mental Health Journalism. For her fellowship project, she explored the barriers that low-income, uninsured people with mental illnesses face in finding treatment. Cosgrove is originally from Arpelar, Okla., and graduated from Oklahoma State University.

Taketa and Cook write for the San Diego Union-Tribune and reported from San Diego. Cosgrove reported from Los Angeles.

Plans to impose a moratorium on new California charter schools stall in Sacramento

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/la-pol-ca-charter-school-moratorium-california-delayed-20190529-story.html>

JOHN MYERS
SACRAMENTO
MAY 29, 2019

John Myers joined the Los Angeles Times as Sacramento bureau chief in 2015 after more than two decades in radio and television news, much of that as an award-winning reporter covering statehouse policy and politics. During a decade of work for San Francisco's NPR affiliate, his unique online projects included everything from one of Sacramento's original politics blogs to California's first politics podcast. He also served as the moderator of gubernatorial debates in 2014 and 2010. Often cited by state and national news organizations as one of Sacramento's top journalists, he's a graduate of Duke University and the University of California, Berkeley.

Measure EE will cost you a few bucks. Its failure could cost you more

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-lopez-measure-ee-school-funding-20190529-story.html>

STEVE LOPEZ
MAY 29, 2019

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called “The Soloist,” which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez’s television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

California’s state universities are a path to mobility and tuition needs to be free

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/la-pol-sac-skelton-college-tuition-20190530-story.html>

GEORGE SKELTON
SACRAMENTO
MAY 30, 2019

Political columnist George Skelton has covered government and politics for more than 50 years and for The Times since 1974. He has been a Times political writer and editor in Los Angeles, Sacramento bureau chief and White House correspondent. He has written a column on California politics, “Capitol Journal,” since 1993. Skelton is a Santa Barbara native, grew up in Ojai and received a journalism degree at San Jose State.

LAUSD says it needs the Measure EE tax. Skeptics say the district has a spending problem

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-laUSD-property-tax-hike-pitch-20190602-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
JUN 2, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He’s won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts “Deadline L.A.” on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Vote yes on Measure EE today to increase funding for public school students

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/endorsements/la-ed-measure-ee-redux-20190604-story.html>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JUN 4, 2019

The Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

Parcel tax for L.A. schools is latest ask of taxpayers

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-laUSD-measure-ee-election-20190604-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

JUN 4, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

A political disaster: How Measure EE, L.A. schools tax hike, failed so badly

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-property-tax-laUSD-explainer-20190605-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME

JUN 5, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

A shrug from voters to struggling L.A. schools, and have a nice summer, kids

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-lopez-laUSD-school-tax-vote-201906-story.html>

STEVE LOPEZ

JUN 5, 2019

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called "The Soloist," which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez's television reporting for public station

KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

After failed funding campaign, L.A. Unified chief outlines budget plan

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-laUSD-budget-troubles-20190606-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
JUN 6, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Failure of L.A. school tax measure could put resources and alliances to the test

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-laUSD-property-tax-election-analysis-20190606-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
JUN 6, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

California moves toward new limits on charter schools

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-charter-school-task-force-report-20190610-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
JUN 10, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

This election was a bigger rout than the Measure EE failure; readers vote 9 to 1 against columnist

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-lopez-laUSD-measureee-20190612-story.html>

STEVE LOPEZ

JUN 12, 2019

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called “The Soloist,” which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez’s television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

L.A. Unified board votes to end random student searches

<https://www.latimes.com/local/education/la-me-edu-random-searches-laUSD-20190618-story.html>

SONALI KOHLI

JUN 18, 2018

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

The California lottery, public schools and the mystery of the ‘missing’ money

<https://www.latimes.com/local/california/la-me-lopez-lottery-schools-funding20190619-story.html>

STEVE LOPEZ

JUN 18, 2019

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called “The Soloist,” which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez’s television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

EDUCATION

What If Teachers Didn’t Focus So Much on Individual Achievement?

<https://www.theatlantic.com/education/archive/2019/06/how-black-teachers-segregated-district-teach-civics/591856/>

KRISTINA RIZGA

JUNE 2019

KRISTINA RIZGA is a writer based in San Francisco. She is the author of Mission High: One School, How Experts Tried to Fail It, and the Students and Teachers Who Made It Triumph. She writes articles for The Atlantic.

L.A. leaders say Trump proposal would boot thousands of immigrants from public housing

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-hud-immigrant-families-20190626-story.html>

ANDREA CASTILLO
JUN 28, 2019

Andrea Castillo covers immigration and central L.A. communities. Before joining the Los Angeles Times, she covered immigrant, ethnic and LGBT issues for the Fresno Bee. She got her start at the Oregonian in Portland. A native of Seattle, she's been making her way down the West Coast since her graduation from Washington State University.

L.A. charter schools' grand plans: Take back mayor's office, sue school district, battle teachers union

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-secret-plan-for-charters-20190702-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
JUL 2, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Memo to charter leaders: 'It's better to be feared than loved. Right now we are neither'

<https://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-edu-charter-leaders-confidential-planning-20190702-story.html>

HOWARD BLUME
JUL 2, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Law enforcement seizes records of closed L.A. charter school

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-07-17/law-enforcement-seizes-records-of-closed-charter-school>

HOWARD BLUME
JUL 17, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Get children out of cages at the border and into school

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-07-17/children-border-detention-education>

LAUREN MARKHAM & THI BUI
JUL 18, 2019

Lauren Markham is the author of "The Far Away Brothers: Two Young Migrants and the Making of an American Life."

Thi Bui is the author of the illustrated memoir "The Best We Could Do," about her family's experience as refugees from Vietnam.

California's proposed new ethnic studies curriculum is jargon-filled and all-too-PC

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-08-02/californias-new-ethnic-studies-curriculum>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
AUG 4, 2019

The Times' editorial board [190721 modification: ,in consultation with the publisher,] determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

HS INSIDER Los Angeles Times

<https://highschool.latimes.com/about-us/>

MOLLY HEBER & ISABELLA BALANDRAN & KEVIN CAMARGO
AUG 4, 2019

Molly Heber is the newest addition to the HS Insider team. As the Project Lead, Molly seeks out every opportunity to work alongside young people to elevate their voices through education, the arts and civic engagement. Prior to joining the LA Times, she worked with students, educators and schools across Los Angeles to ensure greater access to college and career-readiness supports and the arts. She holds a bachelor's degree from the University of California at Davis and a Master of Education from Harvard Graduate School of Education. Molly loves to travel, but deep down is all about California, having lived in Northern, Central and Southern California throughout her life.

Isabella Balandran is a Co-Lead Producer for HS Insider and is a journalism major at Orange Coast College. After interning with HS Insider the summer before her senior year at Mater Dei, Isabella discovered and fostered her passion for journalism. Between running the backend of HS Insider and serving as an editor on her school newspaper, Isabella enjoys keeping up with news, watching live music and spending time with her family and dogs.

Kevin Camargo is a Co-Lead Producer for HS Insider and is a transfer student at the University of Southern California from East Los Angeles College. He has been part of HSI since 2015 and has worked for HSI since summer 2017. Kevin is a South East High School alumnus and former Editor-in-Chief of his school paper, The Jaguar Times. He is from the city of South Gate and enjoys covering his city through multimedia pieces. He was the online editor for ELAC Campus News, and plans to be the multimedia editor at the Daily Trojan. He considers himself the human-life Spotify because he can listen and jam out to any type of music. From Karaoke Night with the family to dancing in quinceañeras, music is a big part of his life. Do you — or your students — have important stories to tell? Are you reporting on topics that you believe deserve a larger audience? Do you want to sharpen your multimedia skills?

For our kids, the white guy with a gun is the face of terrorism

<https://www.latimes.com/entertainment-arts/story/2019-08-05/el-paso-domestic-terrorism-white-guy-with-a-gun-this-generations-face-of-terrorism>

MARY MCNAMARA
CULTURE COLUMNIST AND CRITIC
AUG. 6, 2019

Mary McNamara is a culture columnist and critic for the Los Angeles Times. Previously she was assistant managing editor for arts and entertainment following a 12-year stint as television critic and senior culture editor. A Pulitzer Prize winner in 2015 and finalist for criticism in 2013 and 2014, she has won various awards for criticism and feature writing. She is the author of the Hollywood mysteries “Oscar Season” and “The Starlet.” She lives in La Crescenta with her husband, three children and two dogs.

Is California’s draft ethnic studies curriculum anti-Semitic?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-08-09/ethnic-studies-curriculum-california-anti-semitism>

KAREN KLEIN
AUG 9, 2019

Karin Klein is a former editorial writer who covered education, environment, food and science. She was the 2006-07 winner of the Eugene C. Pulliam Fellowship for Editorial Writers and a 2012 Logan Environmental Journalism fellow. She leads interpretive hikes as a volunteer naturalist and is the author of the 2010 book “50 Hikes in Orange County.” Klein has worked at The Times since 1989. She attended Wellesley College and UC Berkeley and is an adjunct professor of journalism at Chapman University. She left The Times in 2015.

Inspire charter schools spread across California as critics warn of performance, financial concerns

<https://www.sandiegouniontribune.com/news/education/story/2019-08-10/inspire-charter-schools-spread-across-california-as-critics-warn-of-performance-financial-concerns>

KRISTEN TAKETA
AUG 11, 2019

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

Public records raise questions about financial and organizational issues in the charter school network.

Fighting school segregation, not in the American South, but in Sausalito

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-08-12/sausalito-school-segregation-becerra-settlement>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

AUG 13, 2019

The Times' editorial board [190721 modification: ,in consultation with the publisher,] determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

Cisheteropatriarchy. Hxrstory. The language of ethnic studies, explained

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-08-12/ethnic-studies-california-glossary>

HOWARD BLUME & NINA AGRAWAL

AUG 13, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFF, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

Ethnic studies may soon be mandatory. Can California get it right?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-08-12/california-ethnic-studies-curriculum>

HOWARD BLUME & NINA AGRAWAL

AUG 13, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFF, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

A new ranking system for L.A. schools? Board to consider 1-to-5 scale

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-08-13/lausd-schools-ranked>

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 14, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Sonali Kohli contributed to this report.

Push for Ethnic Studies in Schools Faces a Dilemma: Whose Stories to Tell https://www.nytimes.com/2019/08/15/us/california-ethnic-studies.html?em_pos=small&ref=headline&nl_art=2&te=1&nl=race-related&emc=edit_rr_20190817?campaign_id=37&instance_id=11720&segment_id=16254&user_id=860a29e9588186d1fda414c1301ea770®i_id=91707234emc=edit_rr_20190817

DANA GOLDSTEIN

AUG. 15, 2019

Dana Goldstein is a national correspondent for The New York Times, writing about how education policies impact families, students and teachers across the country. She is the author of the bestselling "The Teacher Wars: A History of America's Most Embattled Profession," and a two-time finalist for The Livingston Award.

Homeless kids, chronic absenteeism, frustrated parents: L.A. Unified is back to school and trying to help

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-08-19/la-unified-back-to-school-seeking-help-usd-first-day-of-school>

HOWARD BLUME & SONALI KOHLI & NINA AGRAWAL

AUG 20, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas

Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

Will changes to California's ethnic studies curriculum weaken it? That's what some activists and educators say

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-08-20/will-changes-to-californias-ethnic-studies-curriculum-weaken-it>

ALEX WIGGLESWORTH
AUG 21, 2019

Alex Wigglesworth is a staff writer at the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2016, she was a general assignment reporter for the Philadelphia Inquirer, Daily News and Philly.com. A Philadelphia native, she graduated from the University of Pennsylvania with a degree in medical anthropology & global health. She currently lives in Inglewood.

Ethnic studies bill delayed a year in California amid controversy

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-08-22/california-ethnic-studies-california-bill-delayed>

HOWARD BLUME & NINA AGRAWAL
AUG 22, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

My high school students don't read any more. I think I know why

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-08-22/death-of-reading-high-school-cellphone>

JEREMY ADAMS
AUG 23, 2019

Jeremy Adams is the author of "Riding the Wave: Teacher Strategies for Navigating Change and Strengthening Key Relationships", recipient of the Jim Burke Rising Star Teaching Award and founder of the Earl Warren Cup Constitutional Competition. He teaches political science at Bakersfield High School and California State University, Bakersfield. Mr. Adams was named "2012 Kern County Teacher of the Year" and won the 2012 Beautiful Bakersfield award in Education. He lives in Central California with his wife and three children.

A battle over California charter schools ends — for now — with a deal in Sacramento

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-08-28/california-charter-schools-deal-sacramento>

TARYN LUNA
SACRAMENTO
AUG 28, 2019

Taryn Luna covers state government and politics in Sacramento. Prior to joining the Los Angeles Times in 2018, Luna covered the California Legislature and lobbying industry for The Sacramento Bee. She previously wrote about retail for The Boston Globe and worked as a general assignment reporter for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. Luna grew up in Dixon, a small town in Northern California, and graduated from Oregon State University.

They were homeless. I took them in. Would you?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-08-30/homeless-los-angeles-a-safe-place-host-home>

ANNABELLE GURWITCH
SEP 1, 2019

Actor and writer Annabelle Gurwitch is working on a new collection of essays, "You're Leaving When?" This op-ed was underwritten by a grant from the Economic Hardship Reporting Project.

California expands ban on 'willful defiance' suspensions in schools

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-09-10/school-suspension-willful-defiance-california>

NINA AGRAWAL
SEP 10, 2019

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

Times staff writer Sonali Kohli contributed to this report.

Would starting school later in the day actually help teens? Let's find out before making a rash decision

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-09-20/starting-high-school-later-legislation-california> THE TIMES

EDITORIAL BOARD

SEP 20, 2019

The Times' editorial board [190721 modification: ,in consultation with the publisher,] determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

A tiny Marin County district got California's first school desegregation order in 50 years

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-09-21/desegregation-order-sausalito-marin-county>

JAMES RAINEY
SEP 22, 2019

James Rainey has covered multiple presidential elections, the war in Iraq, the foster care system and the environment. He was part of L.A. Times teams that won Pulitzer Prizes for coverage of wildfires, the 1994 Northridge earthquake and the 1997 North Hollywood shootout. He wrote the twice-weekly column, "On the Media." He also reported on the film industry for Variety and on climate change for NBC News.

New UCLA institute will study — and spread — kindness

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-09-24/ucla-bedari-kindness-institute-launch>

TERESA WATANABE
SEP 25, 2019

Teresa Watanabe covers education for the Los Angeles Times. Since joining the Times in 1989, she has covered immigration, ethnic communities, religion, Pacific Rim business and served as Tokyo correspondent and bureau chief. She also covered Asia, national affairs and state government for the San Jose Mercury News and wrote editorials for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. A Seattle native, she graduated from USC in journalism and in East Asian languages and culture.

Time for accountability in L.A. County juvenile justice

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-09-27/la-county-probation-accountability>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
SEP 29, 2019

The Times' editorial board [190721 modification: ; in consultation with the publisher,] determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

California Schools Can No Longer Suspend K-8 Students for Using Phones

<https://pressfrom.info/us/news/us/-332370-california-schools-can-no-longer-suspend-students-for-being-on-their-phones-now-what.html>

NINA AGRAWAL & SONALI KOHLI
OCT 1, 2019

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas

Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Can charter and public schools share space without fights? LAUSD's $5.5-million solution

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-10-02/charter-schools-campus-sharing-grants>

HOWARD BLUME

OCT 2, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

The Lost Kids Of Venice Neverland - USC Film School Grad Screens Her Documentary About Homeless Youth — Made When She Was One Of Them

<https://argonautnews.com/the-lost-kids-of-venice-neverland/>

Posted by The Argonaut | Oct 2, 2019 | Arts & Events, Featured this Week | 1 |

CHRISTINA CAMPODONICO

OCT 2, 2019

Christina Campodonico is a Los Angeles-based arts & multimedia journalist with a specialty in dance writing. Her writings have appeared in the Los Angeles Times, @ This Stage, The Daily Princetonian and The Argonaut, where she is the Arts & Events Editor. Her writing mentors have included Pulitzer Prize-winning music critic Tim Page, New York Times dance writer Claudia La Rocco, L.A. Times film critic Kenneth Turan, veteran entertainment reporter Mary Murphy and L.A. dance critic Sasha Anawalt.

She graduated summa cum laude from Princeton University, where she studied English and Dance, and attended USC's Annenberg School for Communication & Journalism on a full Annenberg Fellowship. At USC she co-founded the Media Center's dedicated arts & culture online newsmagazine and podcast Ampersand, whose season finale won Best College Radio Broadcast at the 2016 Broadcast Education Association Awards. Upon graduation, Christina received the Outstanding Journalism Student in the Arts award and jumped straight into arts reporting and criticism in her native SoCal. She has been nominated for two L.A. Press Club awards. Christina enjoys reading, writing and watching other people perform.

Only half of California students meet English standards and fewer meet math standards, test scores show

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-10-09/california-school-test-scores-2019>

SONALI KOHLI
OCT 9, 2019

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Long Beach school locking playground for student safety, but at what cost?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-10-09/lopez-column-long-beach-school-locking-playground>

STEVE LOPEZ
OCT 9, 2019

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called “The Soloist,” which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez’s television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

State will audit Inspire charter school network for alleged fraud

<https://www.sandiegouniontribune.com/news/education/story/2019-10-09/state-agency-will-audit-inspire-charter-school-network-for-alleged-fraud>

KRISTEN TAKETA
OCT 9, 2019

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

Medical marijuana OK at K-12 schools in California after Gov. Newsom signs new law

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-10-10/gov-newsom-signs-new-law-allowing-medical-marijuana-at-k12-schools>

PATRICK MCGREEVY
OCT 10, 2019

Patrick McGreevy covers the California Legislature out of the Sacramento bureau. Since joining the Los Angeles Times in 1998, he has worked in the City Hall and San Fernando Valley bureaus, writing about subjects including Valley secession, LAPD reform and city government during the administrations of Mayors Richard Riordan, James Hahn and Antonio Villaraigosa. He is a native of San Diego and a graduate of San Jose State University.

California becomes first state in the country to push back school start times

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-10-13/california-first-state-country-later-school-start-times-new-law>

TARYN LUNA
SACRAMENTO
OCT 13, 2019

Taryn Luna covers state government and politics in Sacramento. Prior to joining the Los Angeles Times in 2018, Luna covered the California Legislature and lobbying industry for The Sacramento Bee. She previously wrote about retail for The Boston Globe and worked as a general assignment reporter for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. Luna grew up in Dixon, a small town in Northern California, and graduated from Oregon State University.

Almost 1 million kids could lose automatic eligibility for free school lunches under Trump proposal

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2019-10-16/1-million-kids-could-lose-free-school-lunches>

ASSOCIATED PRESS
OCT 16, 2019

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Noncitizens voting in LAUSD elections? Bad idea

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-10-16/lausd-noncitizens-voting-school-board>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
OCT 16, 2019

The Times' editorial board [190721 modification: ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~] determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

Why 'Sesame Street' is smarter about foster care than your local child welfare agency

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-10-17/sesame-street-karli-opioid-addiction-foster-care>

NAOMI SCHAEFER RILEY
OCT 17, 2019

Naomi Schaefer Riley is a resident fellow at the American Enterprise Institute focusing on issues regarding child welfare as well as a senior fellow at the Independent Women's Forum. She also writes about parenting, higher education, religion, philanthropy and culture.

She is a former columnist for the New York Post and a former Wall Street Journal editor and writer, as well as the author of six books, including, Be the Parent: Stop Banning Seesaws and Start Banning Snapchat (2018).

Her book, Til Faith Do Us Part: How Interfaith Marriage is Transforming America (Oxford, 2013), was named an editor's pick by the New York Times Book Review.

Ms. Riley's writings have appeared in the Wall Street Journal, the New York Times, the Boston Globe, the LA Times, and the Washington Post, among other publications. She appears regularly on FoxNews and FoxBusiness and CNBC. She has also appeared on Q&A with Brian Lamb as well as the Today Show.

She graduated magna cum laude from Harvard University in English and Government. She lives in the suburbs of New York with her husband, Jason, and their three children.

Founder and CEO of embattled Inspire charter schools resigns

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-10-19/founder-and-ceo-of-embattled-inspire-charter-schools-resigns>

KRISTEN TAKETA
OCT 19, 2019

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

Elizabeth Warren vows to end federal funding for new charter schools

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/story/2019-10-21/elizabeth-warren-education-plan-would-end-federal-funding-for-new-charter-schools>

ASSOCIATED PRESS
OCT 21, 2019

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Trump proposes denying free school meals to half a million children

<https://www.latimes.com/business/story/2019-10-21/hiltzik-trump-school-lunch>

MICHAEL HILTZIK

OCT 21, 2019

Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Michael Hiltzik writes a daily blog appearing on latimes.com. His business column appears in print every Sunday, and occasionally on other days. As a member of the Los Angeles Times staff, he has been a financial and technology writer and a foreign correspondent. He is the author of six books, including “Dealers of Lightning: Xerox PARC and the Dawn of the Computer Age” and “The New Deal: A Modern History.” Hiltzik and colleague Chuck Philips shared the 1999 Pulitzer Prize for articles exposing corruption in the entertainment industry.

Billionaire Rick Caruso gives $50 million to Pepperdine law school to expand access for underserved students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-10-23/billionaire-rick-caruso-gives-50-million-to-pepperdine-law-school-to-expand-access-for-underserved-students>

TERESA WATANABE

OCT 23, 2019

Teresa Watanabe covers education for the Los Angeles Times. Since joining the Times in 1989, she has covered immigration, ethnic communities, religion, Pacific Rim business and served as Tokyo correspondent and bureau chief. She also covered Asia, national affairs and state government for the San Jose Mercury News and wrote editorials for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. A Seattle native, she graduated from USC in journalism and in East Asian languages and culture.

This group was supposed to help L.A. tackle poverty head-on. Instead, it's shutting down

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-10-25/youth-policy-institute-shut-down-financial-garcetti>

DAVID ZAHNISER & HOWARD BLUME

OCT 25, 2019

David Zahniser covers Los Angeles City Hall for the City-County bureau. He joined the Los Angeles Times in 2007 and previously wrote on local government for the Claremont Courier, Pasadena Star-News, the Daily Breeze, the L.A. Weekly and the San Diego Union-Tribune. He is a graduate of Pomona College and lives in Los Angeles.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts “Deadline L.A.” on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Yelp-like ratings for L.A. public schools look like a no-go. But what's next?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-11-05/grading-schools-in-los-angeles>

HOWARD BLUME

NOV 5, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

LAUSD guide: How to get into a magnet school or specialized programs in Los Angeles

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-11-05/guide-to-choosing-magnet-schools-los-angeles>

SONALI KOHLI

NOV 5, 2019

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

California's poorest kids aren't getting the school funding they've been promised

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-11-07/school-funding-audit-california>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

NOV 7, 2019

The Times' editorial board [190721 modification: ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

Western Individualism May Have Roots In The Medieval Church's Obsession With Incest

<https://www.npr.org/people/578890280/rhithu-chatterjee>

RHITU CHATTERJEE

Nov 7, 2019

Rhithu Chatterjee is a health correspondent with NPR, with a focus on mental health. In addition to writing about the latest developments in psychology and psychiatry, she reports on the prevalence of different mental illnesses and new developments in treatments.

Chatterjee explores the underlying causes of mental health disorders – the complex web of biological, socio-economic, and cultural factors that influence how mental health problems manifest themselves in different groups – and how our society deals with the mentally ill. She has a particular interest in mental health problems faced by the most vulnerable, especially pregnant women and children, as well as racial minorities and undocumented immigrants.

Chatterjee has reported on how chronic stress from racism has a devastating impact on pregnancy outcomes in black women. She has reported on the factors that put adolescents and youth on a path to school shootings, and what some schools are doing keep them off that path. She has covered the rising rates of methamphetamine and opioid use by pregnant women, and how some cities are helping these women stay off the drugs, have healthy pregnancies, and raise their babies on their own. She has also written about the widespread levels of loneliness and lack of social connection in America and its consequences of people's physical health.

Before starting at NPR's health desk in 2018, Chatterjee was an editor for NPR's The Salt, where she edited stories about food, culture, nutrition, and agriculture. In that role, she also produced a short online food video series called "Hot Pot: A Dish, A Memory," which featured dishes from a particular country as made by a person who grew up with the dish. The series was produced in collaboration with NPR's Goats & Soda blog.

Prior to that, Chatterjee reported on current affairs from New Delhi for PRI's The World, and covered science and health news for Science Magazine. Before that, she was based in Boston as a science correspondent with PRI's The World.

Throughout her career, Chatterjee has reported on everything from basic scientific discoveries to issues at the intersection of science, society, and culture. She has covered the legacy of the Bhopal gas tragedy in 1984, the world's largest industrial disaster. She has reported on a mysterious epidemic of chronic kidney disease in Sri Lanka and India. While in New Delhi, she also covered women's issues. Her reporting went beyond the breaking news headlines about sexual violence to document the underlying social pressures faced by Indian girls and women.

She has won two reporting grants from the Pulitzer Center on Crisis Reporting and was awarded a certificate of merit by the Gabriel Awards in 2014.

Chatterjee has mentored student fellows by the Pulitzer Center on Crisis Reporting, as well as young journalists for the Society of Environmental Journalists' mentorship program. She has also taught science writing at the Santa Fe Science Writing Workshop. She did her undergraduate work in Darjeeling, India. She has two master's degrees—a Master of Science in biotechnology from Visva-Bharati in India, and a Master of Arts in journalism from the University of Missouri.

Modern high school math should be about data science — not Algebra 2

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-10-23/math-high-school-algebra-data-statistics>

JO BOALER & STEVEN D. LEVITT

OCT. 23, 2019

Jo Boaler is Nomellini and Olivier professor in the Stanford graduate school of education. She focuses on mathematics teaching and learning - in particular, how different teaching approaches impact students' learning, how to teach mathematics for a "growth mindset", and how equity is promoted in mathematics classrooms. The role of groupwork and mathematical discussions in the development of understanding. The ways teachers may be supported in moving towards equitable and effective teaching environments. The importance of data science and ways to integrate data science into all subjects in school.

Academic Appointments

Professor, Graduate School of Education

Faculty Affiliate, Institute for Human-Centered Artificial Intelligence (HAI)

Member, Wu Tsai Neurosciences Institute

Administrative Appointments

Endowed Chair, Graduate School of Education, Stanford University (2019 - Present)

The Nomellini-Olivier Professor of Education., Graduate School of Education, Stanford University (2019 - Present)

Professor, Graduate School of Education, Stanford University (2010 - Present)

Professor, Graduate School of Education, Stanford University (2006 - 2006)
Associate Professor, Graduate School of Education, Stanford University (2000 - 2006)
Assistant Professor, Graduate School of Education, Stanford University (1998 - 2000)

Steve Levitt is the William B. Ogden Distinguished Service Professor of Economics at the Kenneth C. Griffin Department of Economics at the University of Chicago. He is the Co-Founder of The Center for Radical Innovation for Social Change (RISC) and he directs the Becker Center on Chicago Price Theory. Steve co-authored Freakonomics, which spent over 2 years on the New York Times Best Seller list and has sold more than 5 million copies worldwide. SuperFreakonomics, released in 2009, includes brand new research on topics from terrorism to prostitution to global warming. Steve is also the co-author of the popular Freakonomics Blog.

Cal State math proposal would create an unfair barrier for black and Latino students, critics say

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-11-21/csu-proposes-delay-to-increased-admissions-requirements>

NINA AGRAWAL
NOV 21, 2019

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

Math scares your child's elementary school teacher — and that should frighten you

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-11-21/math-anxiety-elementary-teacher>

DANIEL T. WILLINGHAM
NOV 21, 2019

Daniel Willingham earned his B.A. from Duke University in 1983 and his Ph.D. in Cognitive Psychology from Harvard University in 1990. He is currently Professor of Psychology at the University of Virginia, where he has taught since 1992. Until about 2000, his research focused solely on the brain basis of learning and memory. Today, all of his research concerns the application of cognitive psychology to K-16 education.

Foster youth scramble to find housing after county tells them they must move, citing youths' 'best interest'

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-11-22/foster-youth>

NINA AGRAWAL
NOV 22, 2019

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Times staff writer Julia Wick contributed to this story.

500 homeless families go to head of line for L.A. housing vouchers

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-06/500-homeless-families-go-to-head-of-line-for-housing>

HOWARD BLUME
DEC 6, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Foster youth housing program is shut down after site is linked to a murder investigation

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-12-16/foster-youth-housing-program-shut-down-site-murder-investigation>

NINA AGRAWAL
DEC 16, 2019

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

At toy drive, struggling parents get help making Christmas morning come true

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-12-17/at-this-toy-drive-struggling-parents-get-help-making-christmas-morning-come-true>

ESMERALDA BERMUDEZ
DEC 17, 2019

Esmeralda Bermudez writes about the lives of Latinos for the Los Angeles Times. She was born in El Salvador, raised in Whittier and graduated from the University of Southern California. Before joining The Times in 2008, Bermudez worked at the Oregonian in Portland, covering city government and immigration.

What it will take to better serve homeless children in Los Angeles schools

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2019-12-24/schools-laUSD-homeless-students>

AUSTIN BEUTNER

DEC 24, 2019

Austin Beutner is superintendent of the Los Angeles Unified School District. He is an American businessman, civic leader and philanthropist. He co-founded Evercore Partners and is the former publisher and CEO of the Los Angeles Times and the San Diego Union-Tribune. He was the First Deputy Mayor of Los Angeles in 2011 and ran for Mayor of Los Angeles in 2012. Beutner, the son of German immigrants, was born in New York and raised in Grand Rapids, Michigan. His mother is a retired schoolteacher and his father is a retired manufacturing engineer.

Beutner attended Dartmouth College, where he majored in economics. After graduation in 1982 he went to work at Smith Barney as a financial analyst. At the age of 29, he became partner at The Blackstone Group. In the 1990s he co-founded the investment banking group Evercore Partners, which went public in 2006.

After the fall of the Soviet Union, Beutner went to work for the U.S. State Department. The Clinton administration tapped him to lead a team into Russia and help transition them from communism to a free-market economy, including the decommission of weapons and other materiel.

In 1996 Beutner co-founded Evercore Partners, an American independent investment banking advisory firm, with former Deputy Secretary of the Treasury, Roger Altman. When Evercore went public (NYSE-EVR) in 2006, the IPO reportedly made Beutner more than $100 million.

Poway school will add shower and laundry facilities for homeless students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-12-26/abraxas-high-school-in-poway-adding-shower-laundry-for-homeless-students>

DEBORAH SULLIVAN BRENNAN

DEC 26, 2019

Deborah Brennan joined The San Diego Union-Tribune in 2012 as an environment reporter. She writes about air quality, water supply, marine protection, wildlife and endangered species. She has previously covered environment, local government and higher education for the North County Times, Los Angeles Times, Los Angeles Daily News and other Southern California newspapers. She earned a master's in journalism from U.C. Berkeley.

Charter schools vs teachers union: A high stakes L.A. school board election takes shape

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-12-26/high-stakes-laUSD-elections-for-charters-unions>

HOWARD BLUME

DEC 26, 2019

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFF, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

For students with kids, college can be a lonely struggle. One program aims to help

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2019-12-27/community-college-program-helps-student-parents>

NINA AGRAWAL
DEC 27, 2019

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

Vendors for charter schools face rules

<https://www.pressreader.com/usa/los-angeles-times/20191229/281852940485853>

KRISTEN TAKETA
DEC 29, 2019

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

Private sellers and nonprofits, some religious, are paid with tax dollars.
Lawmakers are taking notice.

Financial troubles and a shocking suicide have upended this tiny L.A. school district

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-01-06/lennox-school-district-financial-trouble-investigations>

HOWARD BLUME
JAN 6, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Inglewood charter school with history of alleged wrongdoing denied renewal by county

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-01-08/la-county-board-votes-to-close-todays-fresh-starts-inglewood-charter-school>

ANNA M. PHILLIPS & HOWARD BLUME
JAN 8, 2020

Anna M. Phillips is an environmental policy reporter based in the Los Angeles Times' Washington, D.C., bureau. Before joining The Times, she worked for the Tampa Bay Times, the New York Times and Chalkbeat New York. She grew up in a suburb of Philadelphia and graduated from Columbia University.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Newsom's budget includes $900 million to address California teacher shortage

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-01-11/newsoms-budget-includes-900-million-to-address-california-teacher-shortage>

HOWARD BLUME

JAN 11, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. council president: It's time to reexamine how we're handling homelessness

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-01-14/nury-martinez-los-angeles-city-council>

EMILY ALPERT REYES

JAN 14, 2020

Emily Alpert Reyes covers City Hall for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported on the census & demographics, tracking how our lives are changing in Los Angeles, California & the country. Before joining The Times, she worked for the pioneering nonprofit news website voiceofsandiego.org, winning national awards for her reporting on education. She has also traveled to Bolivia as a fellow with the International Reporting Project & survived the University of Chicago.

Moms squatting in home to protest Bay Area housing crisis are kicked out by deputies

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-01-14/oakland-moms-fighting-for-bay-area-housing-evicted>

HANNAH FRY & JULIA WICK

JAN 14, 2020

Hannah Fry is the public safety reporter for the Daily Pilot. Before joining the Pilot in August 2013, she had two stints covering Costa Mesa as an intern for the Orange County Register and writing about the restaurant industry for the Fast Food Maven blog. While attending Chapman University, she was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, the Panther. (714) 966-4632

Julia Wick is the author of the Essential California newsletter and a Metro reporter. She was previously the editor in chief of LAist and a senior editor at Longreads. She has written for the Atlantic, Monocle, CityLab and most of the local papers in L.A. County. She is a native Angeleno.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

Trump's tax reform is leaving millions of poor children behind

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-01-17/child-tax-credit-eligibility-low-income-donald-trump>

SOPHIE COLLYER & DAVID B. HARRIS

JAN 17, 2020

Sophie is a Staff Research Associate with the CPRC where she works predominantly with Center in Poverty and Social Policy co-Director Chris Wimer on analysis of the NYC Longitudinal Study of Wellbeing (NYC –LSW) data. Sophie began working with the CPRC as a graduate student at Columbia where she completed a dual-Master's (MPA/MSW) at the School of International and Public Affairs and the School of Social Work. As a graduate student, her concentrations were Social Policy and Management, and her specialization was Advanced Policy and Economic Analysis. Before coming to the CPRC, Sophie worked on projects evaluating asset-based welfare initiatives and consumer financial protections as a Graduate Research Consultant with The Cities for Financial Empowerment Fund and the NYC Department of Consumer Affairs. Sophie also holds an M.S. in Data-Driven Teaching from Johns Hopkins University that she completed while teaching middle school in Baltimore through Teach for America.

David B. Harris is the President of Children's Research and Education Institute, a non-profit organization that educates the public on the effect of politics and policies on children and families. He is a partner at Kids Project, an advocacy organization on child and family policy. He is also an external affiliate of the Center on Poverty and Social Policy at Columbia University. Dr. Harris has appeared at conferences, on the network news, on the radio, and in major national papers. He has received the Public Advocacy Award from the International Society for Traumatic Stress Studies and the "Fighting for Families Award," from the National Community Tax Coalition. Dr. Harris has been an early childhood teacher in both independent and public schools in New York City.

The research featured in this piece was produced in partnership with Christopher Wimer and Irwin Garfinkel, co-directors of the Center on Poverty and Social Policy, and Jane Waldfogel, of the Columbia Population Research Center. Garfinkel and Waldfogel are professors at Columbia.

L.A. teachers' strike fueled a labor movement. But did it really help schools?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-01-21/legacy-of-los-angeles-teachers-strike>

HOWARD BLUME & SONALI KOHLI

JAN 21, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Good intentions are forcing foster kids into bad places

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-01-23/foster-children-congregate-care-group-homes-california-continuum-of-care-act>

NAOMI SCHAEFER RILEY

JAN 23, 2020

Naomi Schaefer Riley is a resident fellow at the American Enterprise Institute focusing on issues regarding child welfare as well as a senior fellow at the Independent Women's Forum. She also writes about parenting, higher education, religion, philanthropy and culture.

She is a former columnist for the New York Post and a former Wall Street Journal editor and writer, as well as the author of six books, including, Be the Parent: Stop Banning Seesaws and Start Banning Snapchat (2018).

Her book, Til Faith Do Us Part: How Interfaith Marriage is Transforming America (Oxford, 2013), was named an editor's pick by the New York Times Book Review.

Ms. Riley's writings have appeared in the Wall Street Journal, the New York Times, the Boston Globe, the LA Times, and the Washington Post, among other publications. She appears regularly on FoxNews and FoxBusiness and CNBC. She has also appeared on Q&A with Brian Lamb as well as the Today Show.

She graduated magna cum laude from Harvard University in English and Government. She lives in the suburbs of New York with her husband, Jason, and their three children.

What LAUSD can learn from the New York City Community Schools Initiative

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-01-28/new-york-community-schools-laUSD>

WILLIAM R. JOHNSTON
JAN 28, 2020

William R. Johnston is an associate policy researcher at the nonpartisan Rand Corp. and a former high school English and civics teacher. He is a member of the Pardee RAND Graduate School faculty. His research explores how local, state, and national political and social contexts relate to educational opportunities and outcomes for youth. Johnston has extensive experience in working with district- and state-level administrative data systems, and he recently completed a study of racial preferences underlying kindergarten school choice patterns in Boston, Massachusetts. He is also engaged in a large-scale analysis of divergent population trends in high-poverty neighborhoods across the country between 1970 and 2010. Johnston holds an Ed.D. in culture, communities, and education from Harvard University.

At RAND he is leading a three-year impact evaluation of the New York City Community Schools Initiative and is co-directing a three-year national survey effort using the American Teacher Panel and American School Leader Panel, funded by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation.

Prior to his training and work as an educational researcher, Johnston was a high school English and U.S. history teacher in Philadelphia and San Francisco. He holds an Ed.D. in culture, communities, and education from Harvard University.

Major resource infusion is in the works for 20 struggling L.A. schools

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-01-29/major-makeover-in-store-for-20-struggling-l-a-schools>

HOWARD BLUME
JAN 29, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

This election is off-limits to voters. But the results will matter a lot to L.A. school families

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-02-03/crucial-vote-los-angeles-teachers-union>

HOWARD BLUME

FEB 3, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

About to become teachers, they're worried about affording the rent

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-02-08/column-theyre-about-to-become-teachers-and-worried-about-how-to-pay-the-rent>

STEVE LOPEZ

FEB 8, 2020

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called "The Soloist," which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez's television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

Photo of students with swastika and Confederate flag roils Riverside school

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-02-12/photo-of-teens-posing-with-swastika-in-front-of-confederate-flag-sparks-outrage-at-riverside-school>

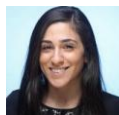

HANNAH FRY

FEB 12, 2020

Hannah Fry is the public safety reporter for the Daily Pilot. Before joining the Pilot in August 2013, she had two stints covering Costa Mesa as an intern for the Orange County Register and writing about the restaurant industry for the Fast Food Maven blog. While attending Chapman University, she was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, the Panther. (714) 966-4632

L.A. County Dist. Atty. Jackie Lacey moves to wipe 66,000 marijuana convictions

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-02-13/la-district-attorney-clear-marijuana-convictions>

ALENE TCHEKMEDYAN

FEB 13, 2020

Alene Tchekmedyan covers the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department. She previously wrote about the county's criminal courts and breaking news throughout California. Before joining The Times in 2016, she reported on crime and policing for the Glendale News-Press and Burbank Leader. She grew up in Huntington Beach and graduated from UCLA.

Do active-shooter drills in schools hurt students more than they help?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-02-14/active-shooter-drills-public-schools>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

FEB 14, 2020

The Times' editorial board [190721 modification: , in consultation with the publisher,] determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

There's a new Proposition 13. It would send billions to California schools that need it

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-02-17/skelton-proposition-13-schools-bond>

GEORGE SKELTON

SACRAMENTO

FEB 17, 2020

Political columnist George Skelton has covered government and politics for more than 50 years and for The Times since 1974. He has been a Times political writer and editor in Los Angeles, Sacramento bureau chief and White House correspondent. He has written a column on California politics, "Capitol Journal," since 1993. Skelton is a Santa Barbara native, grew up in Ojai and received a journalism degree at San Jose State.

A surprise big spender funds attack campaign mailers in key L.A. school board races

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-02-18/bloomfield-is-big-early-spender-in-pivotal-school-board-races>

HOWARD BLUME

FEB 18, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

You'll need a shower after reading about this school board race that's descended into the gutter

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-02-22/steve-lopez-column-laUSD-school-board-race>

STEVE LOPEZ

FEB 22, 2020

Steve Lopez is a California native who has been an L.A. Times columnist since 2001. He has won more than a dozen national journalism awards for his reporting and column writing at seven newspapers and four news magazines, and is a three-time Pulitzer finalist for commentary – in 2012, for his columns on elder care; in 2016, for his columns on income inequality in California; and in 2018, for his columns on housing and homelessness. He is the author of three novels, two collections of columns and a non-fiction work called “The Soloist,” which was a Los Angeles Times and New York Times best-seller, winner of the PEN USA Literary Award for Non-Fiction, and the subject of a Dream Works movie by the same name. Lopez’s television reporting for public station KCET has won three local news Emmys, three Golden Mike awards and a share of the Columbia University DuPont Award.

Proposition 13 is endorsed by schools across California. Why not LAUSD?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-02-27/laUSD-proposition-13>

NINA AGRAWAL & HOWARD BLUME

FEB 27, 2020

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts “Deadline L.A.” on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Mike Bonin calls for making L.A. streets more Family-Friendly during pandemic

<https://11thdistrict.com/news/mike-calls-for-making-l-a-streets-more-family-friendly-during-covid-19-crisis/>

MIKE BONIN

APR 13, 2020

LA City Councilperson for 11th District.

Distance Learning Not Working? Try These Alternative Strategies

<https://www.moms.com/alternative-strategies-if-distance-learning-isnt-working/amp/>

DIANE MTETWA

APR 24, 2020

I've loved reading since I first learned how and writing as well. I used to work in finance but left that field after having my daughter Sydney 3 years ago. I still love to educate people about money and finance with my writing and I also love writing about my experiences as a mom.

Does the U.S. Constitution guarantee kids the right to be taught how to read? It should

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-04-28/literacy-ruling-6th-circuit>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

APR 28, 2020

The Times' editorial board [190721 modification: ,in consultation with the publisher,] determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

We need to prepare for the mental health effects of coronavirus on kids

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-05-07/coronavirus-anxiety-children-long-term-mental-health-impacts>

SONALI KOHLI

MAY 7, 2020

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Times staff writer Deborah Netburn contributed to this report.

What it will take to reopen LAUSD schools

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-05-12/lausd-superintendent-beutner-reopening-schools-coronavirus>

AUSTIN BEUTNER

MAY 12, 2020

Austin Beutner is superintendent of the Los Angeles Unified School District.

He is an American businessman, civic leader and philanthropist. He co-founded Evercore Partners and is the former publisher and CEO of the Los Angeles Times and the San Diego Union-Tribune. He was the First Deputy Mayor of Los Angeles in 2011 and ran for Mayor of Los Angeles in 2012. Beutner, the son of German immigrants, was born in New York and raised in Grand Rapids, Michigan. His mother is a retired schoolteacher and his father is a retired manufacturing engineer.

Beutner attended Dartmouth College, where he majored in economics. After graduation in 1982 he went to work at Smith Barney as a financial analyst. At the age of 29, he became partner at The Blackstone Group. In the 1990s he co-founded the investment banking group Evercore Partners, which went public in 2006.

After the fall of the Soviet Union, Beutner went to work for the U.S. State Department. The Clinton administration tapped him to lead a team into Russia and help transition them from communism to a free-market economy, including the decommission of weapons and other materiel.

In 1996 Beutner co-founded Evercore Partners, an American independent investment banking advisory firm, with former Deputy Secretary of the Treasury, Roger Altman. When Evercore went public (NYSE-EVR) in 2006, the IPO reportedly made Beutner more than $100 million.

Mayor Garcetti: Slow Streets L.A. To Launch In Two Neighborhoods

<https://www.lamayor.org/mayor-garcetti-slow-streets-la-launch-two-neighborhoods>

ERIC GARCETTI
MAY 15, 2020

LA City Mayor

New initiative will calm traffic on residential streets to create space for safer outdoor recreation

With restaurants hurting, cities look to turn streets into dining rooms

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-05-19/long-beach-mulls-opening-streets-for-dining-and-recreation>

LUKE MONEY
MAY 19, 2020

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Times Community News staff writer Matt Szabo contributed to this report.

Distance learning? Even my students will tell you that's not the future

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-05-26/teacher-distance-learning-coronavirus>

JEREMY ADAMS
MAY 26, 2020

Jeremy Adams is the author of "Riding the Wave: Teacher Strategies for Navigating Change and Strengthening Key Relationships", recipient of the Jim Burke Rising Star Teaching Award and founder of the Earl Warren Cup Constitutional Competition. He teaches political science at Bakersfield High School and California State University, Bakersfield. Mr. Adams was named "2012 Kern County Teacher of the Year" and won the 2012 Beautiful Bakersfield award in Education. He lives in Central California with his wife and three children.

Pediatricians say kids should be in school despite coronavirus risk

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-07-10/school-reopening-coronavirus-spike-parents-teachers-split>

SONALI KOHLI
JUN 3, 2020

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Racism is the reason Black people are disproportionately homeless in L.A., report shows

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-06-12/racism-making-more-black-people-la-homeless>

GALE HOLLAND
JUN 12, 2020

Gale Holland covers homelessness and poverty for the Los Angeles Times. Starting in 2005, she edited the cops and courts beat, wrote news columns and covered higher education. A series about college construction abuses that she wrote with Michael Finnegan won a 2012 investigative reporting award from the Nieman Foundation. A Los Angeles native, she has worked for USA Today, Copley News & L.A. Weekly and wants to understand the consequences of urban inequality.

This article refers to disproportionate impacts on minority families by systemic racism.
“The numbers released Friday predate the coronavirus pandemic, which has unleashed a cataract of unemployment and potential evictions that Blasi said could hurl 36,000 primarily Latino and Black households, including 56,000 children, into homelessness.”

Reopening California schools is dangerous. But so is letting kids go a year without learning

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-06-14/california-public-school-reopening-concerns>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
JUN 14, 2020

The Times' editorial board [190721 modification: ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~] determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

Should you send your child back to school? Parents are stressed and divided

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-07-10/school-reopening-coronavirus-spike-parents-teachers-split>

HOWARD BLUME & DAVID LAUTER & NINA AGRAWAL
JUL 10, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts “Deadline L.A.” on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

David Lauter is the Los Angeles Times' Washington bureau chief. He began writing news in Washington in 1981 and since then has covered Congress, the Supreme Court, the White House under Presidents George H.W. Bush and Bill Clinton and four U.S. presidential campaigns. He lived in Los Angeles from 1995 to 2011, where he was The Times' deputy Foreign editor, deputy Metro editor and then assistant managing editor responsible for California coverage.

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

L.A. teachers union says schools should not reopen next month, citing coronavirus spike

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-07-09/los-angeles-teachers-union-calls-for-delay-reopening>

NINA AGRAWAL & HOWARD BLUME & SONALI KOHLI

JUL 10, 2020

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Keeping L.A. schools closed: An agonizing but necessary decision

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-07-13/lausd-schools-closed-remote-learning-beutner>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JUL 13, 2020

The Times' editorial board [190721 modification: ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~] determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

My first reaction when I heard L.A. schools won't be open this fall? Tears. Lots of them

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-07-13/lausd-closed-coronavirus-homeschool>

KERY CAVANAUGH

JUL 13, 2020

Kerry Cavanaugh is an editorial writer covering Los Angeles and Southern California, with a focus on housing, transportation and environmental issues. Prior to joining the board, she was a producer on KCRW's "To the Point" and "Which Way, L.A." Before that, she spent a decade at the L.A. Daily News, where she covered L.A. and California politics and wrote a column on local government issues. She's a graduate of New York University and Columbia Journalism School.

L.A. Unified will not reopen campuses for start of school year amid coronavirus spike

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-07-13/l-a-unified-will-not-reopen-campus-start-of-school-year>

HOWARD BLUME

JUL 13, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

New Report Says Schools Should Try To Reopen In Person For Elementary Students

<https://www.npr.org/sections/coronavirus-live-updates/2020/07/15/891347536/-we-failed-children-says-co-author-of-new-national-back-to-school-report>

ANYA KAMENETZ

July 15, 2020

Anya Kamenetz is an education correspondent at NPR. She joined NPR in 2014, working as part of a new initiative to coordinate on-air and online coverage of learning. Since then the NPR Ed team has won a 2017 Edward R. Murrow Award for Innovation, and a 2015 National Award for Education Reporting for the multimedia national collaboration, the Grad Rates project.

Kamenetz is the author of several books. Her latest is The Art of Screen Time: How Your Family Can Balance Digital Media and Real Life (PublicAffairs, 2018). Her previous books touched on student loans, innovations to address cost, quality, and access in higher education, and issues of assessment and excellence: Generation Debt; DIY U: Edupunks, Edupreneurs, and the Coming Transformation of Higher Education, and The Test.

Kamenetz covered technology, innovation, sustainability, and social entrepreneurship for five years as a staff writer for Fast Company magazine. She's contributed to The New York Times, The Washington Post, New York Magazine and Slate, and appeared in documentaries shown on PBS and CNN.

Will children spread COVID-19 if they go back to school?

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2020-07-16/will-children-spread-covid-19-if-they-return-to-school>

KAREN KAPLAN
SCIENCE AND MEDICINE EDITOR

JUL 16, 2020

Karen Kaplan is science and medicine editor at the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the science group in 2005, she covered technology in the Business section for 10 years. She is a graduate of MIT and Columbia University. In a parallel universe without journalism, she'd have a career in economics, genetics, biostatistics or some other field that describes the world in math.

L.A. Latino, Black students suffered deep disparities in online learning, records show

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-07-16/latino-and-black-students-hard-hit-with-disparities-in-their-struggle-with-online-learning>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL & HOWARD BLUME

JUL 16, 2020

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Sonali Kohli contributed to this report.

LAUSD expanding community-centered education model districtwide

<https://www.dailynews.com/2020/07/20/lausd-expanding-community-centered-education-model-districtwide/amp/>

DAVID ROSENFELD

July 21, 2020

David Rosenfeld has been working as a professional journalist for nearly 20 years at newspapers, magazines and websites. He's covered murder trials, interviewed governors and presidential candidates and once did a flip in a biplane for a story assignment. Before joining The Daily Breeze in 2018 to cover El Segundo, Hawthorne and aerospace, he worked at The Beach Reporter in Redondo Beach. In his free time, David loves outdoor sports such as sailing, mountain biking and golfing.

Parents rush to hire tutors and create learning pods. But not everyone has options

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-07-22/distance-learning-pods-tutors-equity>

SONALI KOHLI & NINA AGRAWAL

JUL 22, 2020

Sonali Kohli is a reporter covering education for the Los Angeles Times. A product of Southern California, she grew up in Diamond Bar and graduated from UCLA. She worked as a metro reporter for the Orange County Register and as a reporter covering education and diversity for Quartz before joining The Times in 2015.

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas

Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

California schools need leadership. Here's where to start

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-07-23/california-schools-how-when-to-reopen>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JUL 23, 2020

The Times' editorial board [190721 modification: ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~] determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

L.A. County could use parks, libraries as learning sites amid school closures

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-07-23/la-county-could-turn-parks-libraries-into-learning-sites>

TOMÁS MIER

JUL 23, 2020

Tomás Mier is a reporting intern on the COVID-19 team at the Los Angeles Times who is contributing to “The Pandemic’s Toll: Lives Lost in California” in partnership with the Pulitzer Center and USC. His work has been featured in People Magazine, Teen Vogue and other outlets. He is also the former editor in chief of USC’s student newspaper Daily Trojan. Originally from the Bay Area, he earned a bachelor’s degree in journalism and Latinx studies from the University of Southern California.

Working parents face a child-care crisis. Here's how L.A. employers are handling it

<https://www.latimes.com/business/story/2020-07-24/schools-out-forever-are-l-a-s-largest-employers-meeting-the-needs-of-parents>

SAM DEAN

JUL 24, 2020

Sam Dean is a business reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the technology industry in Southern California. He has previously worked as a feature writer for a number of publications including Newsweek, the Verge, 538 and Lucky Peach.

Times staff writer Laurence Darmiento contributed to this report.

California schools were already unequal. Then came ‘learning pods’

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-07-29/editorial-california-schools-were-already-unequal-then-came-learning-pods>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JUL 29, 2020

The Times' editorial board [190721 modification: ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~] determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

Harvard Epidemiologist: 'Hybrid' Model For Reopening Schools Is 'Probably Among The Worst' Options

<https://www.wgbh.org/news/people/joe-mathieu>

WILLIAM HANAGE
JUL 30, 2020

I am an Associate Professor of Epidemiology in the department of Epidemiology, and a faculty member in the Center for Communicable Disease Dynamics. I employ a mix of theoretical and laboratory work to research the evolution and epidemiology of infectious disease. After my PhD, I did post doctoral study at the University of Oxford and Imperial College London, before being awarded a Royal Society University Research Fellowship. Prior to joining the Center for Communicable Disease Dynamics, I was a Reader in the department of Infectious Disease Epidemiology at Imperial College London. There I worked extensively developing multilocus sequence typing (MLST; www.mlst.net) and analysis (MLSA) for the study of bacterial pathogens and species, as well as means of analyzing data developed using this method. I am particularly interested in using an evolutionary framework such as methods derived from population genetics to inform epidemiology. In 2012 I received the Fleming Prize for research in Microbiology and was the recipient of a 2012 ICAAC Young Investigator Award from the American Society for Microbiology.

Sal Khan says distance learning can't fully replace in-person instruction

<https://edsources.org/2020/sal-khan-says-distance-learning-cant-fully-replace-in-person-instruction/637541/amp>

LOUIS FREEDBERG & SAL KAHN
AUG 3, 2020

Louis Freedberg is executive director of EdSource. For more than two decades, Freedberg has analyzed and reported on local, state, and national education policy. Before coming to EdSource, Freedberg was the founding director of California Watch at the Center for Investigative Reporting. He spent 15 years at the San Francisco Chronicle, where he was an award-winning education reporter, Washington correspondent, columnist, and member of the editorial board. He has a Ph.D. in social anthropology from UC Berkeley and a B.A. in child development from Yale University.

Sal started Khan Academy in 2005 to help his cousins (and soon other people's cousins). In addition to setting the vision and direction for Khan Academy, he still makes a lot of videos (although he's not the only one anymore).

Sal holds three degrees from MIT and an MBA from Harvard.

Some California elementary schools could reopen if they meet state waiver rules

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-03/some-california-elementary-schools-could-reopen-if-they-meet-state-waiver-rules>

ANITA CHABRIA & NINA AGRAWAL
Aug 3, 2020

Anita Chabria covers California state politics and policy for the Los Angeles Times and is based in Sacramento. Before joining The Times, she worked for the Sacramento Bee as a member of its statewide investigative team, and previously covered criminal justice and City Hall.

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

Sacramento bureau chief John Myers contributed to this report.

LAUSD, teachers reach tentative deal on remote learning

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-03/lausd-teachers-reach-tentative-online-learning-pact>

HOWARD BLUME
AUG 3, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

We're facing a 'generational catastrophe' in education, UN warns

<https://amp.cnn.com/cnn/2020/08/04/world/school-closures-catastrophe-un-covid-19-intl/index.html>

RADINA GIGOVA & JACQUELINE HOWARD
Aug 4, 2020

Radina Gigova is a multimedia journalist part of CNN's award winning international newsgathering team, based at the network's headquarters in Atlanta.

Radina works closely with CNN's bureaus around the globe and digital platforms covering breaking news and major world events.

She has played an integral part of the network's coverage of the new era of US -- Russia relations, the global fight against terrorism and the rise of ISIS, the war in eastern Ukraine, the migrant crisis in the Mediterranean, as well as the humanitarian emergencies unfolding in northern Nigeria and east Africa.

Some of her recent reports featured on CNN's digital platforms focus on the peace talks aimed at negotiating a political solution to the Syrian war, the persistent tensions between NATO and Moscow and the ongoing fighting along the frontline in eastern Ukraine.

Radina has a master's degree in Broadcast Journalism and Public Policy from American University in Washington, DC and has received a Diploma DELE Superior in Spanish from the Cervantes Institute in Madrid, Spain.

An avid coffee fan, Radina is known for her love of dynamite espressos. Follow Radina on Twitter @RadinaCNN and Instagram @radina_cnn, Jacqueline Howard is a reporter for CNN Health, based at the network's world headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia.

Prior to joining CNN, Jacqueline served as senior science editor at The Huffington Post, and she was host/producer of the video series "Talk Nerdy To Me."

Jacqueline also has served as the on-air talent in a series of educational videos for The Nature Conservancy, the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation and the Big History Project.

She was honored to serve as a guest judge in the 2015 Nikon Small World photomicrography competition, and she was selected to participate in The White House's "We the Geeks: Women Role Models" initiative in 2014.

Jacqueline holds a master's degree in journalism from the University of Southern California's Annenberg School for Communication & Journalism, and a bachelor's degree in communication studies from the University of Michigan-Ann Arbor.

Jacqueline is a member of the National Association of Black Journalists.

Child care has been safe during the pandemic. That could be a good sign for schools

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2020-08-04/child-care-has-been-safe-during-the-pandemic-that-could-be-a-good-sign-for-schools>

ANNA ALMENDRALA

AUG. 4, 2020

Anna Almendrala, Correspondent, covers the business of health care and health care policy. She was born in Manila, Philippines, and grew up in Wellington, New Zealand, before moving to California. She previously worked at HuffPost for nine years, where she reported on health and lifestyle news and was the creator and host of a podcast about infertility called "IVFML." The podcast was a Webby finalist in 2019 and a Webby honoree in 2018. It also won a 2019 Excellence in Podcasts award from the National Lesbian and Gay Journalists Association. Anna was a USC Center for Health Journalism Fellow in 2015. In addition to HuffPost, her work has appeared in The Guardian, The Daily Beast, Medium, Sojourners and on NBC and Univision. She attended UC Berkeley and double-majored in rhetoric and Spanish.

Almendrala writes for Kaiser Health News, a nonprofit news service covering health issues. It is an editorially independent program of the Kaiser Family Foundation and is not affiliated with Kaiser Permanente.

'I don't know what I'm supposed to do.' Parents in distress over school opening online

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-05/parents-school-reopening-online-distance-learning-worry>

ANDREW J. CAMPA & HOWARD BLUME

AUG 5, 2020

Andrew J. Campa covers the coming and goings of the Eastside, Boyle Heights, Echo Park, parts of the San Gabriel Valley and the Southeast Corridor. He previously worked at the Glendale News-Press, Burbank Leader, Whittier Daily News and Pasadena Star-News and has covered education, sports and general news. He's a proud Cal State Fullerton (#tusksup) and Pasadena City College alumnus. He hopes the Chicago Bears will get back to the Super Bowl before he dies.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

The new school year is starting, ready or not. Much of California is not

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-08-05/school-year-state-leadership-missing>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

AUG. 5, 2020

The Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

What will it take for schools to reopen safely in the midst of a pandemic?

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2020-08-06/what-will-it-take-for-schools-to-reopen-safely-in-the-midst-of-a-pandemic>

DEBORAH NETBURN
AUG 6, 2020

Deborah Netburn is a features writer at the Los Angeles Times. Endlessly curious, she's covered a wide variety of topics since starting at the paper in 2006, including entertainment, home and garden, national news, technology and science. She's hung out with Tibetan monks in the Pacific Palisades, seen seahorses at the bottom of Alamitos Bay and spent time with the working witches of Los Angeles. She is always looking for a good story.

How to improve distance learning for our youngest students

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-08-06/early-education-covid-distance-learning>

BENJAMIN COTTINGHAM & H. ALIX GALLAGHER
AUG. 6, 2020

Benjamin Cottingham is the Associate Director of Strategic Partnerships at PACE and focuses on the development of organizational conditions that support the continual improvement of student outcomes across California's education system. He leads work at PACE examining how California's county offices of education support continuous improvement. He is also currently involved with several research partnerships, including the CORE-PACE partnership, studying the impact of networked improvement communities on at risk student populations.

H. Alix Gallagher is the Director of Strategic Partnerships. In that role she leads partnerships with intermediaries working to improve student outcomes. The partnerships co-develop formative research questions to ensure the relevance of PACE's research, translate findings from extant research to inform practitioners, and conduct summative evaluations that provide implications for education policy and practice. In response to COVID-19, Dr. Gallagher is leveraging her knowledge of instruction and teacher learning to provide support for partners rethinking districts' instructional models as they moved to distance and blended learning. Current partners include the CORE Districts, California Education Partners, and Mills Teacher Scholars. Before joining PACE, Dr. Gallagher was an Associate Director at the Center for Education Policy at SRI International where she led large-scale randomized controlled trials and policy studies.

Facing a wave of evictions, California is about to make thousands of kids homeless

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-07/coronavirus-eviction-rent-housing-crisis-cliff-california-covid>

ERIKA D. SMITH
AUG 7, 2020

Erika D. Smith is a columnist for the Los Angeles Times writing about the diversity of people and places across California. She joined The Times in 2018 as an assistant editor and helped expand coverage of the state's housing and homelessness crisis. She previously worked at the Sacramento Bee, where she was a columnist and editorial board member covering housing, homelessness and social justice issues. Before the Bee, Smith wrote for the Indianapolis Star and Akron Beacon Journal. She is a recipient of the Sigma Delta Chi award for column writing, a graduate of Ohio University and a native of the long-suffering sports town of Cleveland.

Eviction protections are expiring. What does this mean for struggling California tenants?

<https://www.latimes.com/homeless-housing/story/2020-08-07/assessing-california-rent-relief-eviction-protections-end>

LIAM DILLON
AUG 7, 2020

Liam Dillon covers California state politics and policy for the Los Angeles Times and is based in Sacramento. Prior to joining The Times in 2016, Dillon covered local politics in San Diego and Southwest Florida.

Times staff writers Melody Gutierrez, Phil Willon & Sarah D. Wire contributed to this report.

This California school is open, 'learning as we go.' Is it a model or a mistake?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-10/california-school-open-coronavirus>

ANITA CHABRIA
AUG 10, 2020

Anita Chabria covers California state politics and policy for the Los Angeles Times and is based in Sacramento. Before joining The Times, she worked for the Sacramento Bee as a member of its statewide investigative team, and previously covered criminal justice and City Hall.

The wrong way to reopen schools

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-08-10/editorial-the-wrong-way-to-reopen-schools>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

AUG 10, 2020

The Times' editorial board [190721 ~~modification: ,in consultation with the publisher,~~] determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship.

L.A. school board approves deal on remote learning; critics say it falls short on teaching

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-11/lausd-approves-teaching-agreement-over-critics-objections>

HOWARD BLUME
AUG 11, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

LAUSD Board approves deal with teachers to start new school year with distance learning

<https://abc7.com/amp/lausd-los-angeles-unified-school-district-la-teachers-union-united/6366283/>

SID GARCIA & MARC COTA-ROBLES

AUG 12, 2020

Sid Garcia is a general assignment reporter for ABC7 Eyewitness News.

Sid was raised in Southern California and is a graduate of California State University Long Beach with a degree in journalism.

He started his broadcast career in 1983 at KBAK in Bakersfield as an anchor and reporter. In 1987, Sid went to WGN in Chicago. He returned to Los Angeles in 1994 to anchor and report at KFWB news radio. He then went to KFSN in Fresno as a reporter and anchor before returning home to join ABC7 in 1997.

During his tenure at ABC7, Sid has also served as the Eyewitness News Orange County Bureau Chief.

Sid is a long time member of the California Chicano News Media Association and the National Association of Hispanic Journalists.

Sid is committed to the community, regularly participating in educational projects and other civic events.

Marc Cota-Robles is a general assignment reporter and fill-in anchor for ABC7 Eyewitness News.

A native of Orange County, Marc is a graduate of Chapman University, where he received a bachelor's degree in broadcast television journalism.

While at ABC7, Marc has reported on countless breaking stories, including the Las Vegas mass shooting, the destructive Thomas Fire in Ventura and the mudslide aftermath in Montecito.

Marc joined ABC7 in June 2014 after spending nearly eight years at KION-TV, the CBS affiliate in Salinas, California. While at KION, Marc served in many roles, including evening news anchor, beginning in 2010. The station was honored with three consecutive regional Emmy awards for best newscast (small market) in Northern California.

In 2012, Marc's anchor duties extended to KION's sister stations, KCOY 12 and KKFX FOX 11, based in Santa Maria and Santa Barbara, California.

Marc began his career in 2006 as a morning news anchor at KVII-TV in Amarillo.

Prior to jumping into the broadcast news industry, Marc drove open-wheel race cars, competing in the Pro Mazda National Championship. He continues to be an avid motorsports fan and has attended the Indianapolis 500 annually since 1993.

He lives in Pasadena with his wife, son and rescue dog Hayley.

'Pandemic pods' becoming a popular alternative to distance learning

<https://komonews.com/amp/news/local/pandemic-pods-pondering-safety-over-convenience>

DENISE WHITAKER

AUG 12, 2020

Life is an adventure! That's the way KOMO 4 Weekend Morning Anchor, Denise Whitaker views her time here on earth. Denise and her husband Terron enjoy Adventure Racing, a multi-sport competition where you navigate your way through a secret course by mountain biking, hiking, canoeing or kayaking, with a little climbing or rappelling thrown in for good measure!

Professionally, Denise worked her way up through the ranks of television news, anchoring weekend weather, reporting and finally anchoring the news.

She grew up in and around Chicago, but called five states home, before she found her new home in Seattle. Denise loves doing what she can for others, serving in the past on the boards of Big Brothers Big Sisters, Susan G Komen Foundation, American Diabetes Association and various groups that promote health and physical fitness. Arkansas Governor Mike Huckabee appointed Denise to his Governor's Council on Fitness and awarded her the Arkansas Traveler Certificate.

When she's not outside running a trail, or mountain biking, you'll find Denise in the kitchen, creating gourmet, yet healthy recipes.

Angelina Jolie: Why children suffer more violence amid COVID-19

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-08-12/child-abuse-coronavirus-pandemic-angelina-jolie>

ANGELINA JOLIE
AUG. 12, 2020

The following is a list of awards and nominations received by American actress and filmmaker Angelina Jolie. She has received three Golden Globe Awards, two Screen Actors Guild Awards, and an Academy Award for Best Supporting Actress for her performances in the films George Wallace (1997), Gia (1998), and Girl, Interrupted (1999). Her later performances as Mariane Pearl in A Mighty Heart (2007) and Christine Collins in Changeling (2008) earned her additional nominations, including an Academy Award for Best Actress nomination for the latter. For her work in the action films Sky Captain and the World of Tomorrow (2004), Mr. & Mrs. Smith (2005), Wanted (2008), and The Tourist (2010), Jolie received awards based on popular votes, including an MTV Movie Award, two People's Choice Awards, and four Teen Choice Awards. In 2013, she received the Academy Awards Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award. Special Envoy to the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees

Back to school in a pandemic: The basics of remote learning

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-13/back-to-school-in-a-pandemic-the-basics-of-remote-learning>

FAITH E. PINHO
AUG 13, 2020

Faith E. Pinho reports on trending and breaking news stories. She came to the Los Angeles Times from the Daily Pilot, where she covered coastal Orange County cities since 2018. Before that, she reported for the Indianapolis Star, the Washington Times and public radio stations WBUR and WMRA. She studied journalism and politics at Washington and Lee University and King's College London. A Boston native, Pinho can now usually be found tending to her succulents, scarfing down carnitas tacos or scratching her head over her compost pile.

What can parents who work outside the home do about remote schooling?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-13/parents-who-work-resources>

LILA SEIDMAN
AUG 13, 2020

Lila Seidman covers trending and breaking news for the Los Angeles Times. Over the years, she's reported for a variety of publications, including the Daily Journal, a statewide legal publication, and the UB Post, an English-language newspaper in Mongolia, and her work has appeared in L.A. Weekly, Gawker and Vice. Prior to landing at The Times, she served as city reporter for the Glendale News-Press. A native Angeleno raised on sun and smog, she briefly deflected up north to attend Reed College in Portland, Ore., where she earned a degree in Russian and psychology.

A generation left behind? Online learning cheats poor students, Times survey finds

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-13/online-learning-fails-low-income-students-covid-19-left-behind-project>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL & HOWARD BLUME & BEN POSTON & JULIA BARAJAS
AUG 13, 2020

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Ben Poston is an investigative reporter specializing in data at the Los Angeles Times. A three-time Livingston Award finalist, Poston has won several national awards, including a George Polk Award, a Gerald Loeb Award and Sigma Delta Chi's award for First Amendment reporting. He worked on "Behind the Badge," a series that detailed the flawed hiring practices by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department. He also co-wrote an investigation that found the Los Angeles Police Department routinely misclassified violent crime data. A native of Springfield, Ohio, he joined The Times in 2012. Prior to that, he was the data editor at the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel.

Julia Barajas is a Los Angeles Times reporter and a native Angeleno. Before joining The Times, she covered the impact of changing drug policies in California and Latin America for Cannabis Wire. Her work has also appeared in La Opinión, La Prensa Gráfica and the Columbia Journalism Review. After graduating from the University of Chicago, she earned a master's in education from Cal State Long Beach, as well as a master's in journalism from Columbia University.

Times staff writers Nina Agrawal and Sonali Kohli contributed to this story.

California schools allowed to open for small groups with 'acute' needs under new guidance

<https://edsource.org/2020/california-schools-allowed-to-open-for-small-groups-with-acute-needs-under-new-guidance/638337/amp>

JOHN FENSTERWALD
Aug 14, 2020

John Fensterwald, staff writer, joined EdSource in 2012. Before that, he was editor and co-writer for The Educated Guess website, a leading source of California education policy reporting and opinion, which he founded in 2009. For 11 years before then, John wrote editorials for the Mercury News in San Jose, with a focus on education. He worked as a reporter, news editor and opinion editor for three newspapers in New Hampshire before receiving a Knight Fellowship at Stanford University in 1997. His wife is a retired elementary school teacher, and his daughter is a neurology resident at the University of California, Los Angeles School of Medicine.

LAUSD

Teachers Approve LAUSD's Plans For Fall Semester

<https://www.nbclosangeles.com/news/local/teachers-approve-lausds-plans-for-fall-semester/2413398/?amp>

CITY NEWS SERVICE

AUG 15, 2020

The LAUSD school year will begin next week.

L.A. schools announce massive COVID-19 testing, tracing initiative for all students, staff

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-16/l-a-schools-announce-massive-covid-19-testing-tracing-initiative-for-all-students-staff>

LAURA NEWBERRY & HOWARD BLUME

AUG 16, 2020

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

How we can get kids back to school safely during the pandemic

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-08-16/schools-covid-testing-coronavirus-pandemic-reopen>

AUSTIN BEUTNER

AUG 16, 2020

Austin Beutner is superintendent of the Los Angeles Unified School District.

He is an American businessman, civic leader and philanthropist. He co-founded Evercore Partners and is the former publisher and CEO of the Los Angeles Times and the San Diego Union-Tribune. He was the First Deputy Mayor of Los Angeles in 2011 and ran for Mayor of Los Angeles in 2012. Beutner, the son of German immigrants, was born in New York and raised in Grand Rapids, Michigan. His mother is a retired schoolteacher and his father is a retired manufacturing engineer.

Beutner attended Dartmouth College, where he majored in economics. After graduation in 1982 he went to work at Smith Barney as a financial analyst. At the age of 29, he became partner at The Blackstone Group. In the 1990s he co-founded the investment banking group Evercore Partners, which went public in 2006.

After the fall of the Soviet Union, Beutner went to work for the U.S. State Department. The Clinton administration tapped him to lead a team into Russia and help transition them from communism to a free-market economy, including the decommission of weapons and other materiel.

In 1996 Beutner co-founded Evercore Partners, an American independent investment banking advisory firm, with former Deputy Secretary of the Treasury, Roger Altman. When Evercore went public (NYSE-EVR) in 2006, the IPO reportedly made Beutner more than $100 million.

Churches, gyms, yoga studios applying to use county parks

<https://www.sandiegouniontribune.com/news/health/story/2020-08-16/churches-gyms-yoga-studios-applying-to-use-county-parks>

GARY WARTH
AUG 16, 2020

Gary Warth has covered a variety of beats since 1989 and now covers public safety and homeless issues at The San Diego Union-Tribune. A San Diego resident since the 1970s, he earned a journalism degree from San Diego State University and has won numerous awards for his work.

Several county parks are available for specific use without fees LAUSD Launches Online But With Massive Testing, Tracing Push To Speed Return To Classrooms

<https://deadline.com/2020/08/lausd-launches-online-massive-testing-tracing-push-to-speed-return-classrooms-1203015598/amp/>

JILL GOLDSMITH
Aug 17, 2020

As school starts, California districts try to improve virtual special education

<https://edsources.org/2020/as-school-starts-california-districts-try-to-improve-virtual-special-education/638325/amp>

CAROLYN JONES
AUG 17, 2020

Carolyn Jones is a senior reporter at EdSource. She was a reporter for 17 years at the San Francisco Chronicle, where she covered local government, the environment, breaking news and other beats. She's also worked at the Oakland Tribune and Hayward Daily Review.

LA Meets Five Of State's Six Coronavirus Benchmarks For Reopening

<https://patch.com/california/los-angeles/amp/28911933/la-meets-five-of-states-six-coronavirus-benchmarks-for-reopening>

PAIGE AUSTIN
Aug 17, 2020

I learned how to be a reporter at the Orange County Register, where I covered, of all things, Los Alamitos and Seal Beach. After a couple years, however, I broke through the Orange County barrier, landing one county away at The Press-Enterprise in Riverside. I covered everything from cities, to the national forest, to courts and prisons. I do have some pretty colorful war stories from those beats. So if you see me around town, you tell me your stories, and I'll tell you about the time I met Gov. Schwarzenegger...in prison...while wearing a stab-proof vest. Or I can tell you about the time I watched a Manson girl give a talk on anger management.

I joke around. A lot. However, journalism might be the only thing I take seriously. It's a very humbling job. Everyday, people trust you with their voice on topics that matter to them, and you have to try to live up to the responsibility. If I ever fail, I need you to tell me about it, so that I can get it right. It's important.

I am insecure enough to tell you about some of the journalism awards I have won – the Associated Press Award for investigative reporting, California Newspapers Publishers Association awards for investigative reporting and best special section, the Price Child Health and Welfare Journalism award from the Children's Advocacy Institute as well as Society of Professional Journalists awards for best enterprise stories, beat reporting, feature writing, and best environmental story. I think I tried to collect awards in an effort to intimidate editors into letting me chase the kinds of stories I want to do. It doesn't really work.

Working for Patch.com, my office consists of the cities I cover, Starbucks, and my house where my co-workers include a lovely gent named D'Wayne and two pugs – Monkey and Maggie. If we ever talk on the phone, it's Maggie you might hear faintly snoring in the background. Sorry, she just can't help it.

Your Beliefs

At Patch, we promise always to report the facts as objectively as possible and otherwise adhere to the principles of good journalism. However, we also acknowledge that true impartiality is impossible because human beings have beliefs. So in the spirit of simple honesty, our policy is to encourage our editors to reveal their beliefs to the extent they feel comfortable. This disclosure is not a license for you to inject your beliefs into stories or to dictate coverage according to them. In fact, the intent is the opposite: we hope that the knowledge that your beliefs are on the record will cause you to be ever mindful to write, report and edit in a fair, balanced way. And if you ever see evidence that we failed in this mission, please let us know.

Politics: pro-environment and equality for all

Religion: The unholy trinity of Joseph Heller, Kurt Vonnegut and John Steinbeck

'Are we ready?' LAUSD's first day back to school, online and on Zoom, is anything but normal

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-18/lausd-reopens-online-on-zoom-amid-anxiety>

HOWARD BLUME & PALOMA ESQUIVEL & ANDREW J. CAMPA

AUG. 18, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Andrew J. Campa covers the coming and goings of the Eastside, Boyle Heights, Echo Park, parts of the San Gabriel Valley and the Southeast Corridor. He previously worked at the Glendale News-Press, Burbank Leader, Whittier Daily News and Pasadena Star-News and has covered education, sports and general news. He's a proud Cal State Fullerton (#tusksup) and Pasadena City College alumnus. He hopes the Chicago Bears will get back to the Super Bowl before he dies.

Domestic violence rose during lockdown – and injuries are dramatically more severe, study finds

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2020-08-18/intimate-partner-violence-spiked-80-after-pandemic-lockdown-began>

MELISSA HEALY
AUG 18, 2020

Melissa Healy is a health and science reporter with the Los Angeles Times writing from the Washington, D.C., area. She covers prescription drugs, obesity, nutrition and exercise, and neuroscience, mental health and human behavior. She's been at The Times for more than 30 years, and has covered national security, environment, domestic social policy, Congress and the White House. As a baby boomer, she keenly follows trends in midlife weight gain, memory loss and the health benefits of red wine.

A scientific approach to education reform

<https://news.mit.edu/2020/grasp-book-sanjay-sarma-0818>

DAVID L. CHANDLER
MIT NEWS OFFICE
AUG 18, 2020

I Am a Teacher. In-Person School Is Not Worth the Risk

<https://www.newsweek.com/i-am-teacher-person-school-not-worth-risk-opinion-1526170?amp=1>

LISA TOWNLEY
AUG 18, 2020

Lisa Townley is an elementary and middle school teacher in Massachusetts.

The views expressed in this article are the author's own.

Reopening elementary schools is risky — but so is keeping them closed

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-19/coronavirus-covid-19-reopen-elementary-schools>

RONG-GONG LIN II
AUG 19, 2020

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Education cannot be paused for a pandemic

<https://thehill.com/blogs/congress-blog/education/512806-education-cannot-be-paused-for-a-pandemic?amp>

REP. MICHAEL C. BURGESS, M.D.
(R-TEXAS)
AUG 19, 2020

Michael Burgess was born in Rochester, Minnesota, the son of Norma (née Crowhurst) and Harry Meredith Burgess; his paternal family immigrated from Nova Scotia, a province of Canada.^[3] He graduated from North Texas State University (now the University of North Texas) in 1972 and graduated from the medical school at The University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston in 1977.^[4] He completed a residency in Obstetrics and Gynecology at Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas, Texas.^[5] Burgess is an Anglican.^[6]

Burgess represents the 26th District of Texas and is ranking member of the Energy and Commerce Subcommittee on Health.

L.A. coronavirus cases dropping so low that officials could soon seek to reopen schools

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-20/los-angeles-coronavirus-cases-school-waiver>

MAURA DOLAN & HOWARD BLUME

AUG 20, 2020

Maura Dolan is the California-based legal affairs writer for the Los Angeles Times. She covers the California Supreme Court and the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals. A California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has worked in Washington and Los Angeles for The Times. She is now based in San Francisco.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

'It's a frustrating period.' Yet LAUSD teachers muster smiles on the first day of school https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-21/its-a-frustrating-period-yet-laUSD-teachers-muster-smiles-on-the-first-day-of-school?_amp=true

HOWARD BLUME & ANDREW J. CAMPA

AUG 21, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Andrew J. Campa covers the coming and goings of the Eastside, Boyle Heights, Echo Park, parts of the San Gabriel Valley and the Southeast Corridor. He previously worked at the Glendale News-Press, Burbank Leader, Whittier Daily News and Pasadena Star-News and has covered education, sports and general news. He's a proud Cal State Fullerton (#tusksup) and Pasadena City College alumnus. He hopes the Chicago Bears will get back to the Super Bowl before he dies.

With less money and more risk, waves of child-care providers call it quits

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-22/coronavirus-dwindling-child-care-options-california>

RIKHA SHARMA RANI

AUG 22, 2020

Sharma Rani is a journalist with the Fuller Project, a global nonprofit journalism newsroom reporting on issues that affect women. Rikha is a senior writer for Fuller Project. She has reported extensively on immigration, domestic human trafficking, and criminal justice reform. She was on the US-Mexico border in the fall of 2017 providing first-hand accounts of the family separation crisis. In the lead up to the 2016 presidential election, she profiled five formerly incarcerated people who were casting their ballots for the first time. Her work has been published in The New York Times, The Atlantic, Politico Magazine, Montgomery Advertiser, and the Columbia Journalism Review. Rikha holds a Master's degree from Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs, where she studied economic and political development. She is also a former editor-in-chief of the Journal of International Affairs.

Conservatives are blowing their opportunity to remake education

<https://thehill.com/opinion/education/513242-conservatives-are-blowing-their-opportunity-to-remake-education?amp>

RYAN JAMES GIRDUSKY

AUG 23, 2020

Ryan James Girdusky is a New York native.

Since 2007, Ryan has worked in politics, starting out with New York City Councilwoman Helen Sears. He has worked on dozens of political campaigns including Michael Bloomberg for Mayor, Bob Turner for Congress, Liberty for All Super PAC, Bob Holden for City Council, and for the Logan Circle Group.

As a writer, Ryan's work has been featured in nearly a dozen publications, and he has been a guest on many television and radio shows. He is the author of the upcoming book "They're Not Listening: How the Elites Created the National Populist Revolution"

On or off? California schools weigh webcam concerns during distance learning

<https://edsource.org/2020/on-or-off-california-schools-weigh-webcam-concerns-during-distance-learning/638984/amp>

SYDNEY JOHNSON

AUG 26, 2020

Sydney Johnson covers math and science, among other topics. Before joining EdSource, Sydney was an assistant editor at EdSurge where she covered higher education and technology. Her work has also appeared in Slate, The Huffington Post, the East Bay Express, San Francisco magazine and other outlets. She has a B.A. and a B.S. from UC Berkeley.

Low-income parents turn to neighbors, family for help with distance learning

<https://edsource.org/author/zstavely>

ZAIDEE STAVELY

AUG 28, 2020

Zaidee Stavelly is a bilingual print and radio reporter who has worked in Mexico and the U.S. She has covered education, immigration, environmental justice and traditional arts for KQED, Radio Bilingüe, and Public Radio International's "The World," among other outlets. Zaidee has won numerous awards for her journalism, including an Emmy, a Regional Edward R. Murrow Award, an Excellence in Journalism Award from SPJ Northern California, and the Rubén Salazar Award from CCCNMA: Latino Journalists of California. She grew up in rural Mendocino County, where both her parents taught in public one-room schoolhouses. She has a Master's degree from the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism and a B.A. in Latin American and Latino Studies and Community Studies from UC Santa Cruz. She lives in Oakland with her husband and two children.

LAUSD's liberal student attendance policy raises eyebrows

https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-28/pandemic-school-attendance-rules-eased?_amp=true

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 28, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

When can schools reopen under new state rules? It's all about color-coded tiers and waivers

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-29/when-can-schools-reopen-under-new-state-rules-its-all-about-color-tiers-and-waivers>

HOWARD BLUME & PHIL WILLON

AUG 29, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Phil Willon covers Gov. Gavin Newsom and California politics for the Los Angeles Times. He reports from Sacramento and his previous assignments included the 2018 governor's race and the 2016 U.S. Senate race. Before heading north, Willon covered Los Angeles Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa and roamed Southern California's mountains and deserts as the paper's state correspondent in the Inland Empire. Prior to joining The Times, Willon served as the Washington, D.C., correspondent for the Tampa Tribune. At the Tribune, Willon also covered Florida Gov. Lawton Chiles, Hurricane Andrew and the investigation leading to the arrest of serial killer Danny Rolling. He began his newspaper career as the Kent Island correspondent for the Capital in Annapolis, Md. Willon grew up in Southern California and graduated from UC San Diego.

Times staff writer Nina Agrawal contributed to this report.

LAUSD enrollment decline continues during online learning, with unexpected drop of 6,000 kindergarteners

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-08-31/lausd-kindergarten-enrollment-drop>

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 31, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Child care providers struggle as need for services remain for many

<https://www.msnbc.com/kasie-dc/watch/inside-the-shecession-childcare-workers-feel-squeeze-as-covid-costs-rise-enrollment-shrinks-90879045794>

MOLLY ROECKER & ALI VITALI
AUG 31, 2020

Molly Roecker graduated from the University Of California, San Diego in 2015 with a B.A. in Political Science. She is a Producer/ NBC Nightly News.

Ali Vitali is a White House Reporter for NBC News Digital covering the Trump Administration out of Washington DC and frequently appearing on MSNBC. Before moving to the nation's capital, she spent nearly two years covering Donald Trump's campaign for president as a campaign embed for NBC News, living every twist of the 2016 race in real time, reporting it for NBC News platforms online and on-air. In July 2017, Ali was named one of Huffington Post's Top 25 Millennial Broadcasters In American News and Politics.

Her past lives include producing for Krystal Clear (livestreamed on Shift by msnbc) and The Cycle on MSNBC. She has written on politics, feminism, millennial news, and pop culture with her words featured on msnbc.com and Sweet Lemon Magazine.

Ali is a Tulane alumni with a propensity for typing in ALL CAPS and a passion for live-tweeting press conferences. One of her favorite boasts is that she has memorized, and will perform on occasion, the full music video dance to Robyn's "Call Your Girlfriend."

Though she will never live up to Taran Killam's excellence in this endeavor, she probably won't stop trying. Head over to the side bar on your right for a taste of all her work.

Zoom overload, COVID-19 hardship: Thousands of kindergartners vanish from local schools

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-09-01/lausd-kindergarten-enrollment-drop-online-learning>

HOWARD BLUME & PALOMA ESQUIVEL & ANDREW J. CAMPA
SEP 1, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Andrew J. Campa covers the coming and goings of the Eastside, Boyle Heights, Echo Park, parts of the San Gabriel Valley and the Southeast Corridor. He previously worked at the Glendale News-Press, Burbank Leader, Whittier Daily News and Pasadena Star-News and has covered education, sports and general news. He's a proud Cal State Fullerton (#tusksup) and Pasadena City College alumnus. He hopes the Chicago Bears will get back to the Super Bowl before he dies.

Times staff writer Julia Barajas contributed to this report.

California schools are off to a better start. But problems persist

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-09-02/new-school-year-california-instruction-improvements>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

SEP 2, 2020

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, ~~which operates separately from the newsroom,~~ proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

The challenges of homeschooling in a homeless shelter

<https://komonews.com/amp/news/back-to-school/homeschooling-in-a-homeless-shelter>

DENISE WHITAKER

Sep 4, 2020

Life is an adventure! That's the way KOMO 4 Weekend Morning Anchor, Denise Whitaker views her time here on earth. Denise and her husband Terron enjoy Adventure Racing, a multi-sport competition where you navigate your way through a secret course by mountain biking, hiking, canoeing or kayaking, with a little climbing or rappelling thrown in for good measure!

Professionally, Denise worked her way up through the ranks of television news, anchoring weekend weather, reporting and finally anchoring the news.

She grew up in and around Chicago, but called five states home, before she found her new home in Seattle. Denise loves doing what she can for others, serving in the past on the boards of Big Brothers Big Sisters, Susan G Komen Foundation, American Diabetes Association and various groups that promote health and physical fitness. Arkansas Governor Mike Huckabee appointed Denise to his Governor's Council on Fitness and awarded her the Arkansas Traveler Certificate.

When she's not outside running a trail, or mountain biking, you'll find Denise in the kitchen, creating gourmet, yet healthy recipes.

State warns homeschooling pods need to follow regulations and get the right permits

<https://kpic.com/amp/news/local/state-warns-homeschooling-pods-need-to-follow-regulations-and-get-the-right-permits>

MEGAN WILLGOOS

SEP 4, 2020

Megan Willgoos comes to us all the way from the east coast. She was born and raised in Connecticut until she moved to Rhode Island two years ago. She joined the News 10 team as a reporter in May 2020.

Megan graduated Summa Cum Laude from Roger Williams University in Bristol, R.I. with a degree in Journalism and minor in Graphic Design. During her time at RWU, she interned with Boston's News Leader WCVB and ABC6 News in Providence, R.I.

Although she loves being on a beach by the ocean, the mountains in the Rogue Valley are growing on her. Outside of work, she can be found at the gym or outside on a hike soaking up the sun.

Megan is happiest when she is petting any animal or tasting food at a local restaurant. If you have a story idea, want to chat or have a dachshund up for adoption, you can reach her at mewillgoos@ktvl.com

Registrations for Homeschooling Are Soaring

<https://www.psychologytoday.com/us/blog/freedom-learn/202009/registrations-homeschooling-are-soaring?amp>

PETER GRAY
SEP 7, 2020

Peter Gray, Ph.D., research professor at Boston College, is author of Free to Learn The roles of play and curiosity as foundations for learning (2015); and Psychology (Worth Publishers, a college textbook now in its 8th edition). He has conducted and published research in neuroendocrinology, developmental psychology, anthropology, and education. He did his undergraduate study at Columbia University and earned a Ph.D. in biological sciences at Rockefeller University. His current research and writing focus primarily on children's natural ways of learning and the life-long value of play. He is a founding member of the nonprofit Alliance for Self-Directed Education and a founding board member of the nonprofit Let Grow. His own play includes not only his research and writing, but also long distance bicycling, kayaking, back-woods skiing, and vegetable gardening.

What's happening with COVID in schools? We don't know

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-09-08/covid-schools-data-transparency>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

SEP 8, 2020

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

Students are creating free tutoring services to help during the pandemic

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-10-13/free-online-tutoring-resources-la-students>

ADA TSENG
OCT 13, 2020

Ada Tseng is an assistant editor on the utility journalism team at the L.A. Times. The utility journalism team publishes stories and information that help people solve problems, answer questions and make big decisions about life in and around Los Angeles. She previously led coverage of Orange County as TimesOC's entertainment editor, and she co-hosts the Asian American pop culture history podcast Saturday School.

Parents are paying up to $100 an hour for tutors, driving up demand and worsening inequities

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-10-13/covid-19-tutor-demand-cant-afford-one>

LAURA NEWBERRY

OCT 13, 2020

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

Times staff writer Howard Blume contributed to this report.

California's homeless students could fill Dodger Stadium 5 times, study finds

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-10-21/homeless-students-in-california-ucla-report>

LAURA NEWBERRY

OCT 21, 2020

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

Getting kids back in classrooms should be a top pandemic priority, LAUSD superintendent says

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-11-17/op-ed-kids-classrooms-covid19-pandemic-priority>

AUSTIN BEUTNER

NOV 17, 2020

Austin Beutner is superintendent of the Los Angeles Unified School District.

He is an American businessman, civic leader and philanthropist. He co-founded Evercore Partners and is the former publisher and CEO of the Los Angeles Times and the San Diego Union-Tribune. He was the First Deputy Mayor of Los Angeles in 2011 and ran for Mayor of Los Angeles in 2012. Beutner, the son of German immigrants, was born in New York and raised in Grand Rapids, Michigan. His mother is a retired schoolteacher and his father is a retired manufacturing engineer.

Beutner attended Dartmouth College, where he majored in economics. After graduation in 1982 he went to work at Smith Barney as a financial analyst. At the age of 29, he became partner at The Blackstone Group. In the 1990s he co-founded the investment banking group Evercore Partners, which went public in 2006.

After the fall of the Soviet Union, Beutner went to work for the U.S. State Department. The Clinton administration tapped him to lead a team into Russia and help transition them from communism to a free-market economy, including the decommission of weapons and other materiel.

In 1996 Beutner co-founded Evercore Partners, an American independent investment banking advisory firm, with former Deputy Secretary of the Treasury, Roger Altman. When Evercore went public (NYSE:EVR) in 2006, the IPO reportedly made Beutner more than $100 million.

L.A. County moves to create new juvenile justice system focused on 'care,' not punishment

<https://www.latimes.com/local/countygovernment/la-me-jvenile-halls-chaos-pepper-spray-detention-probation-20190519-story.html>

JACLYN COSGROVE

NOV 25, 2020

Jaclyn Cosgrove is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. Previously, she worked as the health reporter at the Oklahoman. She was selected for a 2015-16 Rosalynn Carter Fellowship for Mental Health Journalism. For her fellowship project, she explored the barriers that low-income, uninsured people with mental illnesses face in finding treatment. Cosgrove is originally from Arpeler, Okla., and graduated from Oklahoma State University.

Times staff writer Matt Stiles contributed to this report.

For a learning pod of homeless students, school days unfold in a motel carport

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-11-26/covid-19-homeless-students-form-learning-pod-carport>

LAURA NEWBERRY

NOV 26, 2020

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

They know the pain of online learning. Here's what teachers, parents and students did about it

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-12-01/distance-learning-heroes-school-covid-19-teachers-parents>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL & JULIA BARAJAS & LAURA NEWBERRY

DEC 1, 2020

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Julia Barajas is a Los Angeles Times reporter and a native Angeleno. Before joining The Times, she covered the impact of changing drug policies in California and Latin America for Cannabis Wire. Her work has also appeared in La Opinión, La Prensa Gráfica and the Columbia Journalism Review. After graduating from the University of Chicago, she earned a master's in education from Cal State Long Beach, as well as a master's in journalism from Columbia University.

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

Times staff writers Nina Agrawal & Howard Blume contributed to this report.

California unveiled a blueprint for the future of early education. Critics say it's built on shaky ground

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-12-01/california-unveiled-a-blueprint-for-the-future-of-early-education-critics-say-its-built-on-shaky-ground>

SONYA SHARP
DEC 1, 2020

Sonya Sharp covers the Westside for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2019, she worked as an NYPD-credentialed member of the New York City press corps, writing stranger-than-fiction stories of crime and culture for VICE, the Wall Street Journal and the Village Voice, among others. She is a Bay Area native, a graduate of UC Berkeley and Columbia, and a proud Jewish mother.

Angry parents won't let officials slide over closed playgrounds, packed malls

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-12-03/covid-19-la-parents-anger-closed-playgrounds>

HAILEY BRANSON-POTTS
DEC 3, 2020

Hailey Branson-Potts is a Metro reporter who joined the Los Angeles Times in 2011. She has reported on a wide range of topics, including rural California and LGBTQ issues. Branson-Potts was part of the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for its coverage of the San Bernardino terrorist attack, as well as the team that was a 2020 Pulitzer finalist for its coverage of a boat fire that killed 34 people off the coast of Santa Barbara. She grew up in the tiny town of Perry, Okla., got her start at the Perry Daily Journal, and graduated from the University of Oklahoma.

When schools reopen will you send your child back?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-12-03/lausd-parents-debate-school-return-covid-19-surge>

HOWARD BLUME
DEC 3, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Dangerous COVID-19 surge leads to hard shutdown of L.A. public schools

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-12-07/lausd-total-campus-shutdown-amid-pandemic-surge>

HOWARD BLUME & PALOMA ESQUIVEL
DEC 7, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Schools are at least as important as shopping malls. Keep what's open, open

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-12-08/schools-covid19-laUSD-closure>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

DEC 8, 2020

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

Kids are hurting. Reopen California schools as soon as COVID rates drop

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-12-10/school-reopening-guidelines-coronavirus>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

DEC 10, 2020

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

The push-and-pull drama over school reopenings reaches fever pitch in L.A. and Orange counties

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-12-12/laUSD-parents-sue-to-reopen-oc-teachers-plead-to-shut-down>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ

DEC 12, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

L.A. Unified will not give Fs this semester and instead give students a second chance to pass

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-12-14/lausd-extend-no-fail-policy-january-covid-19>

HOWARD BLUME
DEC 14, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Eric Sondheimer contributed to this story.

Kelly Gonez, 32, first in her family to attend college, is new L.A. school board president

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-12-15/kelly-gonez-is-new-l-a-school-board-president>

HOWARD BLUME
DEC 15, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

California population growth hits record lows, stifled by COVID-19 and continued exodus

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-12-16/california-population-growth-hits-record-lows-fueled-by-covid-19-continued-exodus>

HAYLEY SMITH & HAILEY BRANSON-POTTS
DEC 16, 2020

Hayley Smith covers trending and breaking news for the Los Angeles Times. She previously contributed to The Times' COVID-19 project, "The Pandemic's Toll: Lives Lost in California," in partnership with the Pulitzer Center and USC. Her work has been featured in Oprah Magazine, Vogue, HuffPost and other outlets. Originally from Miami, she holds a master's degree in journalism from the University of Southern California's Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism.

Hailey Branson-Potts is a Metro reporter who joined the Los Angeles Times in 2011. She has reported on a wide range of topics, including rural California and LGBTQ issues. Branson-Potts was part of the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for its coverage of the San Bernardino terrorist attack, as well as the team that was a 2020 Pulitzer finalist for its coverage of a boat fire that killed 34 people off the coast of Santa Barbara. She grew up in the tiny town of Perry, Okla., got her start at the Perry Daily Journal, and graduated from the University of Oklahoma.

Unions for teachers, nurses, grocery and hotel workers call for L.A. County shutdown in January

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-12-17/unions-call-emergency-la-county-covid-19-shutdown>

HOWARD BLUME
DEC 17, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. teachers will spend more live time with students amid uncertainty over school reopening

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-12-18/la-teachers-increase-live-online-classes-students>

HOWARD BLUME
DEC 18, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. Unified will not reopen campuses when the spring semester starts Jan. 11

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-12-21/covid-19-surge-keep-laUSD-closed-january>

HOWARD BLUME
DEC 21, 2020

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Help the students COVID-19 has pushed through the cracks

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-12-29/help-the-students-covid-19-has-pushed-through-the-cracks>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
DEC 29, 2020

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

Helping poor schools reopen

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2020-12-30/helping-poor-schools-reopen>

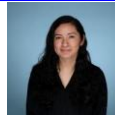

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

DEC 30, 2020

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher~~, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

Facing a spike in Fs, winter break isn't a vacation for many teachers and students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-12-30/teachers-students-covid-winter-break-challenges>

MELISSA GOMEZ

DEC 30, 2020

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Coronavirus Today: The big school reopening debate

<https://www.latimes.com/science/newsletter/2021-01-07/coronavirus-today-school-reopening-debate-coronavirus-today>

AMINA KHAN

JAN 7, 2021

Amina Khan is a science writer covering a broad range of topics, from Mars rovers to linguistics to bio-inspired engineering — but she's perhaps best known for her repeated and brutal attacks on the office snack table. She surfs and snowboards in her spare time.

Newsom's budget targets reopening, reviving public schools and universities

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-01-09/newsom-california-budget-prioritizes-reopening-k-12-schools>

HOWARD BLUME & TERESA WATANABE & NINA AGRAWAL

JAN 9, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on

KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Teresa Watanabe covers education for the Los Angeles Times. Since joining the Times in 1989, she has covered immigration, ethnic communities, religion, Pacific Rim business and served as Tokyo correspondent and bureau chief. She also covered Asia, national affairs and state government for the San Jose Mercury News and wrote editorials for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. A Seattle native, she graduated from USC in journalism and in East Asian languages and culture.

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

Stunned teachers and scared students: How the Capitol insurrection is overtaking lessons

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-01-11/teachers-handling-capitol-insurrection-in-class>

MELISSA GOMEZ

JAN 11, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

These mentors see the 'collective trauma' of pandemic-hit teens. Here's how they help

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-01-12/city-year-the-mental-health-arm-of-america-is-helping-scores-of-students-in-los-angeles-and-boyle-heights-to-help-them-through-pandemic-isolation>

JULIA BARAJAS

JAN 12, 2021

Julia Barajas is a Los Angeles Times reporter and a native Angeleno. Before joining The Times, she covered the impact of changing drug policies in California and Latin America for Cannabis Wire. Her work has also appeared in La Opinión, La Prensa Gráfica and the Columbia Journalism Review. After graduating from the University of Chicago, she earned a master's in education from Cal State Long Beach, as well as a master's in journalism from Columbia University.

State tightens rules for reopening schools as high COVID-19 rates hold districts back

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-01-15/covid-cases-stop-southern-california-from-reopening-schools>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL

JAN 15, 2021

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

I tried to start a pandemic pod for my 5-year-old. Here's how it went wrong

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-01-22/covid-19-rules-social-pod-daughter>

CINDY CARCAMO
JAN 22, 2021

Cindy Carcamo covers immigration issues for the Los Angeles Times. Previously, she was Arizona bureau chief and a national correspondent for The Times, focusing on border and immigration issues in the Southwest. A Los Angeles native, she has reported in Argentina and Mexico during her time as an Inter American Press Assn. scholar and as a reporter for the Orange County Register. She's also reported from Guatemala and Honduras where her coverage was part of a team Overseas Press Club Award. She is also the recipient of the French-American Foundation's 2012 Immigration Journalism Award and was a finalist for the 2012 PEN Center USA Literary Award in Journalism and 2011 Livingston Award.

Teachers need COVID-19 vaccine before L.A. schools can reopen, Beutner says

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-01-25/vaccination-teachers-necessary-reopen-los-angeles-schools-beutner-says>

HOWARD BLUME
JAN 25, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

To get vaccine priority, teachers should agree to return to the classroom

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-01-26/covid-vaccine-teachers-return-school>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
JAN 26, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

L.A.-area elementary schools could reach threshold for reopening in two to three weeks, Ferrer says

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-01-27/los-angeles-area-schools-could-reach-threshold-for-reopening-in-2-to-3-weeks-ferrer-says>

HOWARD BLUME
JAN 27, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Jaclyn Cosgrove contributed to this report.

When coronavirus invaded their tiny apartment, children desperately tried to protect dad

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-01-29/how-overcrowded-housing-led-to-covid-death-la-family>

BRITTNY MEJIA
JAN 29, 2021

Brittny Mejia is a general assignment reporter at the Los Angeles Times who focuses on covering the Latino community. She was part of the team of reporters awarded the Pulitzer Prize for its coverage of the 2015 San Bernardino terrorist attack.

Times staff writer Ryan Menezes contributed to this report.

Los Angeles schools to remain in hard shutdown for near future, Beutner says

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-01/la-schools-remain-shut-down-near-future-covid>

HOWARD BLUME
FEB 1, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Southern California pediatricians call for L.A.-area schools to immediately reopen

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-03/southern-california-pediatricians-call-schools-reopen>

HOWARD BLUME
FEB 3, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Schools can safely move to reopen even if teachers are not all vaccinated, Newsom says

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-03/schools-can-reopen-before-all-teachers-get-covid-vaccine>

LUKE MONEY & RONG-GONG LIN II & HOWARD BLUME

FEB 3, 2021

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

San Francisco, amid school renaming flap, sues its school district to reopen during pandemic

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-03/sf-sues-its-schools-to-reopen-during-coronavirus-pandemic>

MAURA DOLAN

FEB 3, 2021

Maura Dolan is the California-based legal affairs writer for the Los Angeles Times. She covers the California Supreme Court and the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals. A California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has worked in Washington and Los Angeles for The Times. She is now based in San Francisco.

We need to reopen schools, but only when it's safe

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-02-03/california-school-reopening-campus-coronavirus-covid19>

ROBIN ABCARIAN

FEB 3, 2021

Robin Abcarian is an opinion columnist at the Los Angeles Times. She writes about news, politics and culture. Her columns appear on Wednesday and Sunday.

Coronavirus Today: The school-reopening battle

<https://www.latimes.com/science/newsletter/2021-02-04/coronavirus-today-school-reopening-vaccinations-teachers-coronavirus-today>

AMINA KHAN
FEB 4, 2021

Amina Khan is a science writer covering a broad range of topics, from Mars rovers to linguistics to bio-inspired engineering — but she's perhaps best known for her repeated and brutal attacks on the office snack table. She surfs and snowboards in her spare time.

Teachers face pressure to return even before COVID-19 vaccinations completed

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-04/california-debates-teacher-vaccines-reopening-schools>

HOWARD BLUME & DEBORAH NETBURN & LUKE MONEY & RONG-GONG LIN II
FEB 4, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Deborah Netburn is a features writer at the Los Angeles Times. Endlessly curious, she's covered a wide variety of topics since starting at the paper in 2006, including entertainment, home and garden, national news, technology and science. She's hung out with Tibetan monks in the Pacific Palisades, seen seahorses at the bottom of Alamitos Bay and spent time with the working witches of Los Angeles. She is always looking for a good story.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Times staff writers Taryn Luna and Melissa Gomez contributed to this report.

Overlooked in Biden's COVID-19 proposal: A push to cut child poverty in half

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/story/2021-02-05/biden-covid-plan-includes-major-anti-poverty-push>

DAVID LAUTER
FEB 5, 2021

David Lauter is the Los Angeles Times' Washington bureau chief. He began writing news in Washington in 1981 and since then has covered Congress, the Supreme Court, the White House under Presidents George H.W. Bush and Bill Clinton and four U.S. presidential campaigns. He lived in Los Angeles from 1995 to 2011, where he was The Times' deputy Foreign editor, deputy Metro editor and then assistant managing editor responsible for California coverage.

Start reopening California schools. Now

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

FEB 5, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

Amid COVID-19 family hardships, high school students work double duty: jobs and school

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-05/la-students-take-on-jobs-help-families-amid-covid-19>

LAURA NEWBERRY

FEB 5, 2021

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

Staff writers Julia Barajas and Melissa Gomez contributed to this report.

Kids are suffering. Follow the science and reopen schools now

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-02-06/schools-reopen-california-children-harm>

ALICE KUO

FEB 6, 2021

Dr. Alice Kuo is a Professor of Internal Medicine and Pediatrics at the David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA, and of Health Policy and Management in the Fielding UCLA School of Public Health. She is also Chief of Medicine-Pediatrics at UCLA. Her research interests include access to and delivery of developmental services, cognitive and language development in young minority children, and services for children and adults with autism and other neurodevelopmental disorders. Since 2014, she has been the Director of the Maternal and Child Health Bureau (MCHB)-funded Health Care Transitions Research Network (HCT-RN) for Autism Spectrum Disorder.

With 25,000 vaccines, L.A. elementary schools could reopen as soon as possible, Beutner says

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-08/beutner-25000-covid-vaccines-reopen-elementary-schools>

HOWARD BLUME

FEB 8, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on

KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Union approves deal with Chicago schools to return to class

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-02-10/union-approves-deal-with-chicago-schools-to-return-to-class>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

FEB 10, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Biden wants to reopen schools. California could hold him back

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/story/2021-02-10/biden-faces-california-roadblock-in-school-reopening-push>

CHRIS MEGERIAN

FEB 10, 2021

Chris Megerian covers the White House from the Los Angeles Times' D.C. bureau. He previously wrote about the Russia investigation, the 2016 presidential campaign and the 2015 United Nations summit on global warming in Paris. While based in Sacramento, he reported on Gov. Jerry Brown, climate change policies, California politics and state finances. Before joining The Times in January 2012, he spent three years covering politics and law enforcement at the Star-Ledger in New Jersey. He grew up in Massachusetts and graduated from Emory University in Atlanta.

L.A. elementary schools rapidly approach reopening threshold, but teacher vaccines lacking

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-10/la-elementary-schools-approach-reopening-threshold-teacher-vaccines-lacking>

HOWARD BLUME

FEB 10, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer David Zahniser contributed to this report.

If you really believe kids are our most precious resource, say it with cash

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-02-10/column-if-you-really-believe-kids-are-our-most-precious-resource-say-it-with-cash>

ROBIN ABCARIAN
FEB 10, 2021

Robin Abcarian is an opinion columnist at the Los Angeles Times. She writes about news, politics and culture. Her columns appear on Wednesday and Sunday.

About 60 Huntington Beach high school teachers take leave due to on-campus requirement

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-11/about-60-huntington-beach-high-school-teachers-take-leave-due-to-on-campus-requirement>

MATT SZABO
FEB 11, 2021

Matt Szabo is a sports reporter for the Daily Pilot. A Southern California native and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo graduate, he has been covering sports for L.A. Times Community News since 2006, most extensively water polo and tennis. (714) 966-4614. Szabo writes for Times Community News.

California plans to close troubled youth prisons after 80 years. But what comes next?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-11-25/la-county-could-dismantle-juvenile-justice-system-for-care-first-model>

JAMES RAINEY
FEB 15, 2021

James Rainey has covered multiple presidential elections, the war in Iraq, the foster care system and the environment. He was part of L.A. Times teams that won Pulitzer Prizes for coverage of wildfires, the 1994 Northridge earthquake and the 1997 North Hollywood shootout. He wrote the twice-weekly column, "On the Media." He also reported on the film industry for Variety and on climate change for NBC News.

Biden is making a big push against child poverty. But for how long?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-02-16/biden-covid-reconciliation-anti-poverty>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
FEB 16, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

L.A. school board cuts its police force and diverts funds for Black student achievement

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-16/lausd-diverting-school-police-funds-support-black-students>

MELISSA GOMEZ
FEB 16, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

L.A. Unified is officially out of excuses for keeping elementary schools closed

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-02-17/editorial-l-a-unified-is-officially-out-of-excuses-for-keeping-elementary-schools-closed>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
FEB 17, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

L.A. elementary schools can finally reopen, but it will be complicated, uneven

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-15/lausd-school-vaccination-site-for-teachers-staff>

HOWARD BLUME & PALOMA ESQUIVEL & LAURA NEWBERRY
FEB 17, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

L.A. Unified gets 100 doses but needs thousands to reopen schools

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-17/los-angeles-long-beach-schools-teacher-vaccine-reopenings>

HOWARD BLUME

FEB 17, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Sam Farmer contributed to this report.

Which way schools? America needs a straight answer

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-02-18/editorial-covid-19-school-reopening>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

FEB 18, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, in consultation with the publisher, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

Gov. Gavin Newsom, legislators at odds over $6.6-billion plan to open California elementary schools in April

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-18/gavin-newsom-sidelines-legislature-covid-19-school-plan>

TARYN LUNA & JOHN MYERS

SACRAMENTO

FEB 18, 2021

Taryn Luna covers state government and politics in Sacramento. Prior to joining the Los Angeles Times in 2018, Luna covered the California Legislature and lobbying industry for The Sacramento Bee. She previously wrote about retail for The Boston Globe and worked as a general assignment reporter for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. Luna grew up in Dixon, a small town in Northern California, and graduated from Oregon State University.

John Myers joined the Los Angeles Times as Sacramento bureau chief in 2015 after more than two decades in radio and television news, much of that as an award-winning reporter covering statehouse policy and politics. During a decade of work for San Francisco's NPR affiliate, his unique online projects included everything from one of Sacramento's original politics blogs to California's first politics podcast. He also served as the moderator of gubernatorial debates in 2014 and 2010. Often cited by state and national news organizations as one of Sacramento's top journalists, he's a graduate of Duke University and the University of California, Berkeley.

California will earmark 10% of weekly COVID-19 vaccine supply for teachers

JOHN MYERS & TARYN LUNA
SACRAMENTO
FEB 19, 2021

John Myers joined the Los Angeles Times as Sacramento bureau chief in 2015 after more than two decades in radio and television news, much of that as an award-winning reporter covering statehouse policy and politics. During a decade of work for San Francisco's NPR affiliate, his unique online projects included everything from one of Sacramento's original politics blogs to California's first politics podcast. He also served as the moderator of gubernatorial debates in 2014 and 2010. Often cited by state and national news organizations as one of Sacramento's top journalists, he's a graduate of Duke University and the University of California, Berkeley.

Taryn Luna covers state government and politics in Sacramento. Prior to joining the Los Angeles Times in 2018, Luna covered the California Legislature and lobbying industry for The Sacramento Bee. She previously wrote about retail for The Boston Globe and worked as a general assignment reporter for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. Luna grew up in Dixon,

No quick path to reopening L.A. Unified is emerging as school year slips away

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-21/la-teachers-union-vaccination-demand-school-reopening>

HOWARD BLUME & STEPHANIE CHAVEZ
FEB 21, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Chavez returns to the Los Angeles Times, where for more than two decades she covered a variety of reporting beats — including education — and served as deputy city editor and weekend Metro editor, overseeing coverage of earthquakes, brush fires, mudslides and mass shootings. Later as an editor on the National desk, she played a key role in the paper's digital efforts and ran breaking stories including the Gulf oil spill and Boston Marathon bombing. Chavez left The Times in 2015 and most recently worked as a communications and strategy specialist for a Pasadena school. In her new role, she will oversee Metro's education coverage while also working across the paper to launch initiatives around learning and youth issues.

L.A. Unified School District to return to sports conditioning the week of March 1

<https://www.latimes.com/sports/highschool/story/2021-02-22/los-angeles-unified-school-district-sports-conditioning-week-of-march-1>

ERIC SONDHEIMER
FEB 22, 2021

Eric Sondheimer is the prep sports columnist for the Los Angeles Times. He has been honored seven times by the California Prep Sportswriters Assn. for best prep sports column. A graduate of Cal State Northridge, he joined the Daily News as prep editor in 1980. He left for 18 months in 1990 to be West Coast correspondent for the National Sports Daily. He returned to the Daily News in 1991 and joined The Times in 1997 covering high school sports. He has covered Southern California high school sports for more than 40 years.

Take it from me: The longer kids are out of classrooms, the more they'll suffer academically

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-22/skelton-schools-reopening-covid-19-vaccine-newsom-california>

GEORGE SKELTON
SACRAMENTO
FEB 22, 2021

Political columnist George Skelton has covered government and politics for more than 50 years and for The Times since 1974. He has been a Times political writer and editor in Los Angeles, Sacramento bureau chief and White House correspondent. He has written a column on California politics, "Capitol Journal," since 1993. Skelton is a Santa Barbara native, grew up in Ojai and received a journalism degree at San Jose State.

LAUSD to resume limited in-person classes, hoping for wider elementary school reopening in April

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-22/lausd-resume-limited-in-person-classes-amid-covid-19>

HOWARD BLUME
FEB 22, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. school reopening contingent on full staff vaccinations, making for uncertain date

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-02-24/l-a-school-board-moves-forward-with-reopening-plans-that-assume-staff>

HOWARD BLUME
FEB 24, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Sorry, but the state's newest deal on school reopening won't speed things much

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-03-01/editorial-california-governor-legislature-deal-school-reopening>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
MAR 1, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

LAUSD to get enough staff vaccines to reopen elementary schools; union talks continue

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-01/l-a-unified-slated-to-get-enough-vaccines-it-needs-to-reopen-elementary-schools>

HOWARD BLUME
MAR 1, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Newsom, legislators strike deal to offer schools $2 billion in incentives to reopen campuses

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-01/newsom-lawmakers-agree-on-plan-to-open-more-california-schools-covid-19>

TARYN LUNA & JOHN MYERS
SACRAMENTO
MAR 1, 2021

Taryn Luna covers state government and politics in Sacramento. Prior to joining the Los Angeles Times in 2018, Luna covered the California Legislature and lobbying industry for The Sacramento Bee. She previously wrote about retail for The Boston Globe and worked as a general assignment reporter for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. Luna grew up in Dixon, a small town in Northern California, and graduated from Oregon State University.

John Myers joined the Los Angeles Times as Sacramento bureau chief in 2015 after more than two decades in radio and television news, much of that as an award-winning reporter covering statehouse policy and politics. During a decade of work for San Francisco's NPR affiliate, his unique online projects included everything from one of Sacramento's original politics blogs to California's first politics podcast. He also served as the moderator of gubernatorial debates in 2014 and 2010. Often cited by state and national news organizations as one of Sacramento's top journalists, he's a graduate of Duke University and the University of California, Berkeley.

California's $2-billion school reopening plan: What you need to know

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-01/california-schools-reopening-amid-covid-what-to-know>

TARYN LUNA
SACRAMENTO
MAR 1, 2021

Taryn Luna covers state government and politics in Sacramento. Prior to joining the Los Angeles Times in 2018, Luna covered the California Legislature and lobbying industry for The Sacramento Bee. She previously wrote about retail for The Boston Globe and worked as a general assignment reporter for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. Luna grew up in Dixon, a small town in Northern California, and graduated from Oregon State University.

Source: Gov. Gavin Newsom's office

Firm teachers union stance means LAUSD will be slower to reopen than other parts of state

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-02/firm-teachers-union-stance-means-laUSD-will-be-slower-to-reopen-than-other-parts-of-state>

HOWARD BLUME

MAR 2, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Tiny Pop-Up Shelters Assembled in 30 Minutes Could Help LA's Homeless

<https://www.nbclosangeles.com/news/local/los-angeles-homeless-tiny-homes-pallet/2539109/?amp>

JOHN CADIZ KLEMACK

MAR 2, 2021

John Cádiz Klemack is a general assignment reporter and fill-in anchor for NBC4. He can be seen on the NBC4 News at 11 a.m., 4 p.m., 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. Joining the news team in 2008, he is lauded for his versatility and breaking news journalism skills. His most recent news stories can be seen here. Follow him on Facebook here.

Klemack has covered some of the highest profile stories throughout Southern California, across the nation and abroad. He reported from Las Vegas to cover the tragic mass shooting, including President Trump's visit to the city. He reported from South Florida to cover the devastation of Hurricane Irma on the region. He has covered both Pope Benedict XVI and Pope Francis during their individual, historical trips to Mexico and was in San Bernardino County when the Dornier Standoff came to a peak. Additional news stories that reached national attention include; the San Bernardino Terror Attack; the ransom kidnapping of a Huntington Beach woman in Vallejo, California; the exclusive, live reports he did from Cancun, Mexico when authorities found the body of a Hollywood producer's wife; the Aurora, Colorado Theater Shooting and the tragic Oklahoma Tornadoes.

He is the lead reporter for the NBC4 award-winning news franchise, "Seeking Justice," which tells the stories of families torn apart by gang violence on L.A. streets, in the hopes of shedding new light on unsolved cases.

Klemack has been honored with a number of industry awards, including the L.A. Press Club Award for his "Exclusive Continuing Coverage" of the Miramonte Elementary School Child Sex Abuse Scandal. He was also part of the team that won an L.A. Emmy Award for NBC4's special 'LA Riots: 20 Years Later;' he's the recipient of an Edward R. Murrow Award, an Emmy Award, an Associated Press Award for "Best Spot News Coverage" and multiple awards from the Society of Professional Journalists for "Best Reporter," "Best Spot News" and "Best News Series." He was also awarded "The Responsible Journalism Award" by the L.A. County Probations Officers Union.

Prior to joining NBC4, Klemack spent four years as a reporter and anchor for KSTU-TV in Salt Lake City, Utah. While there, he covered the Elizabeth Smart kidnapping and the arrest and prosecution of polygamist sect leader Warren Jeffs. He was also the first reporter on site during the Trolley Square Massacre, while the shooters were still shooting. Before Salt Lake, he served as the morning news anchor and general assignment reporter for WOWK-TV in Charleston, West Virginia. He also worked as a statewide news correspondent for the station's three-affiliate network.

Klemack holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Journalism from the accredited E.W. Scripps College of Journalism at Ohio University in Athens, Ohio. The son of a Polish-American father and Cuban refugee mother, he is bilingual, having spoken Spanish since his childhood in Grove City, Ohio. He is a member of the National Association of Hispanic Journalists, the California Chicano News Media Association and the Radio-Television Digital News Association.

When not working, Klemack enjoys international travel with his wife. They currently reside in Sherman Oaks and are the parents to Paco, a Yorkie they rescued from a local shelter.

See Tiny Homes (LA Conservation Corps/Hope of the Valley) videos here.
Cost to taxpayers is about $8,000 per unit.

Tiny Homes Motion Approved

HALEY BEYER
MAR 4, 2021

Editorial Intern at The Argonaut

Middle and high schools in L.A County could be eligible to reopen within days

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-08/lausd-aims-to-reopen-middle-and-high-schools-in-late-april>

HOWARD BLUME
MAR 8, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. schools could reopen starting in mid-April under deal with teachers

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-09/la-school-district-teachers-reach-deal-on-school-reopenings>

HOWARD BLUME
MAR 9, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. schools finally have a clear reopening plan. Here is what you need to know

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-10/covid-reopening-plan-la-schools-what-to-know>

HOWARD BLUME
MAR 10, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

California's ethnic studies curriculum gets another edit

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-03-09/latest-tweaks-to-californias-ethnic-studies-curriculum-bring-it-closer>

KAREN KLEIN
MAR 9, 2021

Karin Klein is a former editorial writer who covered education, environment, food and science. She was the 2006-07 winner of the Eugene C. Pulliam Fellowship for Editorial Writers and a 2012 Logan Environmental Journalism fellow. She leads interpretive hikes as a volunteer naturalist and is the author of the 2010 book "50 Hikes in Orange County." Klein has worked at The Times since 1989. She attended Wellesley College and UC Berkeley and is an adjunct professor of journalism at Chapman University. She left The Times in 2015.

Parents struggle with a new dilemma: Is it safe to send kids back to school?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-10/school-reopening-why-some-parents-reject-covid-return>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL
MAR 10, 2021

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

This isn't the reopened school we'd expected

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-03-11/editorial-this-isnt-the-reopened-school-we-expected>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

MAR 11, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

L.A. secondary school students face mostly online classes even when they return to campus

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-11/zoom-in-a-classroom-reopening-l-a-schools-put-safety-over-in-person-instruction>

HOWARD BLUME & LAURA NEWBERRY
MAR 11, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

Times staff writers Nina Agrawal, Melissa Gomez and Teresa Watanabe contributed to this report.

California's kids need quality preschool. A new master plan can make it happen

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-03-11/california-early-childhood-education-preschool-master-plan-gavin-newsom>

DAVID L. KIRP
MAR 11, 2021

David L. Kirp is a contributing opinion writer for The New York Times. A professor of public policy at the University of California, Berkeley, as well as a prolific author and policy adviser, Mr. Kirp has focused on education policy issues, from cradle to college. He writes for national publications, among them The New York Times, The Los Angeles Times, The Nation and the American Prospect, and is a former associate editor at The Sacramento Bee. His 16 books include “Shakespeare, Einstein and the Bottom Line: The Marketing of Higher Education” (2003), “The Sandbox Investment: The Preschool Movement and Kids-First Politics” (2007) and “Kids First: Five Big Ideas for Transforming Children’s Lives and America’s Future” (2011).

Mr. Kirp was the founding director of the Harvard Center for Law and Education, which filed landmark lawsuits seeking equal educational opportunity. His latest book, “Improbable Scholars: The Rebirth of a Great American School System and a Strategy for America’s Schools” (2013), tells the remarkable story of the Union City, N.J., school district, which relied on tried-and-true strategies, not faddish reforms. The American Education Research Association selected it as the year’s outstanding book.

Mr. Kirp has lectured at universities around the world and has been the keynote speaker at many national conferences. In 2008, he was a member of President-elect Obama’s transition team.

David L. Kirp is a senior fellow at the Learning Policy Institute and an emeritus professor of the School of Public Policy at UC Berkeley.

Debate, angst and many questions emerge over L.A. school reopening plans

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-13/more-debate-angst-over-school-reopening-plans-in-los-angeles>

HOWARD BLUME & TERESA WATANABE & STEPHANIE CHAVEZ
MAR 13, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He’s won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts “Deadline L.A.” on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Teresa Watanabe covers education for the Los Angeles Times. Since joining the Times in 1989, she has covered immigration, ethnic communities, religion, Pacific Rim business and served as Tokyo correspondent and bureau chief. She also covered Asia, national affairs and state government for the San Jose Mercury News and wrote editorials for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. A Seattle native, she graduated from USC in journalism and in East Asian languages and culture.

Chavez returns to the Los Angeles Times, where for more than two decades she covered a variety of reporting beats — including education — and served as deputy city editor and weekend Metro editor, overseeing coverage of earthquakes, brush fires, mudslides and mass shootings. Later as an editor on the National desk, she played a key role in the paper's digital efforts and ran breaking stories including the Gulf oil spill and Boston Marathon bombing. Chavez left The Times in 2015 and most recently worked as a communications and strategy specialist for a Pasadena school. In her new role, she will oversee Metro's education coverage while also working across the paper to launch initiatives around learning and youth issues.

Many LAUSD parents don't plan to send kids back to campus, early survey results find

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-15/parents-worry-kids-in-school-bad-la-covid-areas>

HOWARD BLUME
MAR 15, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

A lost year for high school students: Loneliness and despair, resilience and hope

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-17/high-school-students-covid-19-pandemic-loneliness-despair-resilience>

MELISSA GOMEZ
MAR 17, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

California approves ethnic studies curriculum for K-12 schools after years of debate

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-18/ethnic-studies-finally-approved-california-schools>

NINA AGRAWAL
MAR 18, 2021

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

CDC eases school COVID guidance, allowing desks to be closer

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-03-19/cdc-school-guidance>

AMINA KHAN & HOWARD BLUME

MAR 19, 2021

Amina Khan is a science writer covering a broad range of topics, from Mars rovers to linguistics to bio-inspired engineering — but she's perhaps best known for her repeated and brutal attacks on the office snack table. She surfs and snowboards in her spare time.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Full-time, in-person schooling: It's where the science is heading

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-03-19/editorial-full-time-in-person-schooling-its-where-the-science-is-heading>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

MAR 19, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher~~, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day — exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

California adopts 3-foot-spacing rule for classrooms, changing reopening equation

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-21/california-adopts-3-foot-desk-spacing-rule-for-schools-reopening>

HOWARD BLUME

MAR 21, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Los Angeles teachers union approves plan to reopen public schools in April

<https://amp.cnn.com/cnn/2021/03/22/us/los-angeles-schools-opening/index.html>

ANDY ROSE & HOLLIE SILVERMAN

MAR 22, 2021

National Desk Editor

Atlanta Metropolitan Area

Conduct interviews, research story ideas and confirm reportable information for all CNN platforms

Write and contribute to news articles on cnn.com

Write breaking news alerts for web and mobile blog

Coordinate live shots and recorded feeds from field crews

Pre-produce obituary reports and pitch reels

Voice reports for CNN Newsource affiliate service

Hollie Silverman is a News Editor at the National Content Center responsible for newsgathering and providing editorial guidance for stories in the United States and Canada. Before coming to CNN in 2018, Hollie was an assignment editor in New York, Denver, Seattle and New Jersey.

CNN's Stella Chan contributed to this report from Los Angeles.

Teachers lament 'chaotic' virus rules in German schools

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-03-22/teachers-lament-chaotic-virus-rules-in-german-schools>

FRANK JORDANS, ASSOCIATED PRESS
MAR 22, 2021

I cover politics, business, science and technology in Germany for The Associated Press. Previously based in the United Nations in Geneva and in London. Story tips and feedback of all kind welcome.

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Rural California schools have been open for months. It's taken a learning curve

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-22/covid-19-lessons-reopened-rural-schools-california>

HAILEY BRANSON-POTTS
MAR 22, 2021

Hailey Branson-Potts is a Metro reporter who joined the Los Angeles Times in 2011. She has reported on a wide range of topics, including rural California and LGBTQ issues. Branson-Potts was part of the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for its coverage of the San Bernardino terrorist attack, as well as the team that was a 2020 Pulitzer finalist for its coverage of a boat fire that killed 34 people off the coast of Santa Barbara. She grew up in the tiny town of Perry, Okla., got her start at the Perry Daily Journal, and graduated from the University of Oklahoma.

Less than a third of students likely to return to LAUSD campuses, survey shows

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-22/less-than-30-of-students-ready-to-return-to-laUSD-campuses-survey-shows>

HOWARD BLUME
MAR 22, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

The big post-pandemic educational mess and what it will take to solve it

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-03-23/post-pandemic-educational-mess>

MORGAN POLIKOFF
MAR 23, 2021

Dr. Morgan Polikoff is an Associate Professor of Education at USC Rossier. His areas of expertise include K-12 education policy; curriculum reform; standards implementation; assessment policy; and the measurement of alignment and instruction. He is the author of "Beyond Standards: The Fragmentation of Education Governance and the Promise of Curriculum Reform."

Dr. Polikoff uses quantitative methods to study the design, implementation, and effects of curriculum, standards, assessment, and accountability policies. Recent work has investigated the adoption and use of curriculum materials to align with state standards and critiqued the design of school and teacher accountability systems. Ongoing work focuses on the implementation of state standards and the influence of curriculum materials and assessments on implementation. He is a Co-Editor of Educational Evaluation and Policy Analysis and on the editorial boards for Educational Researcher and Educational Administration Quarterly. His research is currently supported by the Institute of Education Sciences and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, among other sources. For his research achievements he received the AERA Early Career Award in 2017.

Polikoff received his doctorate from the University of Pennsylvania's Graduate School of Education in 2010 with a focus on Education Policy and his Bachelors in Mathematics and Secondary Education from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in 2006.

Introducing 8 to 3, a newsletter for parents about kids, school and education

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-23/parents-school-education-newsletter-sonja-sharp>

SHELBY GRAD
MAR 23, 2021

Deputy Managing Editor Shelby Grad oversees California and Metro coverage for the Los Angeles Times.

Grad came to The Times as a community stringer after graduating from San Jose State University in 1993. He served as a county government and urban affairs reporter in the Orange County edition before becoming an editor.

He's worked on the Los Angeles city desk since 2002, overseeing coverage of wildfires, earthquakes, epic rains, epic droughts, public corruption and celebrity misbehavior, among other things. Grad ran the paper's Pulitzer-winning coverage of the San Bernardino terrorist attack in 2015, the Bell corruption scandal in 2010 and the San Diego wildfires in 2003.

He served as city editor for a decade, launching L.A. Now and other digital efforts. You can follow him on Twitter @shelbygrad, where his slightly twisted obsession about Los Angeles history and design are on full display.

Orange County debates ethnic studies: Vital learnings or 'anti-white' divisiveness?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-28/ethnic-studies-slammed-as-anti-white-in-orange-county>

HAYLEY SMITH
APR 28, 2021

Hayley Smith covers trending and breaking news for the Los Angeles Times. She previously contributed to The Times' COVID-19 project, "The Pandemic's Toll: Lives Lost in California," in partnership with the Pulitzer Center and USC. Her work has been featured in Oprah Magazine, Vogue, HuffPost and other outlets. Originally from Miami, she holds a master's degree in journalism from the University of Southern California's Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism.

LAUSD goes to great lengths to show schools are safe to reopen. But it's a tough sell

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-29/lausd-schools-safe-reopening-tough-sell>

HOWARD BLUME
MAR 29, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

LAUSD, UTLA sued by parents unhappy with school reopening efforts

<https://www.dailynews.com/2021/03/31/lausd-utla-sued-by-parents-unhappy-with-school-reopening-efforts/amp/>

LINH TAT
MARCH 31, 2021

Before joining the Los Angeles Daily News in 2020, Linh Tat covered K-12 and higher education as a statehouse reporter for POLITICO New Jersey. Linh started her career in the San Francisco Bay Area, where she worked as a night cops, city hall and education reporter for Bay Area News Group. After moving to the East Coast, she joined The Record newspaper in New Jersey in 2011. There, she was introduced to the world of Superfund sites while covering several municipalities and also spent time covering state and federal courts. Linh is a product of California's public school system and attended UCLA. Linh returned to her home state of California in 2019.

LAUSD students suffered 'alarming' academic harm during pandemic, report says

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-03-31/lausd-covid-data-show-alarming-learning-harm-report>

HOWARD BLUME
MAR 31, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Why some high school students aren't ready to go back to school, despite the isolation

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-01/high-school-students-hesitant-as-students-reopen-amid-covid>

MELISSA GOMEZ
APR 1, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Youth activists score victory as L.A. to fund $1.1-million city youth department

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-02/youth-department-los-angeles>

MELISSA GOMEZ
APR 2, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Vaccine clinics at schools would solve multiple problems with a single jab

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-04-04/editorial-covid-19-vaccine-clinics-schools>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

APR 2, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

In California, a million English learners are at risk of intractable education loss

PALOMA ESQUIVEL

APR 4, 2021

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

L.A. Unified to give employees $500 a month per child 5 and under to help pay for day care

<https://ktla.com/news/local-news/l-a-unified-to-give-employees-500-a-month-per-child-5-and-under-to-help-pay-for-day-care/amp/>

ERIKA MARTIN

APR 5, 2021

Erika Martin is a digital news producer at KTLA.

In massive reopening effort at 1,400 L.A. public schools, safety is the priority

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-05/la-unified-opening-25-community-vaccination-clinics-at-schools>

HOWARD BLUME

APR 5, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

San Francisco schools are a mess. It will take an outsider to fix them

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-04-06/editorial-san-francisco-schools-are-a-mess-it-will-take-an-outsider-to-fix-them>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

APR 6, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Newsom expects K-12 schools to be open full time in fall

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-06/newsom-expects-k-12-schools-to-be-open-full-time-in-fall>

HOWARD BLUME

APR 6, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Letters to the Editor: The pandemic gives educators an opportunity to close so many divides

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-04-07/pandemic-close-educational-divides>

APR 7, 2021

Less distancing, no COVID tests: LAUSD parents seek court order to force wider reopening

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-08/parents-sue-laUSD-push-wider-reopening-no-covid-tests>

HOWARD BLUME

APR 8, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

'An educational pandemic' for English learners in California schools

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/newsletter/2021-04-08/latinx-files-english-learners-latinx-files>

FIDEL MARTINEZ

AUDIENCE ENGAGEMENT EDITOR

APR 8, 2021

Fidel Martinez is an audience engagement editor at the Los Angeles Times, focusing on sports. Previously he worked as politics editor for Mitu, as a social storytelling producer for Fusion Media Group and content curator and managing editor for Break Media. He is a proud Tejano who will fight anyone who disparages flour tortillas.

PALOMA ESQUIVEL

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

L.A. Unified proposes a 2-week school year extension for student learning loss, trauma

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-12/lausd-wants-school-year-extension-covid-19-losses>

HOWARD BLUME
APR 12, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Lifting kids out of poverty could be Biden's legacy, but cost raises doubts

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/story/2021-04-13/lifting-kids-out-of-poverty-biden-legacy-long-term-price-tag>

DAVID LAUTER
APR 13, 2021

David Lauter is the Los Angeles Times' Washington bureau chief. He began writing news in Washington in 1981 and since then has covered Congress, the Supreme Court, the White House under Presidents George H.W. Bush and Bill Clinton and four U.S. presidential campaigns. He lived in Los Angeles from 1995 to 2011, where he was The Times' deputy Foreign editor, deputy Metro editor and then assistant managing editor responsible for California coverage.

Coronavirus tests, fussing with masks, phonics: L.A.'s youngest students return to school

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-13/lausd-opens-first-schools-after-a-year-of-covid-closures>

HOWARD BLUME & LAURA NEWBERRY & MELISSA GOMEZ
APR 13, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

LAUSD's slow, cautious reopening shows the influence of the teachers union, but it has critics

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-13/la-teachers-union-influences-reopenings-online-school>

HOWARD BLUME

APR 13, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

LAUSD welcomes excited students, concerned parents on first day of school after a year

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-13/lausd-opens-first-schools-after-a-year-of-covid-closures>

HOWARD BLUME

APR 13, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

When LAUSD reopens schools, K-8 students will spend more time in child care than class

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-13/when-lausd-reopens-k-9-students-will-spend-more-time-in-child-care-than-class>

SONYA SHARP

APR 13, 2021

Sonya Sharp covers the Westside for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2019, she worked as an NYPD-credentialed member of the New York City press corps, writing stranger-than-fiction stories of crime and culture for VICE, the Wall Street Journal and the Village Voice, among others. She is a Bay Area native, a graduate of UC Berkeley and Columbia, and a proud Jewish mother.

Black students in 14 L.A. County school districts face serious equity barriers, study finds

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-14/black-students-la-county-school-districts-face-serious-equity-barriers-study>

MELISSA GOMEZ

APR 14, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

How American parents have been doing it all wrong

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-04-14/column-how-american-parents-have-been-doing-it-all-wrong>

ROBIN ABCARIAN

APR 14, 2021

Robin Abcarian is an opinion columnist at the Los Angeles Times. She writes about news, politics and culture. Her columns appear on Wednesday and Sunday.

Governor, LAUSD plot strategies for post-pandemic education. Think more days in class

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-15/governor-laUSD-plot-strategies-for-post-pandemic-education>

HOWARD BLUME

APR 15, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Sending our kids back to school never felt so good

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-04-16/column-back-to-school>

ROBIN ABCARIAN

APR 16, 2021

Robin Abcarian is an opinion columnist at the Los Angeles Times. She writes about news, politics and culture. Her columns appear on Wednesday and Sunday.

LAUSD unequal reopening: Nearly full classrooms on Westside, emptier elsewhere

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-18/survey-shows-how-covid-school-reopenings-differ-across-la>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL & HOWARD BLUME & IRIS LEE

APR 18, 2021

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Iris Lee is a Metpro trainee and data journalist at the Los Angeles Times Data Desk. She previously reported for the San Fernando Valley Business Journal, covering healthcare and law. She graduated from the University of Southern California with a master's in journalism and holds chemistry and international studies degrees from UC Irvine.

Child care is in crisis, but we can fix it — and help the economy, too

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-04-19/editorial-child-care-is-in-crisis-but-we-can-fix-it-and-help-the-economy-too>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

APR 19, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

27,525 pounds of carrots a day: How L.A. schools are feeding the masses

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2020-04-19/lausd-feeds-hungry-amid-coronavirus>

HOWARD BLUME

APR 19, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

LAUSD coronavirus testing reveals 177 infections prior to first campus openings

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-19/lausd-covid-tests-show-177-cases-before-campus-reopenings>

HOWARD BLUME

APR 19, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Parents say their children have been 'substantially hurt' by school closures, survey finds

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-19/satisfaction-with-public-education-low-among-l-a-county-residents-ucla-survey-finds>

NINA AGRAWAL
APR 19, 2021

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

When will L.A. Unified schools get some stability at the top?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-04-21/editorial-when-will-l-a-unified-schools-get-some-stability-at-the-top>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
APR 21, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

LAUSD Supt. Austin Beutner to step down when his contract is up June 30

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-21/lausd-superintendent-austin-beutner-step-down>

HOWARD BLUME
APR 21, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

'Our lives are hanging by a thread': Latino parents with chronic diseases fear COVID-19 as schools reopen

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-22/latinos-chronic-illnesses-fear-covid-schools-reopen>

SELENE RIVERA
APR 22, 2021

Oriunda de México, D.F., Selene Rivera inició su carrera de periodismo en 2004, en Los Ángeles, California. Rivera trabajó para el periódico bilingüe Eastern Group Publications como editora, traductora y escritora en temas de política, educación, inmigración, salud y comunidad hasta que su experiencia le abrió las puertas como periodista independiente en HOY. Actualmente, Rivera contribuye con historias informativas del Sur de California.

Kindergarten declines fuel steep drop in public school enrollment amid pandemic

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-23/kindergarten-declines-fuel-steep-drop-in-public-school-enrollment-amid-pandemic>

KAREN D'SOUZA & JOHN FENSTERWALD & DANIEL J. WILLIS

APR 23, 2021

Karen D'Souza, Senior Reporter. Karen covers early education. She is an award-winning writer who comes to EdSource after covering lifestyle, parenting, health, housing, education and the arts for the San Jose Mercury News. She is a four-time Pulitzer juror and her writing has appeared in the Los Angeles Times, Miami Herald, San Francisco Chronicle and Seattle Times. She has an MA in journalism and a BA in political science and dramatic art from UC Berkeley.

John Fensterwald, Editor-At-Large. John joined EdSource in 2012. For three years before that, he was founder and editor of the "The Educated Guess" website, a source of California education policy reporting, sponsored by the Silicon Valley Education Foundation. For the preceding 11 years, John wrote editorials for the Mercury News in San Jose, with a focus on education. He worked as a reporter, news editor and opinion editor for three newspapers in New Hampshire before receiving a Knight Fellowship at Stanford University in 1997. His wife is a retired teacher, and their daughter is a neurology resident at the University of California, Los Angeles School of Medicine.

Daniel J. Willis, Data Journalist. Daniel is a data analyst and database designer. He previously spent 10 years at the Oakland Tribune, Contra Costa Times, and San Jose Mercury News in a variety of roles. His work has been honored by the Education Writers of America, Northern California Society of Professional Journalists, California Newspaper Publishers Association, and White House Correspondents Association among others. He is an alumnus of the University of California at Santa Cruz where he studied economics.

Less than half of expected L.A pupils returned in first week; then numbers improved

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-26/disappointing-la-school-reopening-attendance-improves>

HOWARD BLUME

APR 26, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFF, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Parents worry children are falling behind but approve of Newsom's handling of education, poll finds

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-04-29/california-school-closures-children-falling-behind-poll>

NINA AGRAWAL

APR 29, 2021

Nina Agrawal is a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported for WLRN-Miami Herald News and for the Latin American affairs magazine Americas

Quarterly. A Southern California native, Agrawal is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and School of International and Public Affairs.

In Knoxville, a Black high school contends with a massive rise in teen shootings

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-05-02/in-knoxville-a-black-high-school-contains-with-a-massive-rise-in-teen-shootings>

JENNY JARVIE
ATLANTA BUREAU CHIEF
MAY 2, 2021

Jenny Jarvie is a national reporter for the Los Angeles Times based in Atlanta, where she covers a range of stories on immigration, identity, culture and politics. She has lived in the South for more than 15 years, writing for publications including The Times, the New Republic, Atlantic's CityLab, ArtsATL and the Atlanta Journal-Constitution. Raised in England and Italy, Jarvie studied English literature and philosophy at the University of Glasgow in Scotland and began her journalism career at the Daily Telegraph in London.

Extend the school year? Teachers say no, parents say meh. LAUSD retreats from its plan

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-04/lausd-may-drop-plan-extend-school-year-amid-opposition>

HOWARD BLUME
MAY 4, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Who dropped the ball on extra school time for LAUSD? Just about everyone.

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-05-06/editorial-who-dropped-the-ball-on-extra-school-time-for-lausd-just-about-everyone>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
MAY 6, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher~~, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, ~~which operates separately from the newsroom~~, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

California high schoolers are saying no thanks to reopened campuses and are staying home

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-09/no-show-high-school-students-reject-covid-reopening-rules>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL & HOWARD BLUME

May 9, 2021

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writers Laura Newberry, Melissa Gomez & Iris Lee contributed to this report.

Only 7% of LAUSD high school students return to reopened campuses, far less than expected https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-10/only-7-of-l-a-high-schoolers-return-to-reopened-campus?_amp=true

HOWARD BLUME

MAY 10, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

When reading to learn, what works best for students — printed books or digital texts?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-05-10/digital-books-reading-learning-pandemic>

NAOMI S. BARON

MAY 10, 2021

Naomi S. Baron is professor emerita of linguistics at American University with degrees: PhD Linguistics, Stanford University & BA English and American Literature, Brandeis University. Her research interests include language and technology, reading, first language acquisition, the relationship between speech and writing, the history and structure of English, and higher education.

A former Guggenheim Fellow, Fulbright Fellow, Fulbright Specialist, and Visiting Scholar at the Stanford Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences, she has published nine books. Always On: Language in an Online and Mobile World won the English-Speaking Union's Duke of Edinburgh English Language Book Award for 2008. Words Onscreen: The Fate of Reading in a Digital World appeared in 2015. Her newest book, How We Read Now: Strategic Choices for Print, Screen, and Audio, was published in March 2021. Baron taught at Brown University, Emory University, and Southwestern University before coming to American University, where she served in the College of Arts and Sciences as associate dean for undergraduate affairs, associate dean for curriculum and faculty development, chair of the Department of Language and Foreign Studies, and director of the TESOL Program. For six years, she was executive director of the university's Center for Teaching, Research, and Learning. She has taught or been a visiting scholar at the University of Gothenburg (Sweden), the University of Stavanger (Norway), the University of Zurich (Switzerland), and the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia (Italy).

Professor Baron has appeared extensively in the media, including interviews on Good Morning America, ABC News 20/20, CNN, The Diane Rehm Show, All Things Considered, the BBC, the New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, the Washington Post, the Chronicle of Higher Education, the New Yorker, Fortune, and Time.

How many high school students will come back in the fall? Dismal return rate raises alarms

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-11/alarms-7-percent-laUSD-high-schoolers-back-open-campus>

HOWARD BLUME
MAY 11, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Wake up, LAUSD. You have an urgent job to do: saving kids' education

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-05-11/wake-up-laUSD-you-have-an-urgent-job-to-do-saving-kids-education>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
MAY 11, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

Los Alamitos schools stand up to the bullies

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-05-14/editorial-los-alamitos-schools-stand-up-to-the-bullies>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
MAY 12, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

Los Alamitos school board approves controversial social justice teaching standards

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-12/los-alamitos-school-board-approves-controversial-social-justice-standards>

HAYLEY SMITH
MAY 12, 2021

Hayley Smith covers trending and breaking news for the Los Angeles Times. She previously contributed to The Times' COVID-19 project, "The Pandemic's Toll: Lives Lost in California," in partnership with the Pulitzer Center and USC. Her work has been featured in Oprah Magazine, Vogue, HuffPost and other outlets. Originally from Miami, she holds a master's degree in journalism from the University of Southern California's Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism.

Newsom to propose transitional kindergarten for all California 4-year-olds in budget plan

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-12/california-universal-transitional-kindergarten-all-4-year-olds-newsom-budget-plan>

JOHN MYERS
SACRAMENTO
MAY 12, 2021

John Myers joined the Los Angeles Times as Sacramento bureau chief in 2015 after more than two decades in radio and television news, much of that as an award-winning reporter covering statehouse policy and politics. During a decade of work for San Francisco's NPR affiliate, his unique online projects included everything from one of Sacramento's original politics blogs to California's first politics podcast. He also served as the moderator of gubernatorial debates in 2014 and 2010. Often cited by state and national news organizations as one of Sacramento's top journalists, he's a graduate of Duke University and the University of California, Berkeley.

California must fix its school inequality problem. Early screening for risk of dyslexia is a start

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-05-12/early-screening-risk-dyslexia-inequities-education-california-schools>

BILL LUCIA
MAY 12, 2021

Bill Lucia is the president and CEO of EdVoice, a nonprofit organization that advocates for policies to improve achievement of all students in California.

Bill Lucia has served as Executive Director of the State Board of Education and in a number of key staff positions within the California State Legislature, including Chief Consultant of the Assembly Education Committee, senior staff on the Budget and Appropriations Committees, and Chief of Staff and education consultant to the Chairman of the Senate Minority Caucus. He has also served in Senior Analyst roles at the Legislative Analyst's Office and the Department of Finance.

Lucia has worked in various senior education policy roles, including as COO and Director of Policy at EdVoice from March 2008 through March 2010. Prior to joining EdVoice, Lucia served as Senior Vice President for Advocacy and Policy, leading the advocacy and legal defense team at the California Charter Schools Association (CCSA). Before joining CCSA, Lucia worked as Senior Assessment Policy Liaison for Educational Testing Service, and prior to that, spent five years in Washington D.C. working as a senior official in the U.S. Department of Education and in the U.S. Senate.

Lucia earned a Bachelor's Degree in economics from the University of California, Santa Barbara, and a MA in economics from the University of California, Davis. He also successfully completed Ph.D. coursework and Ph.D. qualification examinations in microeconomic theory, macroeconomic theory, and international economics from the University of California, Davis.

California's bold plan: adding a full school year before kindergarten. How will it work?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-13/gov-newsom-transitional-kindergarten-proposal-how-will-it-work>

JOHN MYERS & HOWARD BLUME & SONYA SHARP

MAY 13, 2021

John Myers joined the Los Angeles Times as Sacramento bureau chief in 2015 after more than two decades in radio and television news, much of that as an award-winning reporter covering statehouse policy and politics. During a decade of work for San Francisco's NPR affiliate, his unique online projects included everything from one of Sacramento's original politics blogs to California's first politics podcast. He also served as the moderator of gubernatorial debates in 2014 and 2010. Often cited by state and national news organizations as one of Sacramento's top journalists, he's a graduate of Duke University and the University of California, Berkeley.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Sonya Sharp covers the Westside for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2019, she worked as an NYPD-credentialed member of the New York City press corps, writing stranger-than-fiction stories of crime and culture for VICE, the Wall Street Journal and the Village Voice, among others. She is a Bay Area native, a graduate of UC Berkeley and Columbia, and a proud Jewish mother.

California announces new guidance for overnight summer camps

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-14/california-announces-new-guidelines-for-overnight-summer-camps>

HAYLEY SMITH

MAY 14, 2021

Hayley Smith covers trending and breaking news for the Los Angeles Times. She previously contributed to The Times' COVID-19 project, "The Pandemic's Toll: Lives Lost in California," in partnership with the Pulitzer Center and USC. Her work has been featured in Oprah Magazine, Vogue, HuffPost and other outlets. Originally from Miami, she holds a master's degree in journalism from the University of Southern California's Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism.

Huge budget boost to UC, CSU and community colleges targets student housing and job training

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-14/uc-cal-state-community-colleges-get-historic-budget-hike>

TERESA WATANABE & HOWARD BLUME

MAY 14, 2021

Teresa Watanabe covers education for the Los Angeles Times. Since joining the Times in 1989, she has covered immigration, ethnic communities, religion, Pacific Rim business and served as Tokyo correspondent and bureau chief. She also covered Asia, national affairs and state government for the San Jose Mercury News and wrote editorials for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. A Seattle native, she graduated from USC in journalism and in East Asian languages and culture.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on

KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Look before leaping into transitional kindergarten

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-05-16/editorial-look-before-leaping-into-transitional-kindergarten>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

MAY 16, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, ~~which operates separately from the~~ newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

Newsom finally rings the school bell

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-05-21/editorial-newsom-finally-rings-the-school-bell>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

MAY 21, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, ~~which operates separately from the~~ newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

California is reimaging math instruction. Some worry it will hold back high achievers

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-20/california-controversial-math-overhaul-focuses-on-equity>

HOWARD BLUME

MAY 21, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Here's how California's bold plan to change math instruction could help or hurt students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-21/why-california-math-plan-riling-up-parents-teachers>

HOWARD BLUME

MAY 21, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

What will the school year look like in the fall?

The fight is on

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-24/what-will-the-laUSD-school-openings-look-like-in-the-fall>

COLLEEN SHALBY & HOWARD BLUME
MAY 24, 2021

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

LAUSD to fully reopen schools in the fall plus offer an online option

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-24/post-covid-laUSD-fully-reopen-schools-in-the-fall>

HOWARD BLUME
MAY 24, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Rong-Gong Lin II contributed to this report.

California is seeing a COVID-19 baby bust. What is causing it?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-24/obamacare-made-iuds-affordable-one-reason-behind-californias-covid-baby-bust>

SONYA SHARP
MAY 24, 2021

Sonja Sharp covers the Westside for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2019, she worked as an NYPD-credentialed member of the New York City press corps, writing stranger-than-fiction stories of crime and culture for VICE, the Wall Street Journal and the Village Voice, among others. She is a Bay Area native, a graduate of UC Berkeley and Columbia, and a proud Jewish mother.

Long Slide Looms for World Population, With Sweeping Ramifications

<https://www.nytimes.com/2021/05/22/world/global-population-shrinking.html>

DAMIEN CAVE & EMMA BUBOLA & CHOE SANG-HUN

MAY 24, 2021

阅读简体中文版 閱讀繁體中文版

Damien Cave is the bureau chief in Sydney, Australia. He previously reported from Mexico City, Havana, Beirut and Baghdad. Since joining The Times in 2004, he has also been a deputy National editor, Miami bureau chief and a Metro reporter. @damiencave

Emma Bubola is an Italian freelance journalist based in Paris, currently pursuing her Master's degree in Journalism and International Security at Sciences Po Paris. Her work focuses on the representation of socio-economic issues, particularly through the lens of visual arts.

Choe Sang-Hun is the Seoul bureau chief for The New York Times, focusing on news on North and South Korea.

Elsie Chen, Christopher Schuetze & Benjamin Novak contributed reporting.

Worried about the declining birthrate? How about giving mothers a break

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-24/obamacare-made-iuds-affordable-one-reason-behind-californias-covid-baby-bust>

MARY MCNAMARA
CULTURE COLUMNIST AND CRITIC

MAY 25, 2021

Mary McNamara is a culture columnist and critic for the Los Angeles Times. Previously she was assistant managing editor for arts and entertainment following a 12-year stint as television critic and senior culture editor. A Pulitzer Prize winner in 2015 and finalist for criticism in 2013 and 2014, she has won various awards for criticism and feature writing. She is the author of the Hollywood mysteries "Oscar Season" and "The Starlet." She lives in La Crescenta with her husband, three children and two dogs.

State GOP lawmakers try to limit teaching about race, racism

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-05-29/state-gop-lawmakers-try-to-limit-teaching-about-race-racism>

BRYAN ANDERSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

MAY 29, 2021

I am a political reporter for The Sacramento Bee covering the 2020 election, state Legislature and all things DMV. A graduate of Elon University with a double major in Journalism and Media Analytics, I'm a sports enthusiast, an intrepid multimedia journalist and (usually painfully) a die-hard Oakland Athletics and San Jose Sharks fan.

Schools face mental health crisis as pandemic ends, trauma remains

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-31/teachers-not-trained-for-student-covid-mental-health-trauma>

LAURA NEWBERRY
MAY 31, 2021

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

California lawmakers urge more help for schools, businesses in budget talks with Newsom

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-06-01/california-lawmakers-urge-more-help-for-schools-businesses-in-budget-talks-with-newsom>

JOHN MYERS
SACRAMENTO
JUN 1, 2021

John Myers joined the Los Angeles Times as Sacramento bureau chief in 2015 after more than two decades in radio and television news, much of that as an award-winning reporter covering statehouse policy and politics. During a decade of work for San Francisco's NPR affiliate, his unique online projects included everything from one of Sacramento's original politics blogs to California's first politics podcast. He also served as the moderator of gubernatorial debates in 2014 and 2010. Often cited by state and national news organizations as one of Sacramento's top journalists, he's a graduate of Duke University and the University of California, Berkeley.

Times staff writer Melody Gutierrez contributed to this report.

Parents frustrated by pandemic education launch activist group to raise their voices

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-06-02/california-parents-form-post-covid-education-activist-group>

HOWARD BLUME
JUN 2, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Adding up California's new-new-newest math

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-06-03/editorial-adding-up-californias-new-new-newest-math>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JUN 3, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

School bullying has become more elaborate during the pandemic. Parents should be prepared

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-06-07/opinion-school-bullies-pandemic>

YANA PASHAEVA
JUN 7, 2021

Yana Pashaeva is a Hubert H. Humphrey fellow from Russia who is working with the Los Angeles Times as part of the program based at Arizona State University. Prior to coming to the U.S., she was a deputy supervisor at the independent Moscow radio station Kommersant FM and covered a variety of topics ranging from Russian and international politics to societal issues. She holds a PhD degree in linguistics from Moscow State University.

She is from Moscow and holds a doctorate in linguistics. She is a deputy supervisor at the independent radio station, Kommersant FM and covers a variety of topics ranging from Russian and international politics to societal issues. Her heart is in her community, and she prefers to focus on local issues, primarily stories about people whose rights have been violated or who were cheated by businesses or authorities. Some of her stories have drawn the attention of officials and have helped to solve the problems of the heroes in her reports. She says the best part of journalism is the ability to bring positive change to someone's life. She describes herself as an activist and has covered the arrests of her friends and colleagues.

Some Black parents see less bullying, racism with online learning and are keeping kids home

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-06-08/black-parents-see-less-bullying-racism-with-online-learning>

LAURA NEWBERRY & HOWARD BLUME

JUN 8, 2021

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. teachers union pact mandates masks and coronavirus tests for all this fall

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-06-10/los-angeles-schools-reopening-teachers-union-masks-covid-tests>

HOWARD BLUME

JUN 10, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

The kids who aren't all right — the pandemic's lasting toll on youth mental health

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-06-13/op-ed-pandemic-young-people-mental-health-effects>

LALA TANMOY DAS

JUN 13, 2021

Lala Tanmoy (Tom) Das is an MD-PhD student in the Weill Cornell/Rockefeller University/Memorial Sloan Kettering Tri-Institutional Program studying the neurobiology of addiction. He lives with his partner, Eric, in New York City.

Can Dr. Dre and Jimmy Iovine save Audubon Middle School (and its students)?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-06-15/dr-dre-jimmy-iovine-vow-to-create-a-new-l-a-high-school>

HOWARD BLUME
JUN 15, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Can Dr. Dre and Jimmy Iovine save Audubon Middle School (and its students)?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-06-15/dr-dre-jimmy-iovine-vow-to-create-a-new-l-a-high-school>

HOWARD BLUME
JUN 15, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Why we should let children go maskless outdoors this summer

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-06-15/children-masks-cdc-guidelines>

MAYSSA ABUALI & AMY BECK
JUN 15, 2021

Dr. Mayssa Abuali is a pediatric infectious diseases specialist at Einstein Medical Center in Philadelphia. She is trained and board certified in both general pediatrics and pediatric infectious diseases. Her interests include treating pediatric infections, antibiotic stewardship, and medical education. She is currently the Director of the Einstein Pediatric Inpatient Service at St. Christopher's Children's Hospital and the lead physician coordinator for the Einstein Pediatric Refugee Wellness Center.

Dr. Amy Beck is an associate professor of pediatrics at UC San Francisco. She specializes in serving children of all ages. She offers extensive health care for babies, kids & teenagers. As a pediatrician, Dr. Beck is a primary care provider, the first point of contact any time a patient is sick. Dr. Beck is trained to provide well-rounded health care and works alongside the patient's loved ones to ensure healthy growth & development.

Also contributing to this article are: Dr. Neeti Doshi, assistant professor of pediatrics at UCSF; Dr. Roshni Mathew, clinical associate professor of pediatric infectious disease at Stanford University; Dr. Shawn Ralston, editor in chief of Hospital Pediatrics

After enrollment dips, public schools hope for a fall rebound

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-06-16/after-enrollment-dips-public-schools-hope-for-a-fall-rebound>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JUN 16, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Kalyn Belsha, Gabrielle Lamarr Lemee, Melanie Asmar, Samuel Park of Chalkbeat & Annie Ma & Larry Fenn of Associated Press contributed to this report.

In farewell, Beutner calls L.A. schools a 'model for the nation.' Others worry about work ahead

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-06-16/beutner-gives-l-a-unified-farewell-address>

HOWARD BLUME

JUN 16, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Paloma Esquivel contributed to this report.

Some vaccine experts having second thoughts about rushing to inoculate kids

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-06-18/some-vaccine-experts-are-having-second-thoughts-about-immunizing-kids>

MELISSA HEALY

JUN 18, 2021

Melissa Healy is a health and science reporter with the Los Angeles Times writing from the Washington, D.C., area. She covers prescription drugs, obesity, nutrition and exercise, and neuroscience, mental health and human behavior. She's been at The Times for more than 30 years, and has covered national security, environment, domestic social policy, Congress and the White House. As a baby boomer, she keenly follows trends in midlife weight gain, memory loss and the health benefits of red wine.

Times staff writer Sean Greene contributed to this report.

L.A. Unified board approves record $20-billion budget for pandemic education recovery

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-06-23/l-a-school-board-oks-20-billion-budget-for-covid-recovery>

HOWARD BLUME

JUN 23, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

A huge L.A. school budget spurs high-stakes recovery effort to boost achievement

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-06-24/huge-l-a-school-budget-targets-covid-19-learning-loss>

HOWARD BLUME

JUN 24, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Finally, more than enough money for L.A.'s students. But where should it go?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-06-25/editorial-finally-more-than-enough-money-for-l-a-s-students-but-where-should-it-go>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JUN 25, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

Austin Beutner: His lasting legacy was feeding Los Angeles' kids

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-06-30/legacy-assessment-austin-beutner-laUSD-los-angeles-schools-superintendent>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JUN 30, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher,~~ determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

Pomona school district defunds police, reimagines school safety

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-02/pomona-unified-defund-school-police>

MELISSA GOMEZ
JUL 2, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

California parents want to keep online learning as a fall option, poll finds

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-08/covid-19-school-poll>

MELISSA GOMEZ
JUL 8, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Vaccinated teachers and students don't need masks, CDC says

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-07-09/vaccinated-teachers-and-students-dont-need-masks-cdc-says>

ASSOCIATED PRESS
JUL 9, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Mike Stobbe & Collin Binkley contributed to this report.

School boards become battle zones over COVID-19 rules, critical race theory, trans students

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-07-10/school-boards-covid-19-masks-transgender-students-critical-race-theory>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JUL 10, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Stephen Groves contributed to this report.

California to require masks at school, a cautious decision that treats all students the same

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-10/california-to-require-masks-in-schools-despite-cdc-guidelines-theyre-not-needed-if-vaccinated>

COLLEEN SHALBY & HOWARD BLUME

JUL 10, 2021

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

How California's new universal transitional kindergarten program will be rolled out

<https://edsources.org/2021/how-californias-new-universal-transitional-kindergarten-program-will-be-rolled-out/657818/amp>

KAREN D'SOUZA

JUL 12, 2021

Karen D'Souza, Senior Reporter. Karen covers early education. She is an award-winning writer who comes to EdSource after covering lifestyle, parenting, health, housing, education and the arts for the San Jose Mercury News. She is a four-time Pulitzer juror and her writing has appeared in the Los Angeles Times, Miami Herald, San Francisco Chronicle and Seattle Times. She has an MA in journalism and a BA in political science and dramatic art from UC Berkeley.

Coronavirus outbreaks at summer camps could be a preview of school-year problems

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-07-12/covid-19-outbreaks-in-summer-camps-may-portend-problems-for-the-school-year>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JUL 12, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Heather Hollingsworth & Kantele Franko & Lindsey Tanner contributed to this report.

In abrupt turnaround, California to let school districts decide how to enforce mask rules

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-12/california-k-12-students-mask-rules>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ

JUL 12, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFF, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

8 to 3: Why summer school won't guarantee a successful fall

<https://www.latimes.com/california/newsletter/2021-07-12/8-to-3-newsletter-template-8-to-3>

SONYA SHARP

JUL 12, 2021

Sonja Sharp covers the Westside for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2019, she worked as an NYPD-credentialed member of the New York City press corps, writing stranger-than-fiction stories of crime and culture for VICE, the Wall Street

Journal and the Village Voice, among others. She is a Bay Area native, a graduate of UC Berkeley and Columbia, and a proud Jewish mother.

Masks for all at K-12 schools? Great idea

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-07-13/editorial-masks-for-all-at-public-schools-great-idea>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JUL 13, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher~~, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

About that no-mask, no-returning-to-campus rule: Just kidding

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-07-13/editorial-about-that-no-mask-no-campus-rule-just-kidding>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JUL 13, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher~~, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

The 'L.A. Model' of juvenile rehabilitation: Great in theory, untested in real life

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-07-14/juvenile-justice-failure>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JUL 14, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board, ~~in consultation with the publisher~~, determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page. [JDM: edited changes noted 200902]

Educators grapple with how to enforce California school mask mandate in the fall

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-14/educators-grapple-with-california-school-mask-mandate>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ & LAURA NEWBERRY

JUL 14, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

U.S. Education secretary, visiting L.A., speaks about masks and COVID's inequities

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-15/u-s-education-secretary-talks-of-school-masks-covid-fears>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL

JUL 15, 2021

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

State's mask stance frustrates San Diego school leaders, parents

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-18/state-mask-rules-spread-confusion-controversy-in-san-diego-schools>

KRISTEN TAKETA

JUL 18, 2021

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

California launches largest free school lunch program in U.S.

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-20/california-free-school-lunch-program>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JUL 20, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Jocelyn Gecker contributed to this report.

California inks contract with new 40,000-member child care union

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-23/california-inks-contract-with-new-40-000-member-child-care-union>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JUL 23, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Don Thompson contributed to this report.

How California plans to deter costly special education disputes

<https://edsources.org/2021/how-california-plans-to-deter-costly-special-education-disputes/658226/amp>

CAROLYN JONES

JUL 22, 2021

Carolyn Jones is a senior reporter at EdSource. She was a reporter for 17 years at the San Francisco Chronicle, where she covered local government, the environment, breaking news and other beats. She's also worked at the Oakland Tribune and Hayward Daily Review.

Austin Beutner's tenure as L.A. schools chief marked more by crisis than academic gains

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-25/austin-beutner-la-schools-timeline-strike-covid-more>

HOWARD BLUME

JUL 25, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on

KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Free school meals for all here to stay in California

<https://edsource.org/2021/free-school-meals-here-to-stay-in-california/658564>

ALI TADAYON

JUL 27, 2021

Ali Tadayon covers West Contra Costa Unified School District and other K-12 issues for EdSource. Prior to joining EdSource at the start of 2020 as a Journalism Resident, he covered the cities of Oakland, Berkeley, Richmond, Emeryville, El Cerrito and San Pablo for the Bay Area News Group. Tadayon cut his teeth as a crime reporter at the Press-Enterprise in Riverside, CA and the Post Register in Idaho Falls, Idaho. His work has earned several awards, including two John Swett Awards from the California Teachers Association for coverage of the Oakland Unified School District. He holds a journalism degree from the University of Colorado, Boulder.

San Diego parent group seeking to end school mask mandate sues state

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-27/san-diego-group-sues-state-to-end-school-mask-mandate>

KRISTEN TAKETA

JUL 27, 2021

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

LAUSD to require testing of students, staff regardless of vaccination status

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-29/lausd-to-require-testing-of-students-staff-regardless-of-vaccination-status>

HOWARD BLUME

JUL 29, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Mask guidance divides parents heading into new school year

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-08-01/mask-guidance-divides-parents-heading-into-new-school-year>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUG 1, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Pat Eaton-Robb contributed to this report.

For parents of unvaccinated kids, worsening Delta variant brings alarm, questions

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-31/what-the-delta-variant-development-means-for-unvaccinated-kids>

HAYLEY SMITH & DEBORAH NETBURN
AUG 1, 2021

Hayley Smith covers trending and breaking news for the Los Angeles Times. She previously contributed to The Times' COVID-19 project, "The Pandemic's Toll: Lives Lost in California," in partnership with the Pulitzer Center and USC. Her work has been featured in Oprah Magazine, Vogue, HuffPost and other outlets. Originally from Miami, she holds a master's degree in journalism from the University of Southern California's Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism.

Deborah Netburn is a features writer at the Los Angeles Times. Endlessly curious, she's covered a wide variety of topics since starting at the paper in 2006, including entertainment, home and garden, national news, technology and science. She's hung out with Tibetan monks in the Pacific Palisades, seen seahorses at the bottom of Alamitos Bay and spent time with the working witches of Los Angeles. She is always looking for a good story.

Times staff writer Melissa Healy contributed to this report.

The new state school mask rule doesn't faze many students. It's 'second nature' now

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-03/masks-mandate-in-schools-students>

MELISSA GOMEZ
AUG 3, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

O.C. Board of Education to sue Gov. Newsom over K-12 school mask mandate

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-04/o-c-board-of-education-to-sue-newsom-over-k-12-school-mask-mandate>

COLLEEN SHALBY

AUG 4, 2021

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

Coronavirus infections steadily increased in LAUSD summer school, but numbers were small

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-04/coronavirus-infections-increased-in-laUSD-summer-school-but-affected-a-tiny-percentage>

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 4, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFF, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

The biggest benefit of mandatory coronavirus testing? Helping L.A. schools to reopen

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-08-05/coronavirus-testing-help-schools-reopen>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

AUG 5, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

The deadline to sign up for LAUSD online school is Friday. Here's what you need to know

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-05/the-deadline-to-sign-up-for-laUSD-online-school-is-friday-heres-what-you-need-to-know?amp=true>

BY KAREN GARCIA

AUG 5, 2021

Karen Garcia is a reporter on the Utility Journalism Team at the Los Angeles Times. The team publishes stories and information that help people solve problems, answer questions and make big decisions about life in and around Los Angeles. Previously, she was a reporter for the San Luis Obispo New Times and KCBX Central Coast Public Radio, an NPR affiliate, in San Luis Obispo County.

Coronavirus: More than 10,200 LAUSD students choose independent study, won't return to campus

<https://www.dailynews.com/2021/08/06/coronavirus-more-than-10200-laUSD-students-choose-independent-study-wont-return-to-campus/>

LINH TAT
AUG 6, 2021

Before joining the Los Angeles Daily News in 2020, Linh Tat covered K-12 and higher education as a statehouse reporter for POLITICO New Jersey. Linh started her career in the San Francisco Bay Area, where she worked as a night cops, city hall and education reporter for Bay Area News Group. After moving to the East Coast, she joined The Record newspaper in New Jersey in 2011. There, she was introduced to the world of Superfund sites while covering several municipalities and also spent time covering state and federal courts. Linh is a product of California's public school system and attended UCLA. Linh returned to her home state of California in 2019.

High school students unhappy with pandemic-affected grades have a few days to change them

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-06/heres-how-students-can-get-their-grades-changed-to-pass-no-pass-marks>

HOWARD BLUME & KRISTEN TAKETA
AUG 6, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

Judge rules against Calif. charter schools in class-action funding lawsuit

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-07/judge-rules-against-calif-charter-schools-in-class-action-funding-lawsuit>

KRISTEN TAKETA
AUG 7, 2021

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

What critical race theory is – and isn't – and why it belongs in schools

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-08-08/editorial-what-critical-race-theory-is-and-isnt-and-why-it-belongs-in-schools>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
AUG 8, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Florida governor threatens to withhold salaries of school leaders who impose mask mandates

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-08-09/desantis-threatens-to-withhold-salaries-of-school-leaders-who-impose-mask-mandates>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUG 9, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Adriana Gomez Licon contributed to this report.

Delta variant is sucking the joy out of back-to-school 2021

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-09/delta-variant-is-sucking-the-joy-out-of-back-to-school-2021>

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 9, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Back-to-school shopping in uncertain times

<https://www.latimes.com/california/newsletter/2021-08-09/8-to-3-back-to-school-supplies-8-to-3>

SONYA SHARP

AUG 9, 2021

Sonya Sharp covers the Westside for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2019, she worked as an NYPD-credentialed member of the New York City press corps, writing stranger-than-fiction stories of crime and culture for VICE, the Wall Street Journal and the Village Voice, among others. She is a Bay Area native, a graduate of UC Berkeley and Columbia, and a proud Jewish mother.

Coronavirus Today: Back-to-school blues

<https://www.latimes.com/science/newsletter/2021-08-10/coronavirus-today-back-to-school-blues-coronavirus-today>

KAREN KAPLAN
SCIENCE AND MEDICINE EDITOR
AUG 10, 2021

Karen Kaplan is science and medicine editor at the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the science group in 2005, she covered technology in the Business section for 10 years. She is a graduate of MIT and Columbia University. In a parallel universe without journalism, she'd have a career in economics, genetics, biostatistics or some other field that describes the world in math.

Gov. Newsom expected to order school employees to get vaccinated or be tested regularly

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-10/gov-newsom-expected-to-order-school-employees-to-get-vaccinated-or-be-tested-regularly>

HOWARD BLUME & JOHN MYERS
AUG 10, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

John Myers joined the Los Angeles Times as Sacramento bureau chief in 2015 after more than two decades in radio and television news, much of that as an award-winning reporter covering statehouse policy and politics. During a decade of work for San Francisco's NPR affiliate, his unique online projects included everything from one of Sacramento's original politics blogs to California's first politics podcast. He also served as the moderator of gubernatorial debates in 2014 and 2010. Often cited by state and national news organizations as one of Sacramento's top journalists, he's a graduate of Duke University and the University of California, Berkeley.

California's teachers will have to get vaccinated. It's about time

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-08-11/newsom-teachers-mandatory-vaccine>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
AUG 11, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

California's new vaccine requirement for schools: What you need to know

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-11/californias-first-in-the-nation-vaccine-requirement-for-schools-what-you-need-to-know>

HOWARD BLUME
AUG 11, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Thousands of vacancies for L.A. teachers, counselors, nurses remain days before school starts

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-11/la-back-to-school-covid-recovery-hit-by-teacher-shortage>

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 11, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Here are the crucial back-to-school answers that California parents need

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-12/back-to-school-covid-19-delta-variant-q-a>

HOWARD BLUME & KAREN GARCIA & AMINA KHAN & COLLEEN SHALBY

AUG 12, 2021 & UPDATED AUG 15, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Karen Garcia is a reporter on the Utility Journalism Team at the Los Angeles Times. The team publishes stories and information that help people solve problems, answer questions and make big decisions about life in and around Los Angeles. Previously, she was a reporter for the San Luis Obispo New Times and KCBX Central Coast Public Radio, an NPR affiliate, in San Luis Obispo County.

Amina Khan is a science writer covering a broad range of topics, from Mars rovers to linguistics to bio-inspired engineering — but she's perhaps best known for her repeated and brutal attacks on the office snack table. She surfs and snowboards in her spare time.

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

Kaiser Health News contributed to this report.

As some parents protest school mask mandates, experts urge students to keep face coverings on

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-13/as-kids-head-back-to-class-some-parents-are-pushing-back-against-school-mask-mandates>

HAYLEY SMITH

AUG 13, 2021

Hayley Smith covers trending and breaking news for the Los Angeles Times. She previously contributed to The Times' COVID-19 project, "The Pandemic's Toll: Lives Lost in California," in partnership with the Pulitzer Center and USC. Her work has been featured in Oprah Magazine, Vogue, HuffPost and other outlets. Originally from Miami,

she holds a master's degree in journalism from the University of Southern California's Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism.

LAUSD orders all teachers and staff to be fully vaccinated by Oct. 15

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-13/lausd-orders-teachers-get-covid-19-vaccine>

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 13, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Elementary schools reopen with shining faces, colorful masks and some tears

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-13/photos-elementary-schools-return-with-shining-faces-and-colorful-masks>

IRFAN KHAN & AL SEIB

AUG 13, 2021

Irfan Khan has been a staff photographer with the Los Angeles Times since 1996. He previously served as a freelance photographer for the publication beginning in 1989. Khan started his career as a commercial photographer in 1973 in Pakistan and moved to Dubai in 1977, where he worked for an advertising agency and at a leading English newspaper. Khan's assignments have taken across Southern California and the U.S. Internationally, he has photographed the Hajj in Saudi Arabia and war zones of the Pakistan/Afghanistan border in the aftermath of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks. He was part of the team awarded the Pulitzer Prize in breaking news for coverage of the 2015 terrorist attack in San Bernardino. In his spare time, he enjoys listening to semi-classical music of the Indian subcontinent and playing cricket on Sundays.

Al Seib has been a photographer and videographer for the Los Angeles Times since 1984. His photos have won numerous awards from national and international photographer associations. Seib's work has helped win four Pulitzer Prizes for breaking news reporting awarded to The Times' staff: the Los Angeles riots in 1993, the Northridge earthquake in 1995, the Southern California wildfires in 2004 and the San Bernardino shootings in 2016.

Child COVID-19 hospitalization rates hit record in U.S. — but not in California. Here's why

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-14/kids-covid-hospitalization-rates>

EMILY ALPERT REYES & RONG-GONG LIN II

AUG 14, 2021

Emily Alpert Reyes covers City Hall for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported on the census & demographics, tracking how our lives are changing in Los Angeles, California & the country. Before joining The Times, she worked for the pioneering nonprofit news website voiceofsandiego.org, winning national awards for her reporting on education. She has also traveled to Bolivia as a fellow with the International Reporting Project & survived the University of Chicago.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Times staff writer Luke Money contributed to this report.

L.A. County coronavirus surge continues as schools prepare to reopen

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-15/los-angeles-county-coronavirus-surge-continues-as-schools-prepare-to-reopen>

ALEX WIGGLESWORTH
AUG 15, 2021

Alex Wigglesworth is a staff writer at the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2016, she was a general assignment reporter for the Philadelphia Inquirer, Daily News and Philly.com. A Philadelphia native, she graduated from the University of Pennsylvania with a degree in medical anthropology & global health. She currently lives in Inglewood.

Times staff writers Luke Money, Rong-Gong Lin II and Howard Blume contributed to this report.

In Florida and Texas, mask orders turn schools into battlegrounds

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-08-15/schools-battle-states-covid>

JENNY JARVIE & MOLLY HENNESSY-FISKE
AUG 15, 2021

Jenny Jarvie is a national reporter for the Los Angeles Times based in Atlanta, where she covers a range of stories on immigration, identity, culture and politics. She has lived in the South for more than 15 years, writing for publications including The Times, the New Republic, Atlantic's CityLab, ArtsATL and the Atlanta Journal-Constitution. Raised in England and Italy, Jarvie studied English literature and philosophy at the University of Glasgow in Scotland and began her journalism career at the Daily Telegraph in London.

Molly Hennessy-Fiske has been a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times since 2006 in Houston, Los Angeles, Washington and the Middle East as bureau chief. She was on a team that won a local Emmy this year for stories reported while living on the U.S.-Mexico border; 2018 APME International Perspective Award; 2015 Overseas Press Club award; 2014 Dart award and was a finalist for Livingston and Casey Awards. Raised in Upstate New York, she graduated from Harvard College.

Students face long lines to enter campus as L.A. goes back to school

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-16/lausd-plan-to-test-students-teachers-weekly>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ & COLLEEN SHALBY & LAURA NEWBERRY
AUG 16, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

LAUSD's health screening system fails on first day but can't snuff out excitement

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-16/its-the-first-day-back-to-school-for-los-angeles-students>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ & COLLEEN SHALBY
AUG 16, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

Times staff writer Paloma Esquivel contributed to this report.

$350 million. 1,000 healthcare workers. 500,000 tests weekly. Inside LAUSD's virus testing effort

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-16/lausd-plan-to-test-students-teachers-weekly>

LAURA NEWBERRY & MELISSA GOMEZ & HOWARD BLUME
AUG 16, 2021

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

'Que locura' — This is madness. First day of school stresses out parents, students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-16/covid-19-testing-delays-snarl-la-back-to-school-day>

MELISSA GOMEZ & LAURA NEWBERRY & COLLEEN SHALBY

AUG 16, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

Times staff writers Howard Blume and Paloma Esquivel contributed to this report.

LAUSD heads back to class for the new school year

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-16/photos-laUSD-heads-back-to-class>

TIMES PHOTOGRAPHY STAFF

AUG 16, 2021

The award-winning Los Angeles Times' photo staff works across Southern California, the state, the nation and the world to bring readers images that inform and inspire daily. A complete list of the Visual Journalism staff can be found on the Newsroom Directory.

What are the risks of kids getting COVID-19 as schools reopen? Here's what we know

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-16/back-to-school-covid-risks-for-kids-with-delta-variant>

RONG-GONG LIN II & EMILY ALPERT REYES

AUG 16, 2021

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Emily Alpert Reyes covers City Hall for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported on the census & demographics, tracking how our lives are changing in Los Angeles, California & the country. Before joining The Times, she worked for the pioneering nonprofit news website voiceofsandiego.org, winning national awards for her reporting on education. She has also traveled to Bolivia as a fellow with the International Reporting Project & survived the University of Chicago.

How kids can stay safer at school despite Delta variant threat

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-08-17/how-kids-can-stay-safe-at-school-despite-delta-variant-threat>

AMINA KHAN
AUG 17, 2021

Amina Khan is a science writer covering a broad range of topics, from Mars rovers to linguistics to bio-inspired engineering — but she's perhaps best known for her repeated and brutal attacks on the office snack table. She surfs and snowboards in her spare time.

The second morning of school in Los Angeles goes better than the first

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-17/l-a-back-to-school-covid-health-checks-going-better-tuesday>

COLLEEN SHALBY & LAURA NEWBERRY & MELISSA GOMEZ & HOWARD BLUME
AUG 17, 2021

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Mandatory vaccines and masks. LAUSD shows the right way to reopen schools in 2021

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-08-17/editorial-mandatory-vaccines-and-masks-the-way-to-reopen-schools-in-2021>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
AUG 17, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day — exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

LAUSD reports 3,255 student coronavirus cases in baseline back-to-school testing

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-17/lausd-reports-3255-student-back-to-school-covid-cases>

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 17, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Did COVID complicate my 6th-grader's first day of middle school? Not as much as you might think

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-08-17/la-oe-abcarian-middle-school>

ROBIN ABCARIAN

AUG 17, 2021

Robin Abcarian is an opinion columnist at the Los Angeles Times. She writes about news, politics and culture. Her columns appear on Wednesday and Sunday.

Culver City Unified to require student COVID-19 vaccinations, in what may be a first

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-18/culver-city-unified-requires-covid-19-vaccine-for-students>

MELISSA GOMEZ

AUG 18, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

LAUSD Reports 118 New Covid Cases In One Day, Most Of Them Among Students, During First Week Of School

<https://deadline.com/2021/08/los-angeles-schools-students-lausd-one-hundred-eighteen-covid-cases-in-one-day-1234818425/amp/>

TOM TAPP

AUG 19, 2021

Deputy Managing Editor of Deadline: Tom has covered the entertainment industry for more than 20 years. He joined Deadline in 2020 after working on the homepage teams of both Yahoo and AT&T. His work has appeared in the Los Angeles Times, Premiere magazine and on The Daily Beast. Tom founded the popular industry website and newsletter HollywoodWiretap.com, which he later sold. Before that, he spent seven years at Variety, where he was the Managing Editor of Features. While there, he created the trade's award-winning lifestyle publication, V Life, and was its Executive Editor.

California high court won't consider O.C.'s challenge to school mask mandate

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-19/orange-county-mask-challenge-denied>

MELISSA GOMEZ & HOWARD BLUME

AUG 19, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Cal State students failing, withdrawing from many required classes at a high rate

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-20/csu-students-failing-withdrawing-from-many-required-classes-at-a-high-rate>

LARRY GORDON

AUG. 20, 2021

Larry Gordon was a higher education writer at the Los Angeles Times, where he covered colleges and universities in California and nationwide. He is now with EdSource is a nonprofit journalism website covering education issues in California. He won the first place award for education reporting in 2014 from the California Newspaper Publishers Association. Larry previously was a reporter and editor at the Bergen Record in his home state New Jersey. He was a mid-career Fulbright Fellow, teaching journalism at the American University in Bulgaria. He earned a master's degree at Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism and a bachelor's at Georgetown University. He is co-author of the hiking guide "Stairway Walks in Los Angeles." He is based in Los Angeles.

How to stop worrying that CRT will corrupt your kids

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-08-08/editorial-what-critical-race-theory-is-and-isnt-and-why-it-belongs-in-schools>

VIRGINIA HEFFERNAN

AUG. 20, 2021

Virginia Heffernan was born in Hanover, New Hampshire.^[citation needed] She graduated summa cum laude from the University of Virginia (1991). She also received an English Literature Master's Degree (1993) and Ph.D (2002) from Harvard University. Born August 8, 1969, she is an American journalist and cultural critic. Since 2015, she has been a political columnist at the Los Angeles Times and a cultural columnist at Wired. From 2003 to 2011, she worked as a staff writer for The New York Times, first as a television critic, then as a magazine columnist, and then as an opinion writer. She has also worked as a senior editor for Harper's, as a founding editor of Talk, and as a TV critic for Slate. Her 2016 book Magic and Loss: The Internet as Art argued that the Internet is a "massive and collective work of art", one that is a "work in progress",^[1] and that the suggested deterioration of attention spans in response to it is a myth. Virginia Heffernan is a regular contributor to the Los Angeles Times' Opinion section. After receiving her doctorate in English and American Studies from Harvard, Heffernan began her journalism career as a fact-checker at the New Yorker. She's worked as a senior editor at Harper's, a TV critic for Slate and a columnist for the New York Times Magazine, among other gigs. She is the author of "Magic and Loss: The Internet as Art," and she hosts the Trumpcast podcast for Slate.

We learn to love math when we realize it's not meant to be useful

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-08-22/mathematics-anxiety-phobia-students-algebra>

SATYAN LINUS DEVADOSS

AUG 22, 2021

Fletcher Jones Chair and Professor, Mathematics

Satyan Linus Devadoss is a fellow of the American Mathematical Society, recipient of two national teaching awards from the Mathematical Assn. of America, and professor of applied mathematics at the University of San Diego.

Before arriving at USD in 2016, Satyan Devadoss was a professor of mathematics at Williams College since 2002, along with holding visiting positions at Ohio State, UC Berkeley, the Mathematical Sciences Research Institute, Harvey Mudd, Université Nice, and Stanford. Devadoss is a recipient of two national teaching awards from the Mathematical Association of America, as well as an inaugural Fellow of the American Mathematical Society, with support over the years from the Mellon Foundation, the National Science Foundation, the Whiting Fellowship, DARPA, and the John Templeton Foundation.

Scholarly Work

Motivated by computational biology, theoretical physics, and computer science, much of Devadoss's work revolves around discrete structures and their underlying topology and geometry. The fascination is not in the study of one object, but the space of all ways an object can deform and evolve. He believes that conveying results with visual clarity, accuracy, and simplicity is as important as the discovery of the ideas themselves, resulting in invited presentations from research universities, international centers, and design spaces (Pixar, Google, LucasFilm).

Areas of Interest

A strong proponent of the liberal arts, Devadoss believes that ideas should be made incarnate, for the physical matters. Humans care about how things look, taste, feel, and sound. And mathematics is part of this tapestry, dealing not just with the mind, but the body as well, extending to our tangible world. Underneath a mathematical framework lies a strong desire for the proper visualization of data, from drawings to graphics to photography. Collaborations have resulted in art gallery openings in Berlin, redesigns of college course catalogs, and the formation of new courses on origami, phylogenetics, design, and visualization. Some works and thoughts have appeared in venues such as NPR, The Times of London, and Forbes.

Florida school mask mandate power struggle goes before judge

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-08-09/desantis-threatens-to-withhold-salaries-of-school-leaders-who-impose-mask-mandates>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUG 23, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

1,893 L.A. students, staff tested positive for coronavirus last week, group reports

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-23/frustrated-with-lausds-covid-19-reporting-system-a-parent-group-creates-their-own>

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 23, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writers Melissa Gomez & Laura Newberry contributed to this report.

More U.S. school districts reverse in-person learning due to COVID

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-08-24/us-covid-19-outbreaks-force-early-reversals-on-in-person-learning>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUG 24, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Jeff Amy contributed to this report.

Coronavirus cases lead to missed school days for 6,500 LAUSD students during first week

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-24/coronavirus-cases-force-6500-lausd-students-miss-school>

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 24, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

College life is back and loaded with COVID rules as students return to campuses

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-24/college-life-is-loaded-with-rules-as-tens-of-thousands-of-students-return-to-usc-cal-state>

TERESA WATANABE & COLLEEN SHALBY

AUG 24, 2021

Teresa Watanabe covers education for the Los Angeles Times. Since joining the Times in 1989, she has covered immigration, ethnic communities, religion, Pacific Rim business and served as Tokyo correspondent and bureau chief. She also covered Asia, national affairs and state government for the San Jose Mercury News and wrote editorials for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. A Seattle native, she graduated from USC in journalism and in East Asian languages and culture.

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

L.A. Unified reports first coronavirus outbreak while other schools report multiple infections

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-25/l-a-unified-first-coronavirus-outbreak-grant-elementary>

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 25, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Masks at school? The kids are fine. It's the parents who are acting like jerks

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-08-26/editorial-school-mask-mandate-newsom>

KAREN KLEIN

AUG 26, 2021

Karin Klein is a board member who writes editorials about education, environment, food and science. She was the 2006-07 winner of the Eugene C. Pulliam Fellowship for Editorial Writers and was a 2012 and 2014 Logan Environmental Journalism fellow and a 2014 Metcalf Environmental Reporting fellow. She leads interpretive hikes as a volunteer naturalist and is the author of the 2010 book "50 Hikes in Orange County." She attended Wellesley College and UC Berkeley and is an adjunct professor of journalism at Chapman University.

What happens when schoolchildren get coronavirus?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-26/covid-19-outbreaks-with-kids-at-school-what-to-know>

HOWARD BLUME & AMINA KHAN & COLLEEN SHALBY & KAREN GARCIA

AUG 26, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Amina Khan is a science writer covering a broad range of topics, from Mars rovers to linguistics to bio-inspired engineering — but she's perhaps best known for her repeated and brutal attacks on the office snack table. She surfs and snowboards in her spare time.

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

Karen Garcia is a reporter on the Utility Journalism Team at the Los Angeles Times. The team publishes stories and information that help people solve problems, answer questions and make big decisions about life in and around Los Angeles. Previously, she was a reporter for the San Luis Obispo New Times and KCBX Central Coast Public Radio, an NPR affiliate, in San Luis Obispo County.

L.A. County will continue to enforce strict school quarantine rules amid coronavirus cases

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-26/los-angeles-school-covid-19-cases-strict-quarantine-rules>

HOWARD BLUME & EMILY ALPERT REYES & RONG-GONG LIN II

AUG 26, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Emily Alpert Reyes covers City Hall for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported on the census & demographics, tracking how our lives are changing in Los Angeles, California & the country. Before joining The Times, she worked for the pioneering nonprofit news website voiceofsandiego.org, winning national awards for her reporting on education. She has also traveled to Bolivia as a fellow with the International Reporting Project & survived the University of Chicago.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Happy Masks became a COVID must-have. That sparked a back-to-school frenzy

<https://www.latimes.com/business/story/2021-08-27/happy-masks-covid-preorder-frenzy>

DANIEL MILLER

AUG 27, 2021

Daniel Miller is an enterprise business reporter for the Los Angeles Times, working on investigations, features and projects. An L.A. native and UCLA graduate, Miller joined the staff in 2013. He was the host of the 2019 documentary podcast "Larger Than Life," which chronicled the life of street racer Big Willie Robinson and was honored by organizations such as the Motor Press Guild. Miller previously reported on the business of entertainment for five years at The Times, breaking stories on sexual misconduct in Hollywood, detailing the noir-soaked life of a Black detective with claimed ties to Raymond Chandler, and covering the Walt Disney Co., including executive suite intrigue and the company's quirky fans. Miller was a Loeb Awards finalist in 2016 for "Selling Stardom," a series on unscrupulous show business operators, and was honored in 2018 by groups including the Society of American Business Editors and Writers for "Anaheim's Subsidy Kingdom," a series on Disney's business ties to the Orange County city.

4-year-old child is youngest to die of COVID-19 in Riverside County

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-27/4-year-old-child-youngest-to-die-of-covid-19-in-riverside-county>

GREGORY YEE

AUG 27, 2021

Gregory Yee is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2021, he spent five years covering criminal justice and breaking news for the Post and Courier in Charleston, S.C. He is a native Southern Californian and graduated from UC Irvine in 2012 with a degree in journalism and Spanish literature.

Coronavirus Today: A back door to vaccinate younger children

<https://www.latimes.com/science/newsletter/2021-08-27/coronavirus-today-friday-template-coronavirus-today>

KAREN KAPLAN

AUG 27, 2021

Karen Kaplan is science and medicine editor at the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the science group in 2005, she covered technology in the Business section for 10 years. She is a graduate of MIT and Columbia University. In a parallel universe without journalism, she'd have a career in economics, genetics, biostatistics or some other field that describes the world in math.

L.A. coronavirus outbreaks hit cheerleaders, dance squads

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-27/l-a-coronavirus-outbreaks-hit-cheerleaders-dance-squads>

RONG-GONG LIN II & HOWARD BLUME

AUG 27, 2021

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

How one unvaccinated, unmasked teacher spread coronavirus to students and parents

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-08-27/how-1-unvaccinated-unmasked-teacher-spread-coronavirus-to-students>

RONG-GONG LIN II
AUG 27, 2021

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Education Department will investigate five states that have banned mask mandates in schools

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-08-30/education-department-investigation-states-ban-school-mask-mandates>

ASSOCIATED PRESS
AUG 30, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Collin Binkley contributed to this report.

Delta variant put school reopening in a quandary. Here's how to fix it

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-08-31/editorial-delta-variant-put-school-reopening-in-a-quandary-heres-how-to-fix-it>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
AUG 31, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Santa Monica vs. Malibu: A messy school district divorce over money and who gets the kids

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-01/malibu-vs-santa-monica-messy-school-district-split>

MARIA L. LA GANGA

SEP 1, 2021

Maria L. La Ganga is a Metro reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She joined The Times in 1981 as an academic intern, splitting her time between the former Metro section and National Dragster, the official publication of the National Hot Rod Assn. She has served as Seattle bureau chief, San Francisco bureau chief, edited in the Business section and pitched in on six presidential elections, five for The Times and one for the Guardian. La Ganga left The Times in 2015 and returned in 2018 after a brief hiatus during which she wrote for the Guardian and the Idaho Statesman.

Now's the time to mandate vaccination for public school students

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-09-02/editorial-time-to-mandate-vaccines-for-public-school-students>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

SEP 2, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Coronavirus outbreaks in L.A. schools increase, some tied to athletic activities

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-02/la-county-coronavirus-outbreaks-increase-in-l-a-county-schools>

RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY & HOWARD BLUME

SEP 2, 2021

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Laura Newberry contributed to this report.

L.A. teachers union drops demand for student vaccine mandate, but wants strict quarantines

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-03/l-a-teachers-union-drops-demand-for-student-vaccine-mandate-but-want-strict-quarantines>

HOWARD BLUME
SEP 3, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

COVID surges in unvaccinated communities are sending more kids to the hospital

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-09-04/covid-surges-in-unvaccinated-communities-are-sending-more-kids-to-the-hospital>

MELISSA HEALY
SEP 4, 2021

Melissa Healy is a health and science reporter with the Los Angeles Times writing from the Washington, D.C., area. She covers prescription drugs, obesity, nutrition and exercise, and neuroscience, mental health and human behavior. She's been at The Times for more than 30 years, and has covered national security, environment, domestic social policy, Congress and the White House. As a baby boomer, she keenly follows trends in midlife weight gain, memory loss and the health benefits of red wine.

Learning loss is real. Stop pretending otherwise.

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-09-02/editorial-learning-loss-is-real-stop-pretending-otherwise>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
SEP 7, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Majority of L.A. Unified board favors or leans toward student vaccine mandate

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-08/la-unified-leaning-toward-covid-vaccine-mandate>

HOWARD BLUME & LAURA NEWBERRY
SEP 8, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

All eligible LAUSD students would have to be vaccinated by January under board proposal

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-08/la-student-covid-vaccine-mandate-plan-january-deadline>

HOWARD BLUME
SEP 8, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. school officials order sweeping student vaccine mandate, a first by a major district

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-09/los-angeles-school-officials-approve-vaccine-mandate>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ
SEP 9, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Child coronavirus cases fall in L.A. County even as schools reopen, but concerns remain

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-10/kid-coronavirus-cases-fall-in-l-a-county>

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Marissa Evans covers healthcare and communities of color in California for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining The Times in 2021, she worked for the Star Tribune in Minneapolis, where she covered housing, Black community trauma after George Floyd's death, how communities of color have been affected by COVID-19 and how Minnesota allows private hospitals to seize tax refunds from consumers with unpaid medical bills. She also previously reported for the Texas Tribune, CQ Roll Call and Kaiser Health News. She won a 2018 Online News Assn. award for explanatory reporting for a project on Texas's maternal mortality crisis. Her work has appeared in the Atlantic, Medium, Oprah Magazine and other outlets. Evans is also a trainer with the Ida B. Wells Society for Investigative Reporting, which aims to increase the ranks of journalists of color in the field of investigative reporting. She graduated from Marquette University with a degree in journalism.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Times staff writer Howard Blume contributed to this report.

Should the FDA move faster on COVID-19 vaccines for young children?

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-09-11/is-the-fda-being-too-cautious-with-covid-19-vaccines-for-young-children>

MELISSA HEALY
SEP 11, 2021

Melissa Healy is a health and science reporter with the Los Angeles Times writing from the Washington, D.C., area. She covers prescription drugs, obesity, nutrition and exercise, and neuroscience, mental health and human behavior. She's been at The Times for more than 30 years, and has covered national security, environment, domestic social policy, Congress and the White House. As a baby boomer, she keenly follows trends in midlife weight gain, memory loss and the health benefits of red wine.

Who will follow L.A. school district in mandating vaccines for students?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-13/la-unified-student-vaccine-mandate-outlier-or-forerunner>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ
SEP 13, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Coronavirus Today: Pediatricians vs. the FDA

<https://www.latimes.com/science/newsletter/2021-09-14/coronavirus-today-sept-14-edition-coronavirus-today>

KAREN KAPLAN
SEP 14, 2021

Karen Kaplan is science and medicine editor at the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the science group in 2005, she covered technology in the Business section for 10 years. She is a graduate of MIT and Columbia University. In a parallel universe without journalism, she'd have a career in economics, genetics, biostatistics or some other field that describes the world in math.

L.A. County supervisors, don't stray from solid juvenile justice goals

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-09-15/recommit-to-juvenile-justice-reform>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
SEP 15, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

America wants parents back at work. Is it ready to help foot the bill for child care?

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/story/2021-09-15/democrats-biggest-childcare-overhaul-us-history>

SARAH D. WIRE
SEP 15, 2021

Sarah D. Wire covers Congress for the Los Angeles Times. She was previously the Washington correspondent for the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette and was a statehouse reporter in Arkansas, Idaho and Missouri. Wire graduated from the University of Missouri and contributed to the team that won the 2015 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news coverage of the San Bernardino shooting. She's president of the Regional Reporters Assn., serves on the National Press Club Board of Governors and is the most recent past chair of the Standing Committee of Correspondents.

New data affirm it. L.A. County school safety policies are working as COVID rates are low

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-16/declining-covid-19-cases-indicate-safe-la-school-openings>

MELISSA GOMEZ & RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY
SEP 16, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Times staff writer Howard Blume contributed to this report.

L.A. County juvenile halls are 'unsuitable for the confinement of youth,' state board finds

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-18/state-finds-l-a-county-juvenile-halls-unsuitable-for-the-confinement-of-youth>

JACLYN COSGROVE & LEILA MILLER

SEP 18, 2021

Jaclyn Cosgrove is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. Previously, she worked as the health reporter at the Oklahoman. She was selected for a 2015-16 Rosalynn Carter Fellowship for Mental Health Journalism. For her fellowship project, she explored the barriers that low-income, uninsured people with mental illnesses face in finding treatment. Cosgrove is originally from Arpeler, Okla., and graduated from Oklahoma State University.

Leila Miller is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newspaper in 2018, she was a reporting fellow at PBS's "Frontline." Originally from Los Angeles, Miller is a graduate of Oberlin College and Columbia University's School of Journalism. She is fluent in Spanish.

Times staff writer Matt Stiles contributed to this report.

Will the Santa Monica-Malibu schools divorce go forward? Yes, but ...

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-19/will-the-santa-monica-malibu-schools-divorce-go-forward-decision-may-be-imminent>

MARIA L. LA GANGA

SEP 19, 2021

Maria L. La Ganga is a Metro reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She joined The Times in 1981 as an academic intern, splitting her time between the former Metro section and National Dragster, the official publication of the National Hot Rod Assn. She has served as Seattle bureau chief, San Francisco bureau chief, edited in the Business section and pitched in on six presidential elections, five for The Times and one for the Guardian. La Ganga left The Times in 2015 and returned in 2018 after a brief hiatus during which she wrote for the Guardian and the Idaho Statesman.

California's latest ethnic studies bill is not quite ready for prime time

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-09-20/editorial-californias-ethnic-studies-is-not-quite-ready-for-prime-time>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

SEP 20, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Don't be fooled: California's new housing laws make significant changes to zoning

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-22/skelton-sb9-housing-single-family-zoning>

GEORGE SKELTON
SACRAMENTO

SEP 22, 2021

Political columnist George Skelton has covered government and politics for more than 50 years and for The Times since 1974. He has been a Times political writer and editor in Los Angeles, Sacramento bureau chief and White House correspondent. He has written a column on California politics, "Capitol Journal," since 1993. Skelton is a Santa Barbara native, grew up in Ojai and received a journalism degree at San Jose State.

“Newsom and the Legislature showed courage in siding with my grandkids.”

L.A. teachers to receive 5% raise, pandemic-related bonuses under tentative agreement

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-22/l-a-teachers-to-receive-5-percent-raise-and-bonuses>

HOWARD BLUME

SEP 22, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Should schools mandate COVID vaccines for children? Yes, but they need to be fair

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-09-23/school-vaccine-mandate>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

SEP 23, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Revenge recalls are hitting California schools. That's not helping

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-09-26/editorial-recall-fever-reaches>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

SEP 26, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

L.A. County D.A. to dismiss 60,000 past marijuana convictions

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-27/la-los-angeles-da-gascon-dismisses-nearly-60000-past-marijuana-convictions>

JAMES QUEALLY

SEP 27, 2021

James Queally writes about crime and policing in Southern California, where he currently covers Los Angeles County's criminal courts and the district attorney's office. A part of the team of reporters that won a Pulitzer Prize for coverage of the 2015 terror attack at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino, Queally has written extensively about violence, police pursuits, street racing and law enforcement misconduct since coming to The Times. A Brooklyn native, he moved West in 2014 after spending five years covering crime and police news for the Star-Ledger in New Jersey. Not content with real-life crimes, he also makes up fictional ones: Queally is the author of two novels – "Line Of Sight" and "All These Ashes" – that make up the Russell Avery series for Polis Books.

Surge of families seeking remote learning overwhelms L.A. public schools

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-27/independent-study-california-lausd>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ

SEP 27, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Pfizer vaccine for kids may not be available until November

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-09-28/pfizer-vaccine-for-kids-may-not-be-available-until-november>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEP 28, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Jonathan Lemire contributed to this report.

What we know so far about COVID-19 vaccinations for kids

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-09-21/covid-vaccine-kids-under-12-timeline>

JESSICA ROY

SEP 28, 2021

Jessica Roy is an assistant editor on the Utility Journalism team at the Los Angeles Times. The team publishes stories and information that help people solve problems, answer questions, and make big decisions about life in and around Los Angeles.

L.A. Unified enrollment drops by more than 27,000 students, steepest decline in years

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-28/lausd-enrollment-drops-by-30000-students-amid-covid-19>

HOWARD BLUME

SEP 28, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Paloma Esquivel contributed to this report.

San Diego Unified may mandate COVID vaccines by Dec. 20 for staff and eligible students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-28/san-diego-unified-to-recommend-mandated-vaccines-staff-eligible-students>

KRISTEN TAKETA
SEP 28, 2021

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

As deadlines approach, thousands of L.A. school employees, students remain unvaccinated

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-09-29/lausd-struggles-to-meet-covid-vaccine-mandate-deadlines>

HOWARD BLUME
SEP 29, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Newsom orders COVID vaccines for eligible students, the first K-12 school mandate in nation

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-01/newsom-sets-covid-vaccine-mandate-across-california-schools>

HOWARD BLUME & RONG-GONG LIN II & TARYN LUNA
OCT 1, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Taryn Luna covers state government and politics in Sacramento. Prior to joining the Los Angeles Times in 2018, Luna covered the California Legislature and lobbying industry for The Sacramento Bee. She previously wrote about retail for The Boston Globe and worked as a general assignment reporter for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. Luna grew up in Dixon, a small town in Northern California, and graduated from Oregon State University.

L.A. community college and K-12 students can ride Metro trains and buses free. Here's how.

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-01/los-angeles-free-metro-passes>

MELISSA GOMEZ
OCT 1, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

What we know about vaccine safety for schoolchildren as California sets mandate

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-01/california-student-covid-vaccine-mandate-new-safety-rules>

RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY & HOWARD BLUME
OCT 1, 2021

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Maura Dolan contributed to this report.

California school COVID vaccine mandate: What to know

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-01/california-school-covid-vaccine-mandate-what-to-know>

RONG-GONG LIN II & TARYN LUNA & HOWARD BLUME & LUKE MONEY
OCT 1, 2021

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Taryn Luna covers state government and politics in Sacramento. Prior to joining the Los Angeles Times in 2018, Luna covered the California Legislature and lobbying industry for

The Sacramento Bee. She previously wrote about retail for The Boston Globe and worked as a general assignment reporter for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. Luna grew up in Dixon, a small town in Northern California, and graduated from Oregon State University.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

'The mood is grim': Death threats, violence, intimidation mark another pandemic school year

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-05/covid-vaccine-mask-fury-shakes-up-california-schools>

HAILEY BRANSON-POTTS

OCT 5, 2021

Hailey Branson-Potts is a Metro reporter who joined the Los Angeles Times in 2011. She has reported on a wide range of topics, including rural California and LGBTQ issues. Branson-Potts was part of the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for its coverage of the San Bernardino terrorist attack, as well as the team that was a 2020 Pulitzer finalist for its coverage of a boat fire that killed 34 people off the coast of Santa Barbara. She grew up in the tiny town of Perry, Okla., got her start at the Perry Daily Journal, and graduated from the University of Oklahoma.

Times researcher Scott Wilson contributed to this report.

Pandemic learning loss is real. Schools must follow the science to make up for it

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-10-06/schools-must-follow-the-science-to-make-up-for-pandemic-learning-loss>

DOUG LEMOV

OCT 6, 2021

Doug Lemov, author of Teach Like a Champion 3.0 and The Coach's Guide to Teaching, is a managing director at Uncommon Schools. He is the co-author, with TLAC team colleagues, of Practice Perfect, Reading Reconsidered, and Teaching in the Online Classroom. In addition to his work studying teachers he would like you to believe that he is the front man in the nation's foremost Kenny G cover band. His favorite words are "Huzzah" and "Yam." See <https://teachlikeachampion.com/about/meet-the-team/>.

California becomes first state to require ethnic studies for high school graduation

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-08/california-first-state-require-ethnic-studies-high-school-graduation>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ

OCT 8, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

School boards emerge as hot races in November election

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-10-09/school-boards-emerge-as-hot-races-in-november-election>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

OCT 9, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Julie Carr Smyth & Patty Nieberg contributed to this report.

Fixing California's schools is tough work, and Tony Thurmond needs to be tougher

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-10-11/editorial-time-for-californias-schools-chief-tony-thurmond-to-step-up-to-the-tough-work-of-his-job>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

OCT 11, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Forget 'personal freedom.' California's statewide school vaccine mandate will save lives

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-11/skelton-california-school-covid-vaccine-mandate>

GEORGE SKELTON

OCT 11, 2021

Political columnist George Skelton has covered government and politics for more than 50 years and for The Times since 1974. He has been a Times political writer and editor in Los Angeles, Sacramento bureau chief and White House correspondent. He has written a column on California politics, "Capitol Journal," since 1993. Skelton is a Santa Barbara native, grew up in Ojai and received a journalism degree at San Jose State.

Facing major campus disruption and firings, LAUSD extends staff COVID-vaccine deadline

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-11/l-a-unified-extends-vaccine-deadline-for-employees>

HOWARD BLUME
OCT 11, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

8 to 3: It's a tough time to be a kid. Art can help

<https://www.latimes.com/california/newsletter/2021-10-11/8-to-3-its-a-tough-time-to-be-a-kid-art-can-help-8-to-3>

LAURA NEWBERRY
OCT 11, 2021

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

A gaping hole in Gov. Newsom's school vaccine 'mandate'

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-10-12/editorial-gov-newsom-plug-that-gaping-hole-in-your-school-vaccine-mandate>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
OCT 12, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

L.A., San Diego school districts are sued over student vaccination mandate

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-14/l-a-san-diego-school-districts-are-sued-over-student-vaccination-mandate>

HOWARD BLUME & KRISTEN TAKETA
OCT 14, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year

from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts “Deadline L.A.” on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

Kids aren’t making progress on national tests — and that’s from before the pandemic

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-10-15/americas-kids-arent-making-progress-on-national-tests-and-thats-before-the-pandemic>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

OCT 15, 2021

The Los Angeles Times’ editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board’s mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

95% of teachers meet COVID-19 vaccination deadline, union says

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-15/95-of-teachers-meet-covid-19-vaccination-deadline-union-says>

HOWARD BLUME

OCT 15, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He’s won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts “Deadline L.A.” on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Attacks on school board meetings are threatening democracy. Will educators help save it?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-10-15/school-board-attacks-democracy-civics>

JOSEPH KAHNE & JOHN ROGERS

OCT 15, 2021

Joseph Kahne is the Ted and Jo Dutton Presidential Professor for Education Policy and Politics and Co-Director of the Civic Engagement Research Group (CERG) at the University of California, Riverside. Professor Kahne’s research focuses on the influence of school practices and digital media on youth civic and political development. Currently, CERG, teamed with John Rogers from UCLA, is partnering with Chicago, Riverside, and Salinas on district-wide reform efforts to Leverage Equity and Access to Democratic Education (LEADE). Kahne is also engaged in longitudinal studies that examine impact and equity in relation to civic and media literacy learning opportunities and outcomes. Related work focuses on youth voice, youth voting, and on the impact of teachers’ attention to students’ lived experiences. With Erica Hodgin and Leah Bueso, he also has created Educating4Democracy, a website with teacher resources and videos. Professor Kahne was Chair of the MacArthur Foundation’s Youth and Participatory Politics Research Network. Kahne was a member of the AAAS Commission on the Practice of Democratic Citizenship and of the National Academy of Education’s Initiative on Civic Discourse and Reasoning. He can be reached at jkahne@ucr.edu.

John Rogers is a Professor at UCLA's Graduate School of Education and Information Studies and Director of UCLA's Institute for Democracy, Education, and Access (IDEA). He also serves as the Faculty Director of Center X, which houses UCLA's Teacher Education Program, Principal Leadership Program, and professional development initiatives. Rogers studies the role of civic engagement in equity-focused school reform and civic renewal and the relationship between education and different forms of inequality. He currently is the principal investigator of the "Keeping Time Project" which explores the ways that learning time is experienced differently across low-income and affluent communities. Rogers also co-leads the "Learning About Inequality" project that examines how high schools across North America engage students in lessons about economic, social, and racial inequality. John Rogers is the co-author of Learning Power: Organizing for Education and Justice and co-editor of Public Engagement for Public Education: Joining Forces to Revitalize Democracy and Equalize Schools. He received his Ph.D. in Education from Stanford University and his B.A. in Public Policy and African American Studies from Princeton University.

Parents in California protest student COVID-19 vaccine mandate, keep kids home

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-18/california-protests-student-vaccination-mandate>

MELISSA GOMEZ & HOWARD BLUME

OCT 18, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

How to handle an anti-vaccine 'stay-at-home' protest against schools

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-10-19/editorial-how-to-handle-an-anti-vaccine-stay-at-home-protest>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

OCT 19, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Confronted with losing their jobs, 99% of LAUSD teachers meet COVID-19 vaccine requirements

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-19/a-normal-l-a-school-day-unless-your-teacher-was-unvaccinated>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ

OCT 19, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year

from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts “Deadline L.A.” on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

White House details plans to vaccinate 28 million children ages 5 to 11

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-10-20/white-house-plans-covid-vaccination-children>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

OCT 20, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Zeke Miller & Lindsey Tanner contributed to this report.

Here's what you need to know about the White House plan to vaccinate children

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-10-20/kids-can-now-get-the-covid-19-vaccine-here-are-five-things-you-should-know>

ERIN B. LOGAN

OCT 20, 2021

Erin B. Logan is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. Her work has been featured in the Washington Post, National Public Radio and the Baltimore Sun. She previously studied at Vanderbilt University and American University. Though based in Washington, she's a true southerner at heart and is always on the hunt for authentic sweet tea.

Coronavirus closes first campus in L.A. County, prompting remote learning, football fallout

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-21/coronavirus-closes-first-campus-in-la-county>

HOWARD BLUME

OCT 21, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts “Deadline L.A.” on

KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Eric Sondheimer contributed to this report.

Falling grades, stalled learning. L.A. students 'need help now,' Times analysis shows

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-21/covid-era-learning-challenges-laUSD-after-school-closures>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL & IRIS LEE
OCT 21, 2021

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Iris Lee is a Metpro trainee and data journalist at the Los Angeles Times Data Desk. She previously reported for the San Fernando Valley Business Journal, covering healthcare and law. She graduated from the University of Southern California with a master's in journalism and holds chemistry and international studies degrees from UC Irvine.

Falling grades, stalled learning. L.A. students 'need help now,' Times analysis shows

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-21/covid-era-learning-challenges-laUSD-after-school-closures>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL & IRIS LEE
OCT 21, 2021

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Iris Lee is a Metpro trainee and data journalist at the Los Angeles Times Data Desk. She previously reported for the San Fernando Valley Business Journal, covering healthcare and law. She graduated from the University of Southern California with a master's in journalism and holds chemistry and international studies degrees from UC Irvine.

Opponents of critical race theory seek to flip school boards

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-10-25/opponents-of-critical-race-theory-seek-to-flip-school-boards>

ASSOCIATED PRESS
OCT 25, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Michael Melia contributed to this report.

Three of 10 student athletes could get kicked off team for missing LAUSD vaccine deadline

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-26/student-athletes-could-get-kicked-off-team-for-missing-laUSD-vaccine-deadline>

ERIC SONDHEIMER & HOWARD BLUME & BEN WELSH
OCT 26, 2021

Eric Sondheimer is the prep sports columnist for the Los Angeles Times. He has been honored seven times by the California Prep Sportswriters Assn. for best prep sports column. A graduate of Cal State Northridge, he joined the Daily News as prep editor in 1980. He left for 18 months in 1990 to be West Coast correspondent for the National Sports Daily. He returned to the Daily News in 1991 and joined The Times in 1997 covering high school sports. He has covered Southern California high school sports for more than 40 years.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Ben Welsh is the editor of the Data and Graphics Department, a team of reporters and computer programmers who collect, organize, analyze and present large amounts of information.

Welsh has contributed to projects that have won the Pulitzer Prize, the Library of Congress' Innovation Award, a Knight News Challenge grant and numerous other prizes for investigative reporting, digital design and online journalism.

He is also a co-founder of the California Civic Data Coalition, a network of journalists and computer programmers dedicated to opening up public data, and the leader of Pastpages, an open-source effort to better archive digital news.

Welsh is originally from Swisher, Iowa.

FDA advisors back Pfizer's COVID-19 vaccine for young kids

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-10-26/fda-advisors-review-pfizers-covid-19-vaccine-for-younger-kids>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

OCT 26, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Lauran Neergaard & Matthew Perrone contributed to this report.

California plans ambitious effort to vaccinate young children

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-10-26/fda-advisors-review-pfizers-covid-19-vaccine-for-younger-kids>

LUKE MONEY & RONG-GONG LIN II

OCT 27, 2021

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

COVID-19 risks in kids are small, but vaccines can still save lives, experts say

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-27/covid-19-risk-in-kids-is-small-but-vaccines-still-important>

RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY

OCT 27, 2021

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

When will California children be able to get COVID-19 vaccine? What you need to know

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-28/when-can-california-children-get-covid-19-vaccines>

LUKE MONEY & RONG-GONG LIN II

OCT 28, 2021

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

It's harder to justify COVID vaccine for children if pandemic's end is near

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-10-28/its-harder-to-justify-covid-vaccine-for-kids-if-pandemics-end-is-near>

MELISSA HEALY

OCT 28, 2021

Melissa Healy is a health and science reporter with the Los Angeles Times writing from the Washington, D.C., area. She covers prescription drugs, obesity, nutrition and exercise, and neuroscience, mental health and human behavior. She's been at The Times for more than 30 years, and has covered national security, environment, domestic social policy, Congress and the White House. As a baby boomer, she keenly follows trends in midlife weight gain, memory loss and the health benefits of red wine.

They stuck to their anti-vax beliefs. Now these teachers and school workers are out of jobs

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-29/the-unvaccinated-few-in-l-a-unified>

HOWARD BLUME

OCT 29, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFF, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Academic and emotional setbacks: The LAUSD kids are not all right

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-11-01/editorial-academic-and-emotional-setbacks-the-laUSD-kids-are-not-all-right>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

NOV 1, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Students sing and dance in the kindergarten classroom of teacher Dora Barraza at Heliotrope Avenue Elementary School in Maywood in April.
(Al Seib/Los Angeles Times)

When a COVID-19 vaccine is available for young kids, should they get it?

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-11-01/when-covid-19-vaccine-is-available-for-young-kids-should-they-get-it>

MELISSA HEALY

NOV 1, 2021

Melissa Healy is a health and science reporter with the Los Angeles Times writing from the Washington, D.C., area. She covers prescription drugs, obesity, nutrition and exercise, and neuroscience, mental health and human behavior. She's been at The Times for more than 30 years, and has covered national security, environment, domestic social policy, Congress and the White House. As a baby boomer, she keenly follows trends in midlife weight gain, memory loss and the health benefits of red wine.

Unvaccinated teens in L.A. are more likely to test positive for coronavirus than adults

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-01/unvaccinated-teens-more-likely-to-get-coronavirus-than-adults-in-l-a-county>

RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY

NOV 1, 2021

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

CDC panel weighs risks and benefits of COVID-19 vaccine for young children

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-11-02/cdc-panel-weighs-risks-and-benefits-of-covid-19-vaccine-for-young-children>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NOV 2, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Lauran Neergaard & Mike Stobbe contributed to this report.

Dr. Dre, will.i.am, Issa Rae give early 'yes' to proposed school arts initiative

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-02/proposed-state-ballot-initiative-would-increase-arts-spending-in-schools>

HOWARD BLUME

NOV 2, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFF, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Breastfeeding & vaxxed: Parents delay weaning children to pass on COVID-19 antibodies

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-02/lactating-parents-are-delaying-weaning-young-children-to-pass-on-covid-19-antibodies>

MARISSA EVANS

NOV 2, 2021

Marissa Evans covers healthcare and communities of color in California for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining The Times in 2021, she worked for the Star Tribune in Minneapolis, where she covered housing, Black community trauma after George Floyd's death, how communities of color have been affected by COVID-19 and how Minnesota allows private hospitals to seize tax refunds from consumers with unpaid medical bills. She also previously reported for the Texas Tribune, CQ Roll Call and Kaiser Health News. She won a 2018 Online News Assn. award for explanatory reporting for a project on Texas's maternal mortality crisis. Her work has appeared in the Atlantic, Medium, Oprah Magazine and other outlets. Evans is also a trainer with the Ida B. Wells Society for Investigative Reporting, which aims to increase the ranks of journalists of color in the field of investigative reporting. She graduated from Marquette University with a degree in journalism.

No L.A. Unified vaccine mandate so far for students ages 5 to 11

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-03/no-l-a-school-covid-vaccine-mandate-so-far-for-ages-5-to-11>

HOWARD BLUME
NOV 3, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Eric Sondheimer contributed to this report.

California begins giving COVID-19 vaccines to children ages 5 to 11

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-03/california-to-give-covid-19-vaccines-to-younger-kids-today>

LUKE MONEY & RONG-GONG LIN II
NOV 3, 2021

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Times staff writers Emily Alpert Reyes & Cindy Carcamo contributed to this report.

My 8-year-old has been anxiously waiting to get vaxxed. His time has arrived

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-11-03/kids-covid-vaccine-eligible>

STEPHANIE V.W. LUCIANOVIC
NOV 3, 2021

Stephanie V.W. Lucianovic writes books in the San Francisco Bay Area surrounded by a few kids, a few cats, and one husband. She is the author of the nonfiction book Suffering Succotash: A Picky Eater's Quest to Understand Why We Hate the Foods We Hate, and to this day still thinks raisins are the devil's earwax. The League of Picky Eaters is her first novel for kids. Her most recent book is "The League of Picky Eaters."

Young kids should get the COVID-19 vaccine, but not be forced to — yet

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-11-04/editorial-young-kids-should-get-the-vaccine-but-not-be-forced-into-it-yet>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

NOV 4, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

‘Not quite on board’: Parents proving a tough sell on COVID-19 vaccine for teens

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-11-04/not-quite-on-board-parents-proving-a-tough-sell-on-covid-vaccine-for-teens>

KAISER HEALTH NEWS

NOV 4, 2021

KHN (Kaiser Health News) produces in-depth journalism about health issues, one of the three major operating programs at KFF (Kaiser Family Foundation).

Jenny Gold & Samantha Young contributed to this report.
Phillip Reese, an assistant professor of journalism at Sacramento State, also contributed to this report.

Next phase of COVID-19 vaccinations begins as parents rush to get kids their shots

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-04/next-phase-of-covid-19-vaccinations-begins-as-parents-rush-to-get-kids-their-shots>

RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY & HOWARD BLUME

NOV 4, 2021

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Eric Sondheimer contributed to this report.

Pomona defunded school police. But after a shooting, campus officers are coming back

HAYLEY SMITH
NOV 5, 2021

Hayley Smith covers trending and breaking news for the Los Angeles Times. She previously contributed to The Times' COVID-19 project, "The Pandemic's Toll: Lives Lost in California," in partnership with the Pulitzer Center and USC. Her work has been featured in Oprah Magazine, Vogue, HuffPost and other outlets. Originally from Miami, she holds a master's degree in journalism from the University of Southern California's Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism.

Times staff writer Melissa Gomez contributed to this report.

Court order reinstates distance learning for group of disabled students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-05/court-order-reinstates-distance-learning-for-disabled-students>

HOWARD BLUME
NOV 5, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

The rise in school shooting threats is alarming — and a cry for help

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-11-05/record-school-shooting-threats-guns>

JAMES DENSLEY & DAVID RIEDMAN & JILLIAN PETERSON
NOV 5, 2021

Born and raised in England, Dr. James Densley is professor and department chair of criminal justice at Metropolitan State University, part of the Minnesota State system. James first moved to the United States to teach special education in the New York City public schools. After earning his Doctorate in sociology from the University of Oxford, he quickly established himself as one of the world's leading experts on street gangs and serious youth violence, including cyber violence. James' work has attracted global media attention. He has been an invited or plenary speaker on three continents.

He has received global media attention for his work on street gangs, criminal networks, violence, and policing. Densley is perhaps best known for co-creating the largest, most comprehensive database of mass shooters in the United States, known as The Violence Project.

Densley is the author of six books, including The Violence Project: How to Stop A Mass Shooting Epidemic (Abrams Press, 2021), 45 peer-reviewed articles in leading scientific journals, and over 70 book chapters, essays, and non-refereed works in outlets such as CNN, The Guardian, Los Angeles Times, USA Today, The Wall Street Journal, and The Washington Post.

David Riedman holds a Masters in Homeland Defense and Security from the Naval Postgraduate School, is one of the co-founders of the Homeland Security Advanced Thinking Program (HSx), and teaches graduate courses in homeland security policy and critical infrastructure protection. David Riedman is the co-creator of the K-12 School Shooting Database at the Naval Postgraduate School.

Dr. Jillian Peterson is a Professor of Criminology and Criminal Justice at Hamline University. Jill launched her career as a special investigator in New York City, researching the psycho-social life histories of men facing the death penalty. Jill has led large-scale research studies on mental illness and crime, school shooting prevention, and mass violence, which have received national media attention. She is a sought-after national trainer and speaker on issues related to mental illness and violence, trauma, forensic psychology, and mass violence. Jill earned her Doctorate in psychology and social behavior from the University of California, Irvine. She is trained in restorative justice, violence mediation, crisis intervention, de-escalation, and suicide prevention.

James Densley and Jillian Peterson are co-founders of the Violence Project and co-authors of “The Violence Project: How to Stop a Mass Shooting Epidemic.” Co-founded by psychologist Dr. Jillian Peterson and sociologist Dr. James Densley, The Violence Project has developed an integrated, interdisciplinary, understanding of violence and a holistic approach to addressing it. Best known for their work on gun violence prevention, The Violence Project also pioneered a new mental illness crisis intervention and de-escalation training for law enforcement (The R-Model) that has changed the way officers think about community policing. The Violence Project has featured in CNN, Fox News, The New York Times, The Washington Post, The Wall Street Journal, and other leading media outlets.

Grandma and Disneyland: Parents who jumped at COVID shots for kids crave ‘normal life’

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-06/kids-covid-19-vaccination>

EMILY ALPERT REYES & HOWARD BLUME

NOV 6, 2021

Emily Alpert Reyes covers City Hall for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported on the census & demographics, tracking how our lives are changing in Los Angeles, California & the country. Before joining The Times, she worked for the pioneering nonprofit news website voiceofsandiego.org, winning national awards for her reporting on education. She has also traveled to Bolivia as a fellow with the International Reporting Project & survived the University of Chicago.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He’s won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts “Deadline L.A.” on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writers Rong-Gong Lin II & Lucas Money contributed to this report.

Schools take lead role in promoting vaccines for youngsters

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-11-07/schools-take-lead-role-in-promoting-vaccines-for-youngsters>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NOV 7, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world’s stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world’s biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Pat Eaton-Robb & Collin Binkley in Boston & Michael Melia in Hartford, Conn. contributed to this report.

What happens when angry polarization takes over school boards and local government?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-11-07/public-service-abuse-local-officials-resignations>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NOV 7, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Dr. Brian Klaas contributed to this report.

What books are being targeted at school libraries?

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-11-08/what-books-are-being-targeted-at-school-libraries>

MOLLY HENNESSY-FISKE

NOV 8, 2021

Molly Hennessy-Fiske has been a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times since 2006 in Houston, Los Angeles, Washington and the Middle East as bureau chief. She was on a team that won a local Emmy this year for stories reported while living on the U.S.-Mexico border; 2018 APME International Perspective Award; 2015 Overseas Press Club award; 2014 Dart award and was a finalist for Livingston and Casey Awards. Raised in Upstate New York, she graduated from Harvard College.

Faced with soaring Ds and Fs, schools are ditching the old way of grading

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-08/as-ds-and-fs-soar-schools-ditch-inequitable-grade-systems>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL

NOV 8, 2021

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

What do L.A. students want most? Mental health help, an adult to listen, reliable tech

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-10/l-a-students-want-covid-mental-health-help-reliable-tech>

HOWARD BLUME
NOV 10, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Colonialism, power and race. Inside California ethnic studies classes

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-10/ethnic-studies-graduation-requirement>

MELISSA GOMEZ
NOV 10, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Texas governor orders criminal probe into 'pornography' in school books

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-11-10/texas-governor-orders-criminal-probe>

MOLLY HENNESSY-FISKE
NOV 10, 2021

Molly Hennessy-Fiske has been a staff writer for the Los Angeles Times since 2006 in Houston, Los Angeles, Washington and the Middle East as bureau chief. She was on a team that won a local Emmy this year for stories reported while living on the U.S.-Mexico border; 2018 APME International Perspective Award; 2015 Overseas Press Club award; 2014 Dart award and was a finalist for Livingston and Casey Awards. Raised in Upstate New York, she graduated from Harvard College.

Democrats aim to dramatically reshape childcare, preschool

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/story/2021-11-11/democrats-child-care-universal-preschool>

JENNIFER HABERKORN

NOV 11, 2021

Jennifer Haberkorn covers Congress in Washington, D.C., for the Los Angeles Times. She has reported from Washington since 2005, spending much of that time roaming the halls of the U.S. Capitol. Before arriving at The Times, Haberkorn spent eight years at Politico writing about the 2010 healthcare law, a story that took her to Congress, the states, healthcare clinics and courtrooms around the country. She also covered Congress and local business news for the Washington Times. Haberkorn is a native of the Chicago area and graduated from Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wis.

Orange County sees robust demand for child COVID-19 vaccines

<https://www.latimes.com/socal/daily-pilot/news/story/2021-11-11/orange-county-sees-robust-demand-for-child-covid-19-vaccines>

RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY

NOV 11, 2021

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

A ballot-box budgeting proposal for arts education? Let's stop it before it starts

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-11-14/editorial-a-ballot-box-budgeting-proposal-for-arts-education-lets-stop-it-before-it-starts>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

NOV 14, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

When a Hyundai is also the family home

<https://www.npr.org/2021/11/14/1053923521/housing-school-district-pennsylvania-parking-lot>

CHLOE NOUVELLE

NOV 14, 2021

Chloe Nouvelle is an award-winning journalist, a reporter for WLVT-TV (Bethlehem, PA).. Presently, Nouvelle reports on education and special populations for Allentown's PBS and NPR platforms. Nouvelle's human-centered coverage focuses on the myriad of ways policy decisions affect people. Her education reporting also highlights how public schools are not isolated from the social and economic issues that challenge a community. Prior to her role with PBS and NPR in Allentown, Nouvelle worked at NBC News in New York. As a member of the network's foreign unit, she contributed to NBC News' chronicling of the war in Syria, the rise of the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria, and the refugee crisis in Europe. Nouvelle was part of the network's team honored with a Peabody Award in 2014. She is also the recipient of nine Mid-Atlantic Emmy Award nominations.

How can kids learn without homework and rigid deadlines? Quite well, it turns out

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-11-15/editorial-how-can-kids-learn-without-homework-and-rigid-deadlines-quite-well-it-turns-out>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

NOV 15, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

LAUSD to end weekly COVID tests and spend $5 million on prizes to encourage vaccinations

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-17/laUSD-to-spend-5-million-for-gift-cards-to-incentivize-students-to-get-covid-19-vaccine>

HOWARD BLUME

NOV 17, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFF, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

California has to get ethnic studies right to support Black LGBTQ youth

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-11-17/california-ethnic-studies-lgbtq-curriculum>

SIKIVU HUTCHINSON

NOV 17, 2021

Sikivu Hutchinson is an American feminist, novelist, playwright and director. She is the author of The Rock 'n' Roll Heretic (2021), Humanists in the Hood: Unapologetically Black, Feminist, and Heretical (2020), White Nights, Black Paradise (2015), Moral Combat: Black Atheists, Gender Politics, and the Values Wars (2011), and Imagining Transit: Race, Gender, and Transportation Politics in Los Angeles (2003). Moral Combat is the first book on atheism to be published by an African-American woman. In 2013 she was named Secular Woman of the year and in 2020 she was a recipient of the Harvard Humanist of the Year award. Sikivu Hutchinson is a co-facilitator of the Black LGBTQIA+ Parent and Caregiver group.

Gifts and treats sweeten the LAUSD vaccine mandate. That can only make schools healthier

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-11-18/editorial-if-gifts-and-treats-sweeten-the-laUSD-vaccine-mandate-that-can-only-make-schools-healthier-and-safer>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

NOV 18, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

L.A. schools will relax some student mask rules, ease COVID-19 testing. What to know

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-18/l-a-schools-will-relax-some-student-mask-rules-ease-covid-19-testing-what-to-know>

HOWARD BLUME
NOV 18, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

UC slams the door on standardized admissions tests, nixing any SAT alternative

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-18/uc-slams-door-on-sat-and-all-standardized-admissions-tests>

TERESA WATANABE
NOV 18, 2021

Teresa Watanabe covers education for the Los Angeles Times. Since joining the Times in 1989, she has covered immigration, ethnic communities, religion, Pacific Rim business and served as Tokyo correspondent and bureau chief. She also covered Asia, national affairs and state government for the San Jose Mercury News and wrote editorials for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. A Seattle native, she graduated from USC in journalism and in East Asian languages and culture.

New laws steer some teachers away from race-related topics

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-11-19/new-laws-steer-some-teachers-away-from-race-related-topics>

ASSOCIATED PRESS
NOV 19, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Travis Loller & Acacia Coronado contributed to this report.

How COVID-19 shots for kids can help prevent dangerous new variants

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-11-22/how-covid-shots-for-kids-help-prevent-dangerous-new-variants>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NOC 22, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Laura Ungar contributed to this report.

About 44,000 LAUSD students miss first vaccine deadline and risk losing in-person classes

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-22/about-44-000-laUSD-students-miss-first-vaccine-deadline-and-risk-losing-in-person-classes>

HOWARD BLUME

NOV 22, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Hiring shortages and COVID complicate schools' year of recovery

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-22/san-diego-schools-teacher-shortage>

KRISTEN TAKETA

NOV 22, 2021

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

Wrenching struggle to define critical race theory divides an Orange County school district

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-24/in-the-confounding-struggle-to-define-critical-race-theory-not-even-the-dictionary-will-suffice>

HAYLEY SMITH

NOV 24, 2021

Hayley Smith covers trending and breaking news for the Los Angeles Times. She previously contributed to The Times' COVID-19 project, "The Pandemic's Toll: Lives Lost in California," in partnership with the Pulitzer Center and USC. Her work has been featured in Oprah Magazine, Vogue, HuffPost and other outlets. Originally from Miami, she holds a master's degree in journalism from the University of Southern California's Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism.

California's coast embraces child COVID-19 shots, but demand lags inland

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-24/californias-coast-embraces-kid-covid-19-shots-but-demand-lags-inland>

LUKE MONEY & RONG-GONG LIN II

NOV 24, 2021

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Times staff writers Sean Greene & Thomas Suh Lauder contributed to this report.

L.A. Unified nears a choice on its next superintendent at a critical moment for students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-25/l-a-unified-nears-a-choice-on-its-next-superintendent>

HOWARD BLUME

NOV 25, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFF, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

San Diego student fighting vaccine mandate appeals judge's denial of religious exemption

LYNDSAY WINKLEY
NOV 25, 2021

Lyndsay Winkley is a member of the watchdog team at The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the paper in July 2012, and spent years covering crime and policing before moving to investigations. A graduate of SDSU, Lyndsay has been recognized by the Society of Professional Journalists, San Diego Press Club and other organizations for her work.

Are the school districts that ‘defunded the police’ already regretting it?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-11-26/school-police-abolish-defund-los-angeles-unified-school-district-pomona>

NICHOLAS GOLDBERG
NOV 26, 2021

Nicholas Goldberg is an associate editor and Op-Ed columnist for the Los Angeles Times. He previously served 11 years as editor of the editorial page and was also a former editor of the Op-Ed page and the Sunday Opinion section. While at New York Newsday in the 1980s and 1990s, Goldberg was a Middle East correspondent and political reporter. His writing has been published in the New Republic, New York Times, Vanity Fair, the Nation, Sunday Times of London and Washington Monthly, among other places. He is a graduate of Harvard University.

Court temporarily halts San Diego schools’ COVID-19 vaccine mandate

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-11-29/court-temporarily-halts-san-diego-schools-covid-19-vaccine-mandate>

KRISTEN TAKETA
NOV 29, 2021

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

San Diego County district plans to offer in-person classes for unvaccinated students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-03/san-diego-wants-in-person-option-for-unvaccinated-students>

KRISTEN TAKETA
DEC 3, 2021

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

LAUSD’s independent study program is overwhelmed. Students with disabilities pay the price

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-06/lausd-city-of-angels-students-with-disabilities>

MELISSA GOMEZ
DEC 6, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Californians need more transparency over school district salaries

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-12-07/school-districts-arent-sharing-salary-information-with-the-state-controller-they-should-be-required-to>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
DEC 7, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Surgeon general warns of emerging youth mental health crisis in rare public advisory

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-07/surgeon-general-advisory-youth-mental-health-crisis-looms>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ
DEC 7, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

34,000 L.A. Unified students have not complied with vaccine mandate, signaling problems ahead

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-07/33-000-l-a-unified-have-not-provided-proof-of-covid-vaccination>

HOWARD BLUME
DEC 7, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on

KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Judge leans toward denying a suit seeking to halt L.A. Unified student vaccine mandate

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-08/judge-weighs-suit-on-laUSD-covid-19-student-vaccine-mandate>

CITY NEWS SERVICE

DEC 8, 2021

City News Service is the nation's largest regional wire service and is headquartered in Los Angeles.

Nearly 500 L.A. Unified employees lose their jobs for failing to get COVID-19 vaccine

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-08/500-l-a-unified-workers-fired-for-not-getting-covid-vaccine>

HOWARD BLUME

DEC 8, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

How to get our sad and anxious kids from traumatized to OK

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-12-09/editorial-how-to-get-our-sad-and-anxious-kids-from-traumatized-to-ok>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

DEC 9, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Alberto Carvalho, head of Miami-Dade schools, is pick for L.A. superintendent

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-09/miami-dades-alberto-carvalho-is-likely-new-l-a-school-chief>

HOWARD BLUME

DEC 9, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Who is Alberto Carvalho, LAUSD's new superintendent?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-09/who-is-alberto-carvalho-laUSDs-new-superintendent>

HOWARD BLUME
DEC 9, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Educators report a rise in school threats, fights and misbehavior, and blame COVID

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-09/educators-report-rise-in-school-threats-fights-misbehavior>

MELISSA GOMEZ
DEC 9, 2021

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Alberto Carvalho might be just what L.A. schools need

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-12-10/editorial-alberto-carvalho-might-be-just-what-l-a-schools-need>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

DEC 10, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

L.A.'s new schools chief Alberto Carvalho impressed many in Miami. Can he transform L.A.?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-10/can-alberto-carvalho-of-miami-schools-change-l-a-district>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ & PALOMA ESQUIVEL
DEC 10, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

LAUSD poised to push back deadline for student COVID vaccinations to fall 2022

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-10/lausd-plans-to-back-down-from-student-covid-vaccine-mandate>

HOWARD BLUME
DEC 10, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. Unified shouldn't be the loser in a game of vaccine-mandate chicken

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-12-14/editorial-la-unified-shouldnt-be-the-loser-in-a-game-of-vaccine-mandate-chicken>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
DEC 14, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

L.A. school board approves contract for new LAUSD Supt. Alberto Carvalho

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-14/new-laUSD-supt-carvalho-l-a-trip>

HOWARD BLUME
DEC 14, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

CDC endorses school COVID-19 'test to stay' policy that avoids student quarantines

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-12-17/cdc-endorses-schools-coronavirus-test-to-stay-policies>

HOWARD BLUME
DEC 17, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

What's the timeline for kids under 5 to get a COVID vaccine?

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-12-17/whats-the-timeline-for-kids-under-5-to-get-a-covid-vaccine>

JESSICA ROY
DEC 17, 2021

Jessica Roy is an assistant editor on the Utility Journalism team at the Los Angeles Times. The team publishes stories and information that help people solve problems, answer questions, and make big decisions about life in and around Los Angeles.

L.A. schools on alert after threats of campus violence reportedly circulate on TikTok

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-17/threats-of-school-violence-put-los-angeles-schools-law-enforcement-on-high-alert>

LILA SEIDMAN & JAIMIE DING
DEC 17, 2021

Lila Seidman covers trending and breaking news for the Los Angeles Times. Over the years, she's reported for a variety of publications, including the Daily Journal, a statewide legal publication, and the UB Post, an English-language newspaper in Mongolia, and her work has appeared in L.A. Weekly, Gawker and Vice. Prior to landing at The Times, she served as city reporter for the Glendale News-Press. A native Angeleno raised on sun and smog, she briefly deflected up north to attend Reed College in Portland, Ore., where she earned a degree in Russian and psychology.

Jaimie Ding is a reporter at the Los Angeles Times. Before joining The Times, she wrote for the Oregonian, the Sacramento Bee, the Associated Press and Claremont Colleges newspaper, the Student Life. Ding was raised in the Portland, Ore., area and graduated from Scripps College with a degree in politics. Outside of journalism, she's also passionate about good food and live music. She is a member of the 2021-22 Los Angeles Times Fellowship class.

Security protocols leave threat responses up to schools

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-12-18/security-protocols-leave-threat-responses-up-to-schools>

ASSOCIATED PRESS
DEC 18, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Carolyn Thompson contributed to this report.

Schools use therapy-based programs for 'overwhelmed' kids

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-12-20/schools-use-therapy-based-programs-for-overwhelmed-kids>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

DEC 20, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Lindsey Tanner contributed to this report.

Judge rules against San Diego Unified's COVID vaccine mandate. What does it mean for L.A.?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-20/san-diego-unified-covid-vaccine-mandate-struck-down>

HOWARD BLUME & KRISTEN TAKETA

DEC 20, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

Amid a youth mental health crisis, teens help one another

<https://www.latimes.com/california/newsletter/2021-12-20/youth-mental-health-crisis-teens-help-one-another-8-to-3>

LAURA NEWBERRY
DEC 20, 2021

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

We Learned Our Lesson Last Year: Do Not Close Schools

<https://www.nytimes.com/2021/12/20/opinion/omicron-schools-do-not-close.html>

JOSEPH G. ALLEN
DEC 20, 2021

Dr. Allen is an associate professor and director of the Healthy Buildings program at Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health. Joseph G. Allen is Director of the Healthy Buildings program and an Associate Professor at Harvard's T. H. Chan School of Public Health. Before joining the faculty at Harvard, he spent several years in the private sector leading teams of scientists and engineers to investigate and resolve hundreds of indoor environmental quality issues, including "sick buildings," cancer clusters, and biological/chemical hazards. His academic research focuses on the critical role the indoor built environment plays in our overall health. One of the world's leading experts on healthy buildings, Dr. Allen is a regular keynote speaker and advises leading global companies. He is the co-author of Healthy Buildings (Harvard University Press; 2020) He is also the chair of the Lancet Covid-19 Commission Task Force on Safe Work, Safe School and Safe Travel.

California to distribute COVID tests to K-12 students as Omicron spreads through state

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-22/california-to-expand-covid-testing-provide-kits-to-students>

LUKE MONEY & HOWARD BLUME & RONG-GONG LIN II
DEC 22, 2021

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight

Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Times staff writer Taryn Luna contributed to this report.

School surveillance on students' laptops will not help solve the youth mental health crisis

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-12-26/op-ed-school-surveillance-on-students-laptops-will-not-fix-the-youth-mental-health-crisis>

MINERVA CANTO
DEC 26, 2021

Minerva Canto is a longtime journalist whose work explores the places where politics, policies and people converge. She is equally adept at digging through piles of files as she is hiking knee-deep in the snow to the site of a plane crash or interviewing a murder suspect face-to-face. She most enjoys taking readers to unusual places or introducing them to everyday people in unfamiliar circumstances.

As a freelance journalist based in Southern California, she frequently writes about social issues, ranging from sentencing in juvenile justice to challenges faced by foster youth in accessing higher education. A native of Mexico City, she speaks fluent Spanish and is a former staff writer for The Associated Press and was a daily newspaper reporter, covering beats that included immigration, politics, arts, crime, and courts. Her experience also includes reporting throughout Mexico, including analysis and coverage of a presidential campaign, a year-long project on violence against women in Ciudad Juárez, and stories about cross-border issues.

Minerva recently earned a MFA at the University of Southern Maine's Stonecoast Creative Writing program. She writes fiction and non-fiction inspired in part by her experiences as a cross-border reporter and an immigrant growing up in Santa Ana, California.

Jump in child COVID hospitalizations in N.Y. sparks concerns in California amid Omicron

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-26/jump-in-child-covid-hospitalizations-in-new-york-sparks-concerns-in-california-amid-omicron>

RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY
DEC 26, 2021

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

COVID-19 isn't like chickenpox. How to get school vaccination mandates right

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-12-27/editorial-covid-19-isnt-like-chickenpox-how-to-get-school-vaccination-mandates-right>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
Dec 27, 2021

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Fewer kids read for fun anymore. They're losing out on more than great stories

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-12-28/editorial-few-kids-are-reading-for-enjoyment-anymore-and-losing-out-on-more-than-great-stories>

KAREN KLEIN
DEC 28, 2021

Karin Klein is a board member who writes editorials about education, environment, food and science. She was the 2006-07 winner of the Eugene C. Pulliam Fellowship for Editorial Writers and was a 2012 and 2014 Logan Environmental Journalism fellow and a 2014 Metcalf Environmental Reporting fellow. She leads interpretive hikes as a volunteer naturalist and is the author of the 2010 book "50 Hikes in Orange County." She attended Wellesley College and UC Berkeley and is an adjunct professor of journalism at Chapman University.

The unentitled kids: California's new generation of star college applicants

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-29/they-are-the-unentitled-kids-californias-new-generation-of-star-college-applicants>

TERESA WATANABE
DEC 29, 2021

Teresa Watanabe covers education for the Los Angeles Times. Since joining the Times in 1989, she has covered immigration, ethnic communities, religion, Pacific Rim business and served as Tokyo correspondent and bureau chief. She also covered Asia, national affairs and state government for the San Jose Mercury News and wrote editorials for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. A Seattle native, she graduated from USC in journalism and in East Asian languages and culture.

U.S. children hospitalized with COVID-19 in near-record numbers

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2021-12-30/us-children-hospitalized-with-covid-in-near-record-numbers>

ASSOCIATED PRESS
DEC 30, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Martha Bellisle contributed to this report.

Schools urged to tighten testing, upgrade masks when they reopen Monday amid Omicron surge

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-12-31/schools-urged-to-tighten-testing-and-mask-protocols-when-they-reopen-on-monday>

HOWARD BLUME

DEC 31, 2021

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Younger adults driving coronavirus surge in Southern California

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-01/younger-adults-driving-covid-transmission-in-southern-california>

RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY

JAN 1, 2022

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

L.A. County public, private school staff must wear high-grade masks; rules for athletes tighten

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-02/l-a-school-staff-to-use-high-grade-masks-amid-omicron-surge>

HOWARD BLUME

JAN 2, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on

KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

San Diego students talk about racism, bias and privilege in ethnic studies classes

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-02/what-san-diego-students-are-talking-about-in-ethnic-studies-class-race-identity-bias>

KRISTEN TAKETA
JAN 2, 2022

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

FDA expands Pfizer boosters for more teens as Omicron surges

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2022-01-03/fda-expands-pfizer-boosters-for-more-teens-as-omicron-surges>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAN 3, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Lauran Neergaard contributed to this report.

Omicron upends return to U.S. schools and workplaces

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-01-03/omicron-upends-return-to-us-schools-and-workplaces>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAN 3, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Jennifer Peltz reported from New York. Gretchen Ehlke reported from Milwaukee. Terry Tang reported from San Jose. Associated Press writers Margery Beck in Omaha; Anne D'Innocenzio in New York; Michael Hill in Albany, N.Y.; Kevin McGill in New Orleans; Rick Callahan in Indianapolis; Sophia Tareen in Chicago; Jennifer Sinco Kelleher in Honolulu; and Corey Williams in Detroit contributed to this report.

What's being done to keep kids safe as schools reopen during Omicron surge

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-03/keeping-kids-safe-as-school-reopens-during-omicron-surge>

HOWARD BLUME
JAN 3, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

California lawmakers may stop tying K-12 schools' funding to daily attendance

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-03/california-lawmakers-may-stop-funding-k12-schools-based-on-daily-attendance>

MACKENZIE MAYS
JAN 3, 2022

Mackenzie Mays covers state government and politics in the Los Angeles Times' Sacramento bureau. Previously, she worked as an investigative reporter for Politico, the Fresno Bee and the Charleston Gazette-Mail. In 2019, she received the National Press Club Press Freedom Award for her political watchdog reporting. She is a graduate of West Virginia University and proud Appalachian.

Times staff writer Taryn Luna contributed to this report.

In discussing Jan. 6, teachers are on the front lines of the culture war

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-01-04/teachers-at-culture-war-front-lines-with-jan-6-education>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jan 4, 2021

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Heather Hollingsworth contributed to this report.

Where are the COVID tests Newsom promised for schools?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-01-04/la-ed-school-covid-tests>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JAN 4, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

CDC urges COVID-19 boosters starting at age 12 to fight Omicron

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-01-05/us-advisers-recommend-pfizer-boosters-for-younger-teens>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAN 5, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Lauran Neergaard & Mike Stobbe contributed to this report.

Chicago cancels classes after teachers back remote learning amid COVID-19 surge

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-01-05/chicago-cancels-classes-teachers-back-remote-learning>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAN 5, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Sophia Tareen contributed to this report.

State seeks to speed credentials for 10,000 direly needed school mental health counselors

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-05/mental-health-crisis-counselors-pandemic>

MELISSA GOMEZ

JAN 5, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Exes and vaxxes: Family courts weigh in on parents being vaccinated

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-06/covid-19-vaccinations-family-court>

EMILY ALPERT REYES

JAN 6, 2022

Emily Alpert Reyes covers City Hall for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported on the census & demographics, tracking how our lives are changing in Los Angeles, California & the country. Before joining The Times, she worked for the pioneering nonprofit news website voiceofsandiego.org, winning national awards for her reporting on education. She has also traveled to Bolivia as a fellow with the International Reporting Project & survived the University of Chicago.

Orange County reports third COVID-19 death of a child younger than 5

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-06/orange-county-third-pediatric-covid-death-young-child>

GREGORY YEE

JAN 6, 2022

Gregory Yee is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2021, he spent five years covering criminal justice and breaking news for the Post and Courier in Charleston, S.C. He is a native Southern Californian and graduated from UC Irvine in 2012 with a degree in journalism and Spanish literature.

Wave of California colleges extend remote instruction amid worsening Omicron surge

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-06/four-uc-campuses-extend-remote-instruction-for-weeks-amid-worsening-omicron-surge>

TERESA WATANABE & COLLEEN SHALBY
JAN 6, 2022

Teresa Watanabe covers education for the Los Angeles Times. Since joining the Times in 1989, she has covered immigration, ethnic communities, religion, Pacific Rim business and served as Tokyo correspondent and bureau chief. She also covered Asia, national affairs and state government for the San Jose Mercury News and wrote editorials for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. A Seattle native, she graduated from USC in journalism and in East Asian languages and culture.

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

When will kids under 5 be able to get vaccinated for COVID-19?

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2021-12-17/whats-the-timeline-for-kids-under-5-to-get-a-covid-vaccine>

JESSICA ROY
JAN 7, 2022

Jessica Roy is an assistant editor on the Utility Journalism team at the Los Angeles Times. The team publishes stories and information that help people solve problems, answer questions, and make big decisions about life in and around Los Angeles.

PUBLISHED DEC. 17, 2021 UPDATED JAN. 7, 2022 4:49 PM PT

Chicago cancels classes for a third day as fight over COVID-19 safety drags on

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-01-07/chicago-cancels-classes-third-day-covid-protocols>

ASSOCIATED PRESS
JAN 7, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Sophia Tareen contributed to this report.

Hospitalizations skyrocket in kids too young for COVID shots

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2022-01-07/hospitalizations-skyrocket-in-kids-too-young-for-covid-shots>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jan 7, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Lindsey Tanner & Mike Stobbe & Carla K. Johnson contributed to this report.

LAUSD determined to open amid increase in infections; Montebello schools will delay term

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-07/l-a-unified-reports-highest-ever-student-staff-covid-rates>

HOWARD BLUME

JAN 7, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Melissa Gomez contributed to this report.

Contemplating a COVID party for your kids? It's still a bad idea

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2022-01-07/covid-party-for-your-kids-still-a-bad-idea>

JON HEALEY

JAN 7, 2022

Jon Healey is a senior editor on the Utility Journalism team, which tries to help readers solve problems, answer questions and make big decisions about life in and around Los Angeles. He has been with the Los Angeles Times since 2000, previously reporting on technology news and writing opinion pieces.

Coronavirus Today: Going back to school with Omicron

KAREN KAPLAN
JAN 7, 2022

Karen Kaplan is science and medicine editor at the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the science group in 2005, she covered technology in the Business section for 10 years. She is a graduate of MIT and Columbia University. In a parallel universe without journalism, she'd have a career in economics, genetics, biostatistics or some other field that describes the world in math.

First comprehensive data in two years show big academic setbacks for California students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-07/california-students-suffered-major-academic-setbacks-last-year-data-shows>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL
JAN 7, 2022

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

12 Oakland schools close after teachers stage 'sickout,' citing COVID safety worries

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-08/oakland-schools-closed-sickout>

MELISSA GOMEZ
JAN 8, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Frustrations rise as Gov. Newsom's vow to screen students for COVID falls short

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-08/california-schools-struggle-newsom-covid-test-vow-short>

MELODY GUTIERREZ & MACKENZIE MAYS
JAN 8, 2022

Melody Gutierrez covers state government and politics in Sacramento for the Los Angeles Times. Previously, she covered politics for the San Francisco Chronicle and the state Legislature, education and sports for the Sacramento Bee. Her first reporting job was for the newspaper in her hometown of Twentynine Palms while she was in high school. She graduated from Chico State. With an emphasis on watchdog reporting, she has written award-winning stories on wasteful spending, pension spiking, rape kit backlogs and failures in the foster care system, some of which prompted state audits and legislative changes.

Mackenzie Mays covers state government and politics in the Los Angeles Times' Sacramento bureau. Previously, she worked as an investigative reporter for Politico, the Fresno Bee and the Charleston Gazette-Mail. In 2019, she received the National Press Club Press Freedom Award for her political watchdog reporting. She is a graduate of West Virginia University and proud Appalachian.

Schools sticking with in-person learning scramble for subs

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-01-09/schools-sticking-with-in-person-learning-scramble-for-subs>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAN 9, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Michael Melia contributed to this report.

The U.S. cannot afford to be stingy with parents. Revive the expanded child tax credit

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-01-09/child-tax-credit>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JAN 9, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

'Don't panic.' How parents with kids too young to vaccinate can navigate Omicron

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2022-01-10/how-parents-with-kids-too-young-to-vaccinate-can-navigate-omicron>

ADA TSENG

JAN 10, 2022

Ada Tseng is an assistant editor on the utility journalism team at the L.A. Times. The utility journalism team publishes stories and information that help people solve problems, answer questions and make big decisions about life in and around Los Angeles.

She previously led coverage of Orange County as TimesOC's entertainment editor, and she co-hosts the Asian American pop culture history podcast Saturday School.

Newsom signs order to make it easier for schools to hire teachers amid shortages

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-11/california-newsom-order-easier-to-hire-teachers-amid-covid-shortages>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAN 11, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Christopher Weber contributed to this report.

L.A. schools are being smart about COVID, but Omicron precautions must be ongoing

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-01-11/editorial-la-schools-are-the-best-prepared-to-stay-open-but-all-california-schools-should-too>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JAN 11, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

California schools face funding crisis as student population declines

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-11/california-schools-face-funding-crisis-as-student-population-declines>

MACKENZIE MAYS

JAN 11, 2022

Mackenzie Mays covers state government and politics in the Los Angeles Times' Sacramento bureau. Previously, she worked as an investigative reporter for Politico, the Fresno Bee and the Charleston Gazette-Mail. In 2019, she received the National Press Club Press Freedom Award for her political watchdog reporting. She is a graduate of West Virginia University and proud Appalachian.

More than 62,000 LAUSD students, staff out with positive coronavirus cases as schools open

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-11/lausd-goes-back-to-school-amid-omicron>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL & MELISSA GOMEZ & COLLEEN SHALBY

JAN 11, 2022

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

Times data journalist Iris Lee contributed to this story.

Chicago teachers accept COVID-19 safety deal, keeping kids in school

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-01-12/chicago-teachers-accept-covid-19-safety-deal-keeping-kids-in-school>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAN 12, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Sophia Tareen & Kathleen Foody contributed to this report.

Children's low COVID vaccination rates called a 'gut punch'

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-01-12/children-low-covid-19-vaccination-rates>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAN 12, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

AP writers Lindsey Tanner & Rebecca Santana in New Orleans & Adriana Gomez Licon in Miami contributed to this report.

Omicron surge anxiety, absences and confusion mark first day new LAUSD semester

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-12/omicron-surge-anxiety-absences-and-morning-confusion-mark-first-day-new-laUSD-semester>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL & COLLEEN SHALBY & MELISSA GOMEZ

JAN 12, 2022

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

California was supposed to clear cannabis convictions. Tens of thousands are still languishing

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-13/california-was-supposed-to-clear-weed-convictions-tens-of-thousands-are-still-languishing>

KIERA FELDMAN

JAN. 13, 2022

Kiera Feldman joined the Los Angeles Times as an investigative reporter in 2019. She came from ProPublica, where her reporting on New York City's private trash industry exposed labor abuses and corruption, leading to a federal investigation and new city laws. She won a Gerald Loeb Award in 2021 for articles on toxic fumes on planes and a Livingston Award in 2015 for an investigation of college sexual assault mishandling. A longtime magazine journalist, before coming to The Times she reported for Harper's, New Republic and elsewhere.

Anxious. Helpless. Upset. Omicron surge leaves U.S. parents, teachers and students on edge

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-01-14/la-na-schools-covid-surge>

KURTIS LEE & JENNY JARVIE
JAN 14, 2022

Kurtis Lee is a national correspondent for the Los Angeles Times. He writes news features, narratives and profiles on an array of topics — race, criminal justice, immigration, income inequality, the 2nd Amendment. He won first place in the 2020 National Headliner Awards for his series of stories about the COVID-19 pandemic on the Navajo Nation. Lee has filed reports from the unrest in Ferguson, Mo., and chronicled Donald Trump's rise to the presidency. Prior to joining The Times in August 2014, Lee worked at the Denver Post where he covered state and national politics. He's also reported from the scenes of destructive wildfires and mass shootings and was a member of the Post staff that won the 2013 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news coverage of the Aurora theater shooting. He's a graduate of Temple University.

Jenny Jarvie is a national reporter for the Los Angeles Times based in Atlanta, where she covers a range of stories on immigration, identity, culture and politics. She has lived in the South for more than 15 years, writing for publications including The Times, the New Republic, Atlantic's CityLab, ArtsATL and the Atlanta Journal-Constitution. Raised in England and Italy, Jarvie studied English literature and philosophy at the University of Glasgow in Scotland and began her journalism career at the Daily Telegraph in London.

Amid high absenteeism, incoming L.A. schools chief says campuses are safe

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-14/130000-laUSD-students-absent-amid-omicron-covid-surge>

MELISSA GOMEZ & HOWARD BLUME
JAN 14, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

About 130,000 LAUSD students are absent from class during first days back

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-14/130000-laUSD-students-absent-amid-omicron-covid-surge>

MELISSA GOMEZ
JAN 14, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Culver City Unified to close next week so all can 'recoup and recover' amid Omicron surge

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-14/culver-city-unified-to-close-for-instruction-covid-coronavirus-surge>

MELISSA GOMEZ

JAN 14, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

A digital divide haunts schools adapting to virus hurdles

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-01-15/a-digital-divide-haunts-schools-adapting-to-virus-hurdles>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAN 15, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Annie Ma contributed to this report.

California schools under intense strain, fighting to stay open during Omicron surge

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-15/california-schools-are-strained-amid-the-omicron-surge>

MELISSA GOMEZ & PALOMA ESQUIVEL

JAN 15, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A

Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

More kids in the hospital with COVID renew fears for medically fragile children

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-16/covid-medically-vulnerable-kids>

EMILY ALPERT REYES

JAN 16, 2022

Emily Alpert Reyes covers City Hall for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported on the census & demographics, tracking how our lives are changing in Los Angeles, California & the country. Before joining The Times, she worked for the pioneering nonprofit news website voiceofsandiego.org, winning national awards for her reporting on education. She has also traveled to Bolivia as a fellow with the International Reporting Project & survived the University of Chicago.

Times staff writer Rong-Gong Lin II contributed to this report.

'Wait for a good time : -) Don't fight!' A guide to help teens persuade parents to let them get vaccinated

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-17/young-people-covid-vaccines>

MARISA GERBER

JAN 17, 2022

Marisa Gerber writes narrative stories about life in Los Angeles and across the Southland for the Los Angeles Times. She previously covered L.A. County's criminal courts for The Times and, before joining the newspaper in 2012, wrote about life on the border for several publications in Arizona. Gerber grew up in Nogales, Ariz., and graduated from the University of Arizona.

Does declining school enrollment spell disaster? That argument doesn't add up

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-01-18/california-declining-school-enrollment-attendance>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JAN 18, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

California to remove Mayan affirmation from ethnic studies after lawsuit argues it's a prayer

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-18/california-to-remove-in-lakech-affirmation-from-ethnic-studies>

KRISTEN TAKETA

JAN 18, 2022

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

L.A. schools see coronavirus rates decline; student attendance improves

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-20/l-a-student-covid-19-infections-amid-omicron-show-decline>

HOWARD BLUME

JAN 20, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

California kids 12 and older could receive COVID-19 vaccine without parent's OK

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-20/california-kids-12-and-older-could-receive-covid-19-vaccine-without-parents-ok>

MELODY GUTIERREZ

JAN 20, 2022

Melody Gutierrez covers state government and politics in Sacramento for the Los Angeles Times. Previously, she covered politics for the San Francisco Chronicle and the state Legislature, education and sports for the Sacramento Bee. Her first reporting job was for the newspaper in her hometown of Twentynine Palms while she was in high school. She graduated from Chico State. With an emphasis on watchdog reporting, she has written award-winning stories on wasteful spending, pension spiking, rape kit backlogs and failures in the foster care system, some of which prompted state audits and legislative changes.

California child-care workers struggle with COVID-19 test kit shortages

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-20/california-child-care-workers-struggle-with-covid-19-test-kit-shortages>

MACKENZIE MAYS

JAN 20, 2022

Mackenzie Mays covers state government and politics in the Los Angeles Times' Sacramento bureau. Previously, she worked as an investigative reporter for Politico, the Fresno Bee and the Charleston Gazette-Mail. In 2019, she received the National Press Club Press Freedom Award for her political watchdog reporting. She is a graduate of West Virginia University and proud Appalachian.

The pandemic pushed more families to home school. Many are sticking with it

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-21/the-pandemic-pushed-more-families-to-homeschool-many-are-sticking-with-it>

LAURA NEWBERRY
JAN 21, 2022

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

LAUSD to require students to wear non-cloth face masks starting Monday

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-22/laUSD-to-require-all-students-to-wear-non-cloth-face-masks-starting-monday>

MATT HAMILTON
JAN 22, 2022

Matt Hamilton is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. He won the 2019 Pulitzer Prize for investigative reporting with colleagues Harriet Ryan and Paul Pringle and was part of the team of reporters that won a Pulitzer Prize for its coverage of the San Bernardino terrorist attack. A graduate of Boston College and the University of Southern California, he joined The Times in 2013.

At California hospitals, many children are coming in with COVID — not for COVID

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-24/childrens-hospital-covid-unit>

BRITTNEY MEJIA
JAN 24, 2022

Brittney Mejia is a general assignment reporter at the Los Angeles Times who focuses on covering the Latino community. She was part of the team of reporters awarded the Pulitzer Prize for its coverage of the 2015 San Bernardino terrorist attack.

Times staff writer Emily Alpert Reyes contributed to this report.

All California schoolchildren must be vaccinated against COVID-19 under new bill

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-24/new-vaccine-legislation-california-schoolchildren-mandate>

MELODY GUTIERREZ & HOWARD BLUME
JAN 24, 2022

Melody Gutierrez covers state government and politics in Sacramento for the Los Angeles Times. Previously, she covered politics for the San Francisco Chronicle and the state Legislature, education and sports for the Sacramento Bee. Her first reporting job was for the newspaper in her hometown of Twentynine Palms while she was in high school. She graduated from Chico State. With an emphasis on watchdog reporting, she has written award-winning stories on wasteful spending, pension spiking, rape kit backlogs and failures in the foster care system, some of which prompted state audits and legislative changes.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Video captures Laguna Hills student shouting racist slurs at Black basketball player

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-25/video-captures-racist-slurs-at-laguna-hills-high-basketball-game>

GREGORY YEE & HAYLEY SMITH & HANNAH FRY

JAN 25, 2022

Gregory Yee is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2021, he spent five years covering criminal justice and breaking news for the Post and Courier in Charleston, S.C. He is a native Southern Californian and graduated from UC Irvine in 2012 with a degree in journalism and Spanish literature.

Hayley Smith covers trending and breaking news for the Los Angeles Times. She previously contributed to The Times' COVID-19 project, "The Pandemic's Toll: Lives Lost in California," in partnership with the Pulitzer Center and USC. Her work has been featured in Oprah Magazine, Vogue, HuffPost and other outlets. Originally from Miami, she holds a master's degree in journalism from the University of Southern California's Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism.

Hannah Fry is the public safety reporter for the Daily Pilot. Before joining the Pilot in August 2013, she had two stints covering Costa Mesa as an intern for the Orange County Register and writing about the restaurant industry for the Fast Food Maven blog. While attending Chapman University, she was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, the Panther. (714) 966-4632

Times columnist Eric Sondheimer contributed to this report.

California plan to require student vaccination sparks intense debate. Here's what we know

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-25/what-we-know-californias-student-covid-vaccine-proposal>

MELODY GUTIERREZ & HOWARD BLUME

JAN 25, 2022

Melody Gutierrez covers state government and politics in Sacramento for the Los Angeles Times. Previously, she covered politics for the San Francisco Chronicle and the state Legislature, education and sports for the Sacramento Bee. Her first reporting job was for the newspaper in her hometown of Twentynine Palms while she was in high school. She graduated from Chico State. With an emphasis on watchdog reporting, she has written award-winning stories on wasteful spending, pension spiking, rape kit backlogs and failures in the foster care system, some of which prompted state audits and legislative changes.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Authorities investigating after man harasses Glendale Unified students for wearing masks

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-25/man-goes-on-anti-mask-tirade-against-glendale-unified-students>

NATHAN SOLIS
JAN 25, 2022

Nathan Solis is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously worked for Courthouse News Service, where he wrote both breaking news and enterprise stories ranging from criminal justice to homelessness and politics. Before that, Solis was at the Redding Record Searchlight as a multimedia journalist, where he anchored coverage of the destructive 2017 fires in Northern California. Earlier in his career, he worked for Eastsider L.A.

Get more kids vaccinated against COVID, yes, but two bills need more work

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-01-26/editorial-problematic-mandatory-covid-vaccines-for-school-and-no-parental-consent>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
JAN 26, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Westside charter school sued over COVID vaccine mandate, part of a growing legal strategy

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-26/los-angeles-charter-school-sued-over-student-covid-19-vaccine-mandate>

HOWARD BLUME
JAN 26, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFF, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Should kids need parental consent for vaccines? Read this before you decide

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-01-26/teen-parents-consent-covid-vaccine>

ROBIN ABCARIAN
JAN 26, 2022

Robin Abcarian is an opinion columnist at the Los Angeles Times. She writes about news, politics and culture. Her columns appear on Wednesday and Sunday.

A 15-month-old dies of COVID-19, becoming L.A. County's youngest coronavirus fatality

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-26/15-month-old-l-a-county-youngest-coronavirus-fatality>

RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY
JAN 26, 2022

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

California is headed for another bruising vaccine fight. Newsom should embrace a school mandate

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-27/skelton-student-vaccine-mandate-legislation>

GEORGE SKELTON
JAN 27, 2022

Political columnist George Skelton has covered government and politics for more than 50 years and for The Times since 1974. He has been a Times political writer and editor in Los Angeles, Sacramento bureau chief and White House correspondent. He has written a column on California politics, "Capitol Journal," since 1993. Skelton is a Santa Barbara native, grew up in Ojai and received a journalism degree at San Jose State.

As student activists fight for COVID safety measures at schools, some face criticism

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-27/students-are-organizing-for-increased-safety-measures>

MELISSA GOMEZ
JAN 27, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Racism in O.C. schools is nothing new — but it's surprisingly diverse

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-01-27/racism-orange-county-high-schools>

GUSTAVO ARELLANO
JAN 27, 2022

Gustavo Arellano is a features writer for the Los Angeles Times, covering Southern California everything and a bunch of the West and beyond. He previously worked at OC Weekly, where he was an investigative reporter for 15 years and editor for six, wrote a column called iAsk a Mexican! and is the author of "Taco USA: How Mexican Food Conquered America." He's the child of two Mexican immigrants, one whom came to this country in the trunk of a Chevy.

When parents are vaccinated against COVID-19, protection extends to their kids

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2022-01-28/vaccinated-parents-extend-covid-19-protection-to-their-kids>

MELISSA HEALY
JAN 28, 2022

Melissa Healy is a health and science reporter with the Los Angeles Times writing from the Washington, D.C., area. She covers prescription drugs, obesity, nutrition and exercise, and neuroscience, mental health and human behavior. She's been at The Times for more than 30 years, and has covered national security, environment, domestic social policy, Congress and the White House. As a baby boomer, she keenly follows trends in midlife weight gain, memory loss and the health benefits of red wine.

Removing Indigenous concepts from ethnic studies sends a terrible message to California's students

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-01-28/op-ed-removing-indigenous-concepts-ethnic-studies-california>

SEAN ARCE & THERESA MONTANO & GUADALUPE CARDONA
JAN 28, 2022

Sean Arce is an ethnic studies high school teacher in Los Angeles, the co-founder of Tucson's Mexican American/Raza Studies Department and a plaintiff in the 9th Circuit case Arce vs. Douglas.

Theresa Montaño is a professor of Chicana/o studies and a practitioner and activist in ethnic studies.

Guadalupe Cardona is a secondary educator in the LAUSD. Guadalupe Carrasco Cardona has been an Ethnic Studies, English, Social Studies and Journalism educator for 21 years and has taught in three states; California, Arizona and Texas. Her current position is Intervention Coordinator at Roybal Learning Center in downtown Los Angeles. She is also an adjunct lecturer in Chicanx/Latinx/Ethnic Studies at California State University at Long Beach. She is dedicated to developing critical curriculum and facilitating a student-centered classroom environment based on mutual respect, critical thinking, and collaboration. She accomplishes this by fusing her classroom instruction with community cultural knowledge and a focus on auto-biographical counter narrative.

Guadalupe is the chair of the Association of Raza Educators (Los Angeles chapter), co-founder of XOCHITL Los Angeles, a member of LAUSD's Ethnic Studies Curriculum Committee, a member of Ethnic Studies Now Coalition's Coordinating Committee, California Teachers Association and Stanford University's Instructional Leadership Corps, the co-chair of the 50th Chicano Moratorium Commemoration Committee, and a founding member of the Liberated Ethnic Studies Model Curriculum Coalition. She is a proud member of the socialist political organization, Union del Barrio.

Economic segregation in schools has worsened, widening achievement gaps, study says

HOWARD BLUME

FEB 1, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

California school officials could mandate searches of backpacks, lockers under shooting threat

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-02/school-shootings-guns-california-legislation>

HANNAH WILEY

FEB 2, 2022

Hannah Wiley is a politics reporter for the Los Angeles Times' Sacramento bureau covering the California Capitol and state agencies. Previously, she was a legislative reporter for the Sacramento Bee for three years, where she reported on housing legislation, new vaccine rules, the COVID-19 pandemic, education policy and homelessness. Wiley graduated from St. Louis University and earned a master's degree in investigative reporting from Northwestern University. She is from Kankakee, Ill.

School coronavirus cases down 70% in L.A. County since start of spring term

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-03/los-angeles-county-school-coronavirus-cases-decline>

HOWARD BLUME

FEB 3, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

After years of cuts, California could provide school buses for all kids

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-03/california-students-more-school-buses-legislation>

MACKENZIE MAYS

FEB 3, 2022

Mackenzie Mays covers state government and politics in the Los Angeles Times' Sacramento bureau. Previously, she worked as an investigative reporter for Politico, the Fresno Bee and the Charleston Gazette-Mail. In 2019, she received the National Press Club Press Freedom Award for her political watchdog reporting. She is a graduate of West Virginia University and proud Appalachian.

Biden administration updates school lunch rules to help ease pandemic disruptions

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-02-04/biden-administration-updates-school-lunch-rules-to-help-ease-pandemic-disruptions>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

FEB 4, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Carolyn Thompson contributed to this report.

California bill would boost schools' access to student COVID-19 vaccine data

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-04/california-schools-could-check-student-vaccination-records-legislation>

HANNAH WILEY & MELODY GUTIERREZ

FEB 4, 2022

Hannah Wiley is a politics reporter for the Los Angeles Times' Sacramento bureau covering the California Capitol and state agencies. Previously, she was a legislative reporter for the Sacramento Bee for three years, where she reported on housing legislation, new vaccine rules, the COVID-19 pandemic, education policy and homelessness. Wiley graduated from St. Louis University and earned a master's degree in investigative reporting from Northwestern University. She is from Kankakee, Ill.

Melody Gutierrez covers state government and politics in Sacramento for the Los Angeles Times. Previously, she covered politics for the San Francisco Chronicle and the state Legislature, education and sports for the Sacramento Bee. Her first reporting job was for the newspaper in her hometown of Twentynine Palms while she was in high school. She graduated from Chico State. With an emphasis on watchdog reporting, she has written award-winning stories on wasteful spending, pension spiking, rape kit backlogs and failures in the foster care system, some of which prompted state audits and legislative changes.

Private schools have turned away L.A. County health inspectors checking on COVID-19 rules

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-05/private-schools-turn-away-la-county-covid-19-health-inspectors>

EMILY ALPERT REYES

FEB 5, 2022

Emily Alpert Reyes covers City Hall for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported on the census & demographics, tracking how our lives are changing in Los Angeles, California & the country. Before joining The Times, she worked for the pioneering nonprofit news website voiceofsandiego.org, winning national awards for her reporting on education. She has also traveled to Bolivia as a fellow with the International Reporting Project & survived the University of Chicago.

‘I don’t have a life’: Parents struggle to get home nurses for medically fragile kids

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-07/home-health-nurses>

EMILY ALPERT REYES
FEB 7, 2022

Emily Alpert Reyes covers City Hall for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported on the census & demographics, tracking how our lives are changing in Los Angeles, California & the country. Before joining The Times, she worked for the pioneering nonprofit news website voiceofsandiego.org, winning national awards for her reporting on education. She has also traveled to Bolivia as a fellow with the International Reporting Project & survived the University of Chicago.

Governors in four states plan an end to school mask mandates

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-02-08/governors-four-states-plan-end-school-mask-mandates>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

FEB 8, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world’s stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world’s biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we’ve raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Mike Catalini contributed to this report.

As mask mandates ease, should California schools be next?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-08/as-california-mask-mandates-lifts-should-schools-be-next>

HOWARD BLUME
FEB 8, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

LAUSD is prepping for thousands of unvaccinated students by ramping up online school

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-09/laUSD-may-expand-online-schools-for-unvaccinated-students>

MELISSA GOMEZ

FEB 9, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Times staff writer Howard Blume contributed to this report.

Want to know the wrong way to close schools? Just look to Oakland

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-02-10/editorial-want-to-know-the-wrong-way-to-close-schools-just-follow-oakland>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

Feb 10, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

New threat to COVID-era education: Black and Latino teachers are leaving the profession

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-10/black-and-latino-teachers-california-leaving-profession-in-high-numbers>

HEIDI DE MARCO
KAISER HEALTH NEWS

FEB 10, 2022

Heidi de Marco is a multimedia reporter for Kaiser Health News where she produces stories for media outlets nationwide. Her work has appeared in USA Today, CNN, NPR, The Washington Post and PBS, among others. She was previously a freelance video journalist and photographer specializing in work abroad. KHN (Kaiser Health News) produces in-depth journalism about health issues, one of the three major operating programs at KFF (Kaiser Family Foundation).

The Times' Howard Blume contributed to this story.

New L.A. Unified Supt. Carvalho previews elements of an ambitious 100-day plan

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-10/new-l-a-unified-supt-carvalho-previews-ambitious-100-day-plan>

HOWARD BLUME
FEB 10, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Vaccine for kids under 5 is delayed after FDA review stalls

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2022-02-11/fda-postpones-meeting-on-pfizer-vaccine-for-kids-under-5>

JOHN LAUERMAN
FEB 11, 2022

John Lauerman is a Reporter-at-Large at Bloomberg News. He's based in Boston, Massachusetts. Bloomberg News reporter on health, science, hospitals, genome crash-test dummy. "My thesis is intact" and opinions are my own.

Oakland hunger strike is a harbinger of looming California school funding crisis

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-12/california-schools-oakland-hunger-strike-funding-crisis>

ANITA CHABRIA
FEB 12, 2022

Anita Chabria covers California state politics and policy for the Los Angeles Times and is based in Sacramento. Before joining The Times, she worked for the Sacramento Bee as a member of its statewide investigative team, and previously covered criminal justice and City Hall.

GOP pushes U.S. schools to post all class materials online

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-02-12/gop-pushes-us-schools-to-post-all-class-materials-online>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Julie Carr Smyth & Casey Smith contributed to this report.

America's approach to early childhood education is completely unsustainable

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-02-12/early-education-childcare-workers-wages-too-low>

REBECCA E. GOMEZ

FEB 12, 2022

Rebecca E. Gomez, EdD, is a Program Officer, Education at Heising-Simons Foundation Action Fund. Interests include: early childhood system development, state-level and international approaches to governance of early childhood systems, professional development sub-systems and teacher training, institutional theory and complex adaptive systems theory as tools for conducting social analysis, and issues of quality and equity in early childhood. She holds the Rauch Postdoctoral Fellowship at the National Center for Children and Families (NCCF), Teachers College, Columbia University. Her research interests include exploring the impact of state-level governance on early childhood systems, the impact of professional development systems on improving workforce quality and stability, and multilevel governance approaches in early childhood. Some of the studies in which Gomez has participated include analyses on the effect of governance on state-level systems-building for a number of U.S. states, on the availability and quality of services for young children and their families on Long Island, on states' early learning standards, and on the impact of professional development systems on improving teacher qualifications across a number of countries. Before joining NCCF, Gomez worked for a variety of state and national early childhood organizations, including the Pennsylvania Early Learning Keys to Quality program, NACCRRA, and the State of New Hampshire's Child Development Bureau. She has also held adjunct faculty positions in the Early Childhood departments at West Chester University and Granite State College. She earned her MEd in Early Childhood from the University of New Hampshire in 2004, and her BA in American Studies from Rutgers University in 2001. She was named a Children's Defense Fund Emerging Leader in 2004 and a NACCRRA Emerging Leader in 2005. She is a former member of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania's Early Learning Council and the NAEYC Governing Board.

California school mask mandate will remain in place through Feb. 28

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-14/california-school-mask-mandate-will-remain-in-place-through-feb-28>

LUKE MONEY

FEB 14, 2022

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

UC Berkeley may be forced by court to cut 3,000 undergraduate seats, freeze enrollment

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-14/uc-berkeley-may-be-forced-to-cut-3-000-freshman-seats-under-court-order-to-halt-growth>

TERESA WATANABE

FEB 14, 2022

Teresa Watanabe covers education for the Los Angeles Times. Since joining the Times in 1989, she has covered immigration, ethnic communities, religion, Pacific Rim business and served as Tokyo correspondent and bureau chief. She also covered Asia, national affairs and state government for the San Jose Mercury News and wrote editorials for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. A Seattle native, she graduated from USC in journalism and in East Asian Languages and Culture.

Schools are doing fine with masks. Dropping mandates now would be premature

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-02-15/editorial-schools-are-doing-fine-with-masks-dropping-mandates-now-is-premature>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

FEB 15, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Supt. Alberto Carvalho won high marks in Miami, but can he move L.A. Unified forward?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-15/lausd-supt-alberto-carvalho-starts-job-after-years-in-miami>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL & HOWARD BLUME

FEB 15, 2022

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Melissa Gomez contributed to this report.

How NIMBY abuse of a California law could keep thousands of kids out of UC Berkeley

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-16/column-who-wins-from-californias-main-environmental-law-too-often-the-rich-and-litigious>

ANITA CHABRIA

FEB 16, 2022

Anita Chabria covers California state politics and policy for the Los Angeles Times and is based in Sacramento. Before joining The Times, she worked for the Sacramento Bee as a member of its statewide investigative team, and previously covered criminal justice and City Hall.

U.K. to offer COVID vaccine to children ages 5 to 11

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-02-16/u-k-to-offer-covid-vaccine-to-children-ages-5-to-11>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

FEB 16, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Sylvia Hui contributed to this report.

LAUSD to keep outdoor mask mandate in place this week, but changes may be ahead

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-16/laUSD-to-keep-outdoor-mask-mandate-in-place-this-week-but-changes-may-be-ahead>

HOWARD BLUME & LUKE MONEY

FEB 16, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

San Francisco school board members ignored parents and students. So they were ousted

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2021-09-26/editorial-recall-fever-reaches>

LAUREL ROSENHALL

FEB 16, 2022

Laurel Rosenhall is an editorial writer focused on California politics, policy and power. She is based in the Los Angeles Times Sacramento Bureau. Before joining The Times in November 2021, Rosenhall covered state politics for CalMatters and the Sacramento Bee.

A lifelong Californian, she grew up in San Francisco and graduated from the UC Berkeley Graduate School of Journalism.

From liberal San Francisco, school board recall is a three-alarm warning for Democrats

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/story/2022-02-16/san-francisco-school-board-recall-democrats>

MARK Z. BARABAK
FEB 16, 2022

Mark Z. Barabak is a columnist for the Los Angeles Times, focusing on politics in California and the West. A reporter for nearly 45 years, Barabak has covered campaigns and elections in 49 of the 50 states, including 11 presidential campaigns and scores of mayoral, gubernatorial, congressional and U.S. Senate contests. He also reported from the White House and Capitol Hill during the George H.W. Bush and Clinton administrations.

Supt. Carvalho confronts his first big decision: Should LAUSD relax mask requirements?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-17/supt-carvalho-confronts-his-first-big-decision-should-laUSD-relax-mask-requirements>

HOWARD BLUME & LUKE MONEY
FEB 17, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

LAUSD shows its best to new Supt. Alberto Carvalho, who pledges to deliver more of it

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-17/laUSD-supt-carvalho-promises-excellence-in-dash-across-laUSD>

HOWARD BLUME
FEB 17, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Melissa Gomez contributed to this report.

San Francisco is usually seen as a lefty outlier. The school board recalls may make it a bellwether

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/story/2022-02-17/san-francisco-recall-democrats>

SEEMA MEHTA & MELANIE MASON & MELISSA GOMEZ

FEB 17, 2022

Seema Mehta is a political writer for the Los Angeles Times who covered the 2020 presidential campaign. She was a Knight-Wallace fellow at the University of Michigan for the 2018-19 academic year studying automation and AI and their impacts on voters in the Midwest. She previously covered the 2016, 2012 and 2008 presidential campaigns, as well as multiple gubernatorial, Senate and mayoral races. A graduate of Syracuse University, the East Coast native swore when she joined The Times in 1998 that she would only spend a few years on the Left Coast. Many years, a husband, a house and a few cats later, she can't imagine living somewhere she couldn't golf year-round.

Melanie Mason is a national political correspondent for the Los Angeles Times, based in Los Angeles. She first began working for The Times in 2011 in Washington, D.C., covering money and politics. She then moved to the Sacramento bureau, where she wrote about state government, politics and the 2018 governor's race and did award-winning coverage of sexual harassment in California politics. She has also covered three presidential races. She is originally from Los Angeles and is a graduate of Georgetown University and the UC Berkeley Graduate School of Journalism.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

L.A. Unified to drop outdoor mask requirement next week

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-18/l-a-unified-to-drop-outdoor-mask-requirement-next-week>

HOWARD BLUME

FEB 18, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Newsom urges state high court to avert looming cut of 3,050 students at UC Berkeley

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-18/governor-newsom-urges-california-supreme-court-student-admission>

TERESA WATANABE

FEB 18, 2022

Teresa Watanabe covers education for the Los Angeles Times. Since joining the Times in 1989, she has covered immigration, ethnic communities, religion, Pacific Rim business and served as Tokyo correspondent and bureau chief. She also covered Asia, national affairs and state government for the San Jose Mercury News and wrote editorials for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. A Seattle native, she graduated from USC in journalism and in East Asian languages and culture.

Some school systems pause diversity programs amid pushback

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-02-20/some-school-systems-pause-diversity-programs-amid-pushback>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

FEB 20, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Carolyn Thompson & Heather Hollingsworth contributed to this report.

The hunger strike against school closures is also about everything else that ails Oakland

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-02-20/oakland-teacher-hunger-strike-school-closure-consolidation-environmental-justice>

RUPA MARYA

FEB 20, 2022

Rupa Marya is a physician, activist, artist and writer who is an Associate Professor of Medicine at the University of California, San Francisco and the founder and executive director of the Deep Medicine Circle, a worker-directed nonprofit committed to healing the wounds of colonialism through food, medicine, story, learning and restoration. In 2021, she published her first book with political ecologist, food system activist and policy professor Raj Patel, Inflamed: Deep Medicine and the Anatomy of Injustice. This book advances a new level of diagnosis that incorporates history and lines of power into our understanding of the root causes of health disparities and the rise of inflammatory disease in industrialized places, offering compelling treatment options for what is ailing people and the planet.

Proposed bill would exempt UC, Cal State from environmental review for new student housing

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-22/college-campuses-could-forgo-environmental-review-seen-at-berkeley-under-new-bill>

COLLEEN SHALBY

FEB 22, 2022

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

L.A. school district lifts outdoor mask mandate for students and staff

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-22/l-a-schools-lifts-outdoor-mask-mandate-for-students-staff>

JAIMIE DING
FEB 22, 2022

Jaimie Ding is a reporter at the Los Angeles Times. Before joining The Times, she wrote for the Oregonian, the Sacramento Bee, the Associated Press and Claremont Colleges newspaper, the Student Life. Ding was raised in the Portland, Ore., area and graduated from Scripps College with a degree in politics. Outside of journalism, she's also passionate about good food and live music. She is a member of the 2021-22 Los Angeles Times Fellowship class.

UC Berkeley drama: The students who are at risk amid enrollment controversy

<https://www.latimes.com/california/newsletter/2022-02-22/uc-berkeley-enrollment-controversy-essential-california>

JUSTIN RAY
FEB 22, 2022

Justin Ray is a Metro reporter who writes the Essential California newsletter. He joined in 2020 from Columbia Journalism Review, where he grew the magazine's digital audience as a digital media editor. Previously, he served as a web editor for NBC New York and NBC Chicago. He's originally from Cincinnati.

California voters strongly support mask and vaccine mandates in K-12 schools

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-24/california-voters-strongly-support-mask-and-vaccine-mandates-in-k-12-schools>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL
FEB 24, 2022

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Confidence in California public schools declines sharply; a third give L.A. a D or F

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-25/confidence-in-california-public-schools-declines-sharply-amid-covid>

HOWARD BLUME
FEB 25, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

LAUSD superintendent's 100-day plan focuses on academic recovery, new COVID measures

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-25/l-a-unified-supt-alberto-carvalho-100-day-plan>

MELISSA GOMEZ & HOWARD BLUME

FEB 25, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. County will align with state to end school mask mandate after March 11

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-28/l-a-county-aligns-with-california-to-end-school-mask-mandate>

HOWARD BLUME

FEB 28, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Rong-Gong Lin II contributed to this report.

California to lift school mask mandate after March 11

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-28/california-to-lift-school-mask-mandate-after-march-11>

LUKE MONEY & RONG-GONG LIN II & HOWARD BLUME

FEB 28, 2022

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer John Myers contributed to this report.

Why flush California still takes child support from low-income families

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-02-28/some-california-families-have-to-pay-back-government-aid-rules-could-change>

MACKENZIE MAYS

FEB 28, 2022

Mackenzie Mays covers state government and politics in the Los Angeles Times' Sacramento bureau. Previously, she worked as an investigative reporter for Politico, the Fresno Bee and the Charleston Gazette-Mail. In 2019, she received the National Press Club Press Freedom Award for her political watchdog reporting. She is a graduate of West Virginia University and proud Appalachian.

The blockade of Build Back Better means millions more children condemned to poverty

<https://www.latimes.com/business/story/2022-03-03/covid-child-poverty>

MICHAEL HILTZIK

MAR 3, 2022

Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Michael Hiltzik writes a daily blog appearing on latimes.com. His business column appears in print every Sunday, and occasionally on other days. As a member of the Los Angeles Times staff, he has been a financial and technology writer and a foreign correspondent. He is the author of six books, including "Dealers of Lightning: Xerox PARC and the Dawn of the Computer Age" and "The New Deal: A Modern History." Hiltzik and colleague Chuck Philips shared the 1999 Pulitzer Prize for articles exposing corruption in the entertainment industry.

Teachers help students navigate misinformation, emotions, history of war in Ukraine

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-07/ukraine-russia-misinformation-classroom-lessons>

MELISSA GOMEZ

MAR 7, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Some L.A. schools face uncertain futures as student enrollment declines dramatically

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-08/los-angeles-laUSD-schools-student-enrollment-declines>

MELISSA GOMEZ

MAR 8, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Is it too risky for kids to go maskless at school and daycare? What experts say

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-08/everything-you-need-to-know-about-kids-masks-and-vaccines>

RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY

MAR 8, 2022

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

It's 'Alarming': Children Are Severely Behind in Reading

<https://www.nytimes.com/2022/03/08/us/pandemic-schools-reading-crisis.html>

DANA GOLDSTEIN

MAR 8, 2022

Dana Goldstein is a national correspondent for The New York Times, writing about how education policies impact families, students and teachers across the country. She is the author of the bestselling "The Teacher Wars: A History of America's Most Embattled Profession," and a two-time finalist for The Livingston Award.

Since joining The Times in 2017, she has covered the teacher walkout movement, changes in how students are selected for gifted programs and debates over school segregation, writing instruction, pre-K teaching methods and private school vouchers.

Previously, she was a reporter for The Marshall Project, covering criminal justice, and a contributor to Slate and The Atlantic. She began her journalism career as a writer and editor at The American Prospect, where she covered the 2008 presidential campaign. She lives in New York.

A wealth of cash in L.A. Unified but for how long?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-09/a-wealth-of-cash-in-l-a-unified-but-for-how-long>

HOWARD BLUME
MAR 9, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. Unified says it's working toward ending indoor mask mandate at schools

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-11/lausd-working-toward-ending-indoor-mask-mandate-at-schools>

GREGORY YEE
MAR 11, 2022

Gregory Yee is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2021, he spent five years covering criminal justice and breaking news for the Post and Courier in Charleston, S.C. He is a native Southern Californian and graduated from UC Irvine in 2012 with a degree in journalism and Spanish literature.

Gov. Newsom signs law to stop UC Berkeley enrollment cuts

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-14/california-legislature-passes-bill-berkeley-enrollment>

COLLEEN SHALBY
MAR 14, 2022

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

California must stop taking away child support from kids and families

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-14/skelton-child-support-calworks-california>

GEORGE SKELTON
MAR 14, 2022

Political columnist George Skelton has covered government and politics for more than 50 years and for The Times since 1974. He has been a Times political writer and editor in Los Angeles, Sacramento bureau chief and White House correspondent. He has written a column on California politics, "Capitol Journal," since 1993. Skelton is a Santa Barbara native, grew up in Ojai and received a journalism degree at San Jose State.

For kids with COVID-19, everyday life can be a struggle

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-03-15/for-kids-with-covid-19-everyday-life-can-be-a-struggle>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MAR 15, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Colleen Long & Carolyn Kaster contributed to this report.

AP Medical Writer Lauran Neergaard contributed to this report.

California bill would let parents sue social media companies for addicting kids

<https://www.latimes.com/business/technology/story/2022-03-16/california-bill-would-let-parents-sue-social-media-companies-for-addicting-kids>

BRIAN CONTRERAS

MAR 16, 2022

Brian Contreras is a technology reporter with the Los Angeles Times. He covers platforms, e-commerce and the influencer economy. He started with The Times in 2020 as an intern for the Washington bureau before later transitioning to the Business desk. He has previously written for the Seattle Times, San Antonio Express-News, Chautauquan Daily and Stanford Daily.

It's OK for L.A. Unified schools to go mask-optional

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-03-17/editorial-laUSD-schools-voluntary-masks-covid>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

MAR 17, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

In union poll, 58% of L.A. Unified teachers want to keep mandatory masking

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-17/in-union-poll-58-of-l-a-unified-teachers-want-to-keep-mandatory-masking>

HOWARD BLUME

MAR 17, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. school board election field is set, includes pivotal race to replace Monica Garcia

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-17/los-angeles-school-board-race-candidates-finalized>

HOWARD BLUME

MAR 17, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. Unified to lift indoor mask mandate next week in agreement with teachers union

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-18/l-a-unified-teachers-union-reach-deal-to-make-indoor-masking-optional-on-campus>

HOWARD BLUME

MAR 18, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Understaffing leaves after-school programs with unmet demand

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-03-19/understaffing-leaves-after-school-programs-with-unmet-demand>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MAR 19, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands.

For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Carolyn Thompson contributed to this report.

A teacher, a soldier, a tireless champion for children in Watts

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-19/michael-wainwright-children-watts-education>

SANDY BANKS
MAR 19, 2022

During more than three decades at the Los Angeles Times, Sandy Banks has served as reporter, editor, editorial writer and internship director. But she's best known for her twice-weekly personal columns, which focused on private lives, public policy and people who inspire and infuriate us. Banks, a native of Cleveland, has three grown daughters, lives in Northridge and loves anything that gets and keeps her outdoors. She left The Times in 2015. She has returned to The Times in 2019 after a four-year hiatus. A Cleveland native, Banks has three grown daughters and lives in Northridge.

73% of voters in L.A. Unified do not believe every neighborhood has a good school, poll says

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-22/most-lauid-voters-concerned-about-to-neighborhood-schools>

HOWARD BLUME
MAR 22, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Moderna says its low-dose COVID-19 shot works for children under 6

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-03-23/moderna-low-dose-covid-shot-kids-under-6>

ASSOCIATED PRESS
MAR 23, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Lauran Neergaard contributed to this report.

All LAUSD first-graders now have a college savings account. Will families use them?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-23/all-laUSD-first-graders-now-have-a-college-savings-account-will-families-use-them>

CHRISTIAN MARTINEZ
MAR 23, 2022

Christian Martinez is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously wrote for the USA Today network of newspapers including the Ventura County Star, where he covered the Thomas and Woolsey wildfires and the Borderline mass shooting, the Spectrum & Daily News in Utah and the Lansing State Journal in Michigan. He was born and raised in Southern California and attended Saint Mary's College of California.

Masks can now come off inside L.A. Unified classrooms

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-23/school-mask-mandate-lifted-in-laUSD>

HOWARD BLUME
MAR 23, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

In L.A. Unified, some masks come off; others keep wearing them.

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-23/school-mask-mandate-lifted-in-laUSD>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ
MAR 23, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Times staff writer Paloma Esquivel contributed to this report.

L.A.'s asphalt-covered schoolyards are an environmental injustice

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-03-27/green-schoolyards-laUSD-environmental-injustice>

TONY BARBOZA
MAR 27, 2022

Tony Barboza is an editorial writer focusing on climate change and environmental justice. Before joining the editorial board in November 2021, he worked for 15 years as a news reporter for the Times' California section, covering air quality, climate change, environmental health and other topics. Barboza was born and raised in Colorado and is a graduate of Pomona College.

Only 30% of L.A. County kids are vaccinated, months after COVID shots became available

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-28/kids-covid-19-vaccination-rates-la-county>

EMILY ALPERT REYES & PHI DO
MAR 28, 2022

Emily Alpert Reyes covers City Hall for the Los Angeles Times. She previously reported on the census & demographics, tracking how our lives are changing in Los Angeles, California & the country. Before joining The Times, she worked for the pioneering nonprofit news website voiceofsandiego.org, winning national awards for her reporting on education. She has also traveled to Bolivia as a fellow with the International Reporting Project & survived the University of Chicago.

Phi Do is a data journalist for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining The Times in 2018, she helped develop databases for Voice of OC and wrote for the Santa Barbara Independent and the Hollywood Reporter. She graduated from UC Santa Barbara where she created a new data journalism section at the student newspaper, the Daily Nexus. When not reporting, she spends her time making films and playing D&D. Tips can be sent to Signal: (213) 267-3953.

Times staff writer Rong-Gong Lin II contributed to this report.

U.S. Education secretary calls for teacher shortage solutions, more mental health services

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-29/u-s-education-secretary-calls-for-teacher-shortage-solutions-student-mental-health-supports-at-san-diego-conference>

KRISTEN TAKETA
MAR 29, 2022

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

Tutoring, a key learning recovery strategy, reaches fewer than 1 in 10 L.A. students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-30/l-a-unified-struggles-to-reach-students-with-tutoring-in-pandemic-recovery-efforts>

HOWARD BLUME

Mar 30, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Parents say their kids haven't been the same since COVID. U.S. Education secretary listening

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-31/parents-say-children-havent-been-the-same-since-pandemic-education-secretary-listening>

HOWARD BLUME & KRISTEN TAKETA

MAR 31, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Kristen Taketa covers K-12 education for The San Diego Union-Tribune. She joined the U-T in 2018 after covering education for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Taketa is a Torrance native and graduated from UCLA.

Nearly half of LAUSD students have been chronically absent this year, data show

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-03-31/lausd-students-chronic-absent-amid-covid-pandemic>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL

MAR 31, 2022

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Sacramento teachers' strike ends, and schools reopen with tentative deal to increase salaries

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-04/sacramento-schools-to-reopen-end-of-strike>

MELISSA GOMEZ

APR 4, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Surgeon general discusses mental health with Southern California high school students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-05/surgeon-general-mental-health-southern-california-students>

GARY WARTH

APR 5, 2022

Gary Warth has covered a variety of beats since 1989 and now covers public safety and homeless issues at The San Diego Union-Tribune. A San Diego resident since the 1970s, he earned a journalism degree from San Diego State University and has won numerous awards for his work.

Board votes to ban critical race theory in Placentia-Yorba Linda school district

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-06/critical-race-theory-banned-by-an-orange-county-school-board>

MELISSA GOMEZ

APR 6, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

L.A. Unified fails to get kids the tutoring they need

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-04-07/editorial-lausd-failing-tutoring>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

APR 7, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

L.A. Unified student leaders inspired by Ketanji Brown Jackson's historic confirmation

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-08/ketanji-brown-jackson-supreme-court-confirmation-lausd-discussion>

JAIMIE DING
APR 8, 2022

Jaimie Ding is a reporter at the Los Angeles Times. Before joining The Times, she wrote for the Oregonian, the Sacramento Bee, the Associated Press and Claremont Colleges newspaper, the Student Life. Ding was raised in the Portland, Ore., area and graduated from Scripps College with a degree in politics. Outside of journalism, she's also passionate about good food and live music. She is a member of the 2021-22 Los Angeles Times Fellowship class.

School coronavirus outbreaks rise in L.A. County after mask orders are lifted

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-08/school-coronavirus-outbreaks-rise-in-l-a-county-after-mask-orders-lift>

RONG-GONG LIN II
APR 8, 2022

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Hey, L.A. mayoral candidates, start talking about the schools

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-04-10/editorial-los-angeles-mayor-candidates-schools-laUSD>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
APR 10, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

How shuttering schools can speed up gentrification

<https://www.latimes.com/california/newsletter/2022-04-11/how-shuttering-schools-can-speed-up-gentrification-8-to-3>

LAURA NEWBERRY
APR 11, 2022

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

California public school enrollment spirals, dropping by 110,000 students this year

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-11/california-school-enrollment-drops-by-more-110-000-students>

MELISSA GOMEZ
APR 11, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Amid youth mental health crisis, influential panel raises doubts on suicide screening

<https://www.latimes.com/science/story/2022-04-12/influential-panel-raises-doubts-on-youth-suicide-screening>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

APR 12, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Lindsey Tanner contributed to this report.

Essential California: What the state's shrinking public schools mean for students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/newsletter/2022-04-12/essential-california-what-the-states-shrinking-public-schools-mean-for-students-essential-california>

DEBORAH NETBURN
APR 12, 2022

Deborah Netburn is a features writer at the Los Angeles Times. Endlessly curious, she's covered a wide variety of topics since starting at the paper in 2006, including entertainment, home and garden, national news, technology and science. She's hung out with Tibetan monks in the Pacific Palisades, seen seahorses at the bottom of Alamitos Bay and spent time with the working witches of Los Angeles. She is always looking for a good story.

California school salaries should be easier for the public to see

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-04/sacramento-schools-to-reopen-end-of-strike>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

APR 12, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

California pauses plans to require COVID-19 vaccinations for schoolchildren

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-14/california-lawmaker-scraps-plan-to-require-covid-19-vaccinations-for-school-children>

MELODY GUTIERREZ & MELISSA GOMEZ
APR 14, 2022

Melody Gutierrez covers state government and politics in Sacramento for the Los Angeles Times. Previously, she covered politics for the San Francisco Chronicle and the state Legislature, education and sports for the Sacramento Bee. Her first reporting job was for the newspaper in her hometown of Twentynine Palms while she was in high school. She graduated from Chico State. With an emphasis on watchdog reporting, she has written award-winning stories on wasteful spending, pension spiking, rape kit backlogs and failures in the foster care system, some of which prompted state audits and legislative changes.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

The push to get children vaccinated is stalling. It poses new COVID-19 dangers

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-15/reasons-why-children-should-get-vaccinated-against-covid-19>

RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY
APR 15, 2022

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

L.A. Unified's fall 2022 vaccine mandate in question as state delays its requirement

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-15/lausd-covid-vaccine-mandate-students-fall-2022>

MELISSA GOMEZ

APR 15, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Declining enrollment shouldn't always mean shutting down schools

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-04-15/editorial-declining-enrollment-doesnt-always-need-to-mean-closing-schools>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

APR 15, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Homeschooling surge continues despite schools reopening

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-04-18/homeschooling-surge-continues-despite-schools-reopening>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

APR 18, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Carolyn Thompson contributed to this report.

100 homeless L.A. community college students to get shelter, food and Wi-Fi

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-19/100-homeless-l-a-community-college-students-to-get-help>

COLLEEN SHALBY

APR 19, 2022

Colleen Shalby is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked at PBS NewsHour in Washington, D.C. She's a graduate of George Washington University and a native of Southern California.

LAUSD teacher shortage hits underserved schools hardest, prompting Carvalho to move staff

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-20/lausd-teacher-shortage-proposal>

MELISSA GOMEZ

APR 20, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Supreme Court OKs 'race neutral' admissions policy to admit more Black, Latino students

<https://www.latimes.com/politics/story/2022-04-25/supreme-court-oks-race-neutral-admissions-policy-to-increase-black-latino-students>

DAVID G. SAVAGE

APR 25, 2022

David G. Savage has covered the Supreme Court and legal issues for the Los Angeles Times in the Washington bureau since 1986. He has covered the Senate confirmation hearings for all of the current justices. In addition to writing about the court's work, he has written on the legal battles that have raged in Washington. He joined The Times in 1981 and was an education writer on the Metro staff for five years. He has degrees from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Northwestern University.

Four days added to the next L.A. school year despite complaints it's a waste of money

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-26/l-a-adds-days-to-next-school-year-for-pandemic-recovery>

MELISSA GOMEZ

APR 26, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

More kids were hit by upper airway infections during COVID Omicron surge, studies show

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-27/more-kids-hit-by-upper-airway-infections-during-omicron-surge>

RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY

APR 27, 2022

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Moderna asks regulators to OK its COVID-19 shot for children under 6

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-04-28/moderna-emergency-authorization-covid-vaccine-youngest-kids>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

APR 28, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Lauran Neergaard contributed to this report

L.A. schools chief pushes to delay student COVID vaccination mandate

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-28/l-a-schools-chief-seeks-delay-of-student-covid-vaccine-mandate>

MELISSA GOMEZ & LUKE MONEY & RONG-GONG LIN II

APR 28, 2022

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

LAUSD failed students with disabilities during pandemic, federal investigation finds

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-28/lausd-failed-disabled-students-under-remote-learning-during-pandemic-investigation-finds>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL & MELISSA GOMEZ

APR 28, 2022

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

COVID won't become endemic until we have a vaccine for kids under 5

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-05-01/op-ed-covid-cant-become-endemic-until-we-have-a-vaccine-for-kids-under-5>

NINA SHAPIRO

MAY 1, 2022

Dr. Nina Shapiro is director of pediatric ear, nose and throat at the Mattel Children's Hospital and a professor of head and neck surgery at the David Geffen School of Medicine UCLA. She is the author of "The Ultimate Kids' Guide to Being Super Healthy." A graduate of Harvard Medical School and Cornell University, she completed her surgical residency at Harvard and finished additional subspecialty training in pediatric otolaryngology at the Great Ormond Street Hospital for Children in London and the Children's Hospital of San Diego.

Gaping digital divide among L.A. students is a civil rights issue, Supt. Carvalho says

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-05-03/lausd-will-try-again-to-get-students-online-at-least-for-a-year>

HOWARD BLUME

MAY 3, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on

KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

How to fix the rocky start of transitional kindergarten for all California 4-year-olds

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-05-06/editorial-how-to-fix-the-rocky-start-of-transitional-kindergarten-for-all-california-4-year-olds>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

MAY 6, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Cops, Not Books? This Town's Library May Become A Police Station

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-05-07/mcfarland-library-police-headquarters>

GUSTAVO ARELLANO

MAY 7, 2022

Gustavo Arellano is a features writer for the Los Angeles Times, covering Southern California everything and a bunch of the West and beyond. He previously worked at OC Weekly, where he was an investigative reporter for 15 years and editor for six, wrote a column called iAsk a Mexican! and is the author of "Taco USA: How Mexican Food Conquered America." He's the child of two Mexican immigrants, one whom came to this country in the trunk of a Chevy.

Glendale third-grade teacher showed gay pride videos. A year later, furious debate erupts

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-05-11/glendale-unified-schools-lgbtq-curriculum>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ

MAY 11, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

Times librarian Jen Arcand contributed to this report.

What California law requires in teaching about LGBTQ people in public schools

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-05-11/california-takes-opposite-path-of-florida-texas-on-inclusive-education>

HOWARD BLUME & MELISSA GOMEZ

MAY 11 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Melissa Gomez is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times covering the 2020 presidential campaign. A native Floridian, she graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Florida, where she also worked at the student newspaper, the Independent Florida Alligator. She has previously interned at the Naples Daily News, the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Tampa Bay Times and the New York Times.

LAUSD passes controversial deaf education plan despite strong opposition

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-05-11/lausd-passes-controversial-deaf-education-plan>

SONYA SHARP

MAY 11, 2022

Sonja Sharp covers the Westside for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2019, she worked as an NYPD-credentialed member of the New York City press corps, writing stranger-than-fiction stories of crime and culture for VICE, the Wall Street Journal and the Village Voice, among others. She is a Bay Area native, a graduate of UC Berkeley and Columbia, and a proud Jewish mother.

California's bold plan: adding a full school year before kindergarten. How will it work?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-13/gov-newsom-transitional-kindergarten-proposal-how-will-it-work>

JOHN MYERS & HOWARD BLUME & SONYA SHARP

MAY 13, 2022

John Myers joined the Los Angeles Times as Sacramento bureau chief in 2015 after more than two decades in radio and television news, much of that as an award-winning reporter covering statehouse policy and politics. During a decade of work for San Francisco's NPR affiliate, his unique online projects included everything from one of Sacramento's original politics blogs to California's first politics podcast. He also served as the moderator of gubernatorial debates in 2014 and 2010. Often cited by state and national news organizations as one of Sacramento's top journalists, he's a graduate of Duke University and the University of California, Berkeley.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Sonja Sharp covers the Westside for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2019, she worked as an NYPD-credentialed member of the New York City press corps, writing stranger-than-fiction stories of crime and culture for VICE, the Wall Street

Journal and the Village Voice, among others. She is a Bay Area native, a graduate of UC Berkeley and Columbia, and a proud Jewish mother.

With Plunging Enrollment, a ‘Seismic Hit’ to Public Schools

<https://www.nytimes.com/2022/05/17/us/public-schools-falling-enrollment.html>

SHAWN HUBLER

May 17, 2022

Shawn Hubler is a California correspondent based in Sacramento. Before joining The Times in 2020 she spent nearly two decades covering the state for The Los Angeles Times as a roving reporter, columnist and magazine writer, and shared three Pulitzer Prizes won by the paper's Metro staff.

Most recently, Ms. Hubler was a deputy editor at CalMatters, an award-winning nonprofit digital news organization that specializes in California policy. Before that, she was a member of the editorial board at The Sacramento Bee.

At The Los Angeles Times, she covered the 1992 Los Angeles riots from Florence and Normandie, the 2000 dot-com bust from San Francisco and the internet's impact on children from Orange County. She shared in Pulitzers for coverage of the riots, the 1994 Northridge earthquake that devastated Southern California and the violent, televised, 1997 shootout in North Hollywood between armored bank robbers and police that prompted the militarization of law enforcement nationally.

A native of Central Pennsylvania, she is married to Bob Magnuson, a former journalist and news executive who is a native of Los Angeles. They have three amazing grown daughters and two faithful cats.

LAUSD expects enrollment to plummet by ‘alarming’ 30% in the next decade

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-05-18/l-a-unified-enrollment-expect-to-plummet-leading-to-academic-and-employment-worries>

HOWARD BLUME

MAY 18, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

The limits to school security become clear as parents demand answers after Texas shooting

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-05-26/after-texas-shooting-parents-demand-better-stronger-security>

HOWARD BLUME

MAY 26, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. City Council seeks to ban homeless encampments near every school, daycare center

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-05-31/l-a-city-council-seeks-to-ban-homeless-encampments-near-every-school-daycare-center>

BENJAMIN ORESKES & DAVID ZAHNISER

MAY 31, 2022

Benjamin Oreskes is the co-author of the Essential California newsletter and a general assignment reporter in the California section. Before coming to The Times in February 2017, Oreskes covered foreign policy at Politico in Washington, D.C. He graduated from Northwestern University, and looks forward to seeing the Wildcats play in the Rose Bowl sometime soon.

David Zahniser covers Los Angeles City Hall for the City-County bureau. He joined the Los Angeles Times in 2007 and previously wrote on local government for the Claremont Courier, Pasadena Star-News, the Daily Breeze, the L.A. Weekly and the San Diego Union-Tribune. He is a graduate of Pomona College and lives in Los Angeles.

Our country's cruel indifference to violence against children takes many forms

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-05-31/uvalde-violence-against-children>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

MAY 31, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Don't expect teachers to be substitute police officers when the shooting starts

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-06-02/editorial-arming-teachers-ludicrous-republicans-texas>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

JUN 2, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Teenagers shouldn't be able to buy assault weapons

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-06-06/age-21-act-federal-minimum-assault-weapons-ban>

DIANNE FEINSTEIN

JUN 6, 2022

Dianne Feinstein, a Democrat, is the senior U.S. senator from California.

As a Los Angeles teacher, I want you to know what a school lockdown feels like

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-06-07/los-angeles-teacher-school-lockdown-guns-active-shooter-ualde>

MARISA CRABTREE
JUN 7, 2022

Marisa Crabtree is a high school teacher in Los Angeles.

Hello, I am Ms. Crabtree!

I encourage students to uncover the hidden mysteries and rich themes of English literature and composition at Abraham Lincoln High School. I have enjoyed teaching English for 15 years, and AP Psychology for three years. My specialties are teaching 10th Graders, Seniors, and AP English classes, and telling silly jokes (yes, I laugh at my own jokes!).

I help Lincoln achieve academic glory by coaching the Academic Decathlon team- Go Tigers! I always feel impressed by our decathletes- they consistently place in the top 15 of the 65 teams competing in LAUSD's competition.

I also volunteer for LHS by accompanying the plays and musicals on piano, attending sports and MST Magnet social events, and serving as co-English Department Chair. I am excited to continue advising my group of 11th grade advisory students and re-connecting with students in person as everyone returns to campus in the fall!

You are always welcome to drop by my room for advice (wanted AND unwanted), music, a pep talk, or just to chill. It's Room B3 (behind the 100 building, next to B4 and the 700 building). Also, you can email me if you have questions about homework or projects or performances- my email is mxco861@lausd.net. Check out my "reading" blog at princessleiasgalaxy.blogspot.com.

Remember, the number one thing you can do to improve your grades, test scores, and college readiness, is to READ for 15 minutes everyday!

O.C. parents enflamed by graphic novel in K-6 library; district mulls book policy

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-06-07/o-c-parents-enflamed-by-graphic-novel-in-k-6-library-district-mulls-book-policy>

SARA CARDINE
JUN 7, 2022

Sara Cardine covers the city of Costa Mesa for the Daily Pilot. She comes from the La Cañada Valley Sun, where she spent six years as the news reporter covering La Cañada Flintridge and recently received a first-place Public Service Journalism award from the California News Publishers Assn. She's also worked at the Pasadena Weekly, Stockton Record and Lodi-News Sentinel, which instilled in her a love for community news. (714) 966-4627

California is richer than ever. Why is it last in the nation for school bus access?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-06-22/theres-a-human-cost-to-this-california-ranks-lowest-in-nation-for-school-bus-use>

MACKENZIE MAYS
JUN 22, 2022

Mackenzie Mays covers state government and politics in the Los Angeles Times' Sacramento bureau. Previously, she worked as an investigative reporter for Politico, the Fresno Bee and the Charleston Gazette-Mail. In 2019, she received the National Press Club Press Freedom Award for her political watchdog reporting. She is a graduate of West Virginia University and proud Appalachian.

Staff writer Salma Loum contributed to this report.

How to find out if your child's classes have teachers with proper credentials. Many don't

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-07-01/amid-staffing-shortage-46-700-teachers-in-california-classrooms-lack-proper-credentials>

MACKENZIE MAYS

JUL 1, 2022

Mackenzie Mays covers state government and politics in the Los Angeles Times' Sacramento bureau. Previously, she worked as an investigative reporter for Politico, the Fresno Bee and the Charleston Gazette-Mail. In 2019, she received the National Press Club Press Freedom Award for her political watchdog reporting. She is a graduate of West Virginia University and proud Appalachian.

Will California's $4.1-billion bet on 'community schools' transform K-12 education?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-07-20/the-promise-of-community-schools>

LAURA NEWBERRY

JUL 20, 2022

Laura Newberry is a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She previously worked as a staff reporter at both the Reading Eagle in Eastern Pennsylvania and MassLive in Western Massachusetts. Originally from Florida, she graduated from the University of Central Florida in 2013 and UC Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism in 2018.

L.A. Unified estimates tens of thousands of students are missing from back-to-school rosters

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-07-30/l-a-schools-says-20-000-students-are-missing-from-rosters>

HOWARD BLUME

JUL 30, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Cities across the U.S. face crisis as fewer kids enroll in public schools

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-08-01/cities-face-crisis-as-fewer-kids-enroll-schools-shrink>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUG 1, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Mila Koumpilova & Matt Barnum Of Chalkbeat, & Collin Binkley of the Associated Press contributed to this report

L.A. cracks down on homeless encampments near schools, over protesters' jeers

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-02/l-a-cracks-down-on-homeless-encampments-outside-public-schools-daycare-centers>

DAVID ZAHNISER & BENJAMIN ORESKES

AUG 2, 2022

David Zahniser covers Los Angeles City Hall for the City-County bureau. He joined the Los Angeles Times in 2007 and previously wrote on local government for the Claremont Courier, Pasadena Star-News, the Daily Breeze, the L.A. Weekly and the San Diego Union-Tribune. He is a graduate of Pomona College and lives in Los Angeles.

Benjamin Oreskes is the co-author of the Essential California newsletter and a general assignment reporter in the California section. Before coming to The Times in February 2017, Oreskes covered foreign policy at Politico in Washington, D.C. He graduated from Northwestern University, and looks forward to seeing the Wildcats play in the Rose Bowl sometime soon.

L.A. schools drop aggressive COVID-19 rules: No more testing for all and masks stay optional

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-02/l-a-schools-drop-aggressive-covid-19-safety-rules>

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 2, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. community colleges seek voter OK for $5.3-billion building bond, its largest ever

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-05/laccd-wants-to-borrow-5-3-billion-for-building-projects>

DEBBIE TRUONG
AUG 5, 2022

Debbie Truong is a higher education reporter for the Los Angeles Times. Previously, she covered PK-12 education for WAMU-FM (88.5), the NPR affiliate in Washington, D.C., and the Washington Post. She attended Syracuse University and received a master's degree in journalism from American University. She grew up in the San Gabriel Valley.

L.A. County reports 12th pediatric COVID death. How to keep kids safe as school begins

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-06/1-a-fights-to-prevent-new-covid-surge-when-schools-resume>

LUKE MONEY & RONG-GONG LIN II
AUG 6, 2022

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Ban encampments near schools? Another L.A. restriction that doesn't help fix homelessness

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-08-07/encampments-schools-los-angeles-ordinance-homelessness>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
AUG 7, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Bring back the lost children of Los Angeles Unified

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-08-08/editorial-recapturing-the-lost-children-of-los-angeles>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
AUG 8, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

LAUSD chief promises expanded early education, more bus seats and other 'swift' changes

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-08/1-a-schools-supt-carvalho-vows-rapid-back-to-school-change>

HOWARD BLUME
AUG 8, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Audience member charges toward L.A. City Council, causing meeting to erupt in chaos

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-09/l-a-city-council-meeting-erupts-in-chaos>

DAVID ZAHNISER & JULIA WICK
AUG 9, 2022

David Zahniser covers Los Angeles City Hall for the City-County bureau. He joined the Los Angeles Times in 2007 and previously wrote on local government for the Claremont Courier, Pasadena Star-News, the Daily Breeze, the L.A. Weekly and the San Diego Union-Tribune. He is a graduate of Pomona College and lives in Los Angeles.

Julia Wick is the author of the Essential California newsletter and a Metro reporter. She was previously the editor in chief of LAist and a senior editor at Longreads. She has written for the Atlantic, Monocle, CityLab and most of the local papers in L.A. County. She is a native Angeleno.

L.A. teachers union demands withdrawal of extra school days in first clash under Carvalho

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-09/l-a-teachers-union-clashes-with-supt-carvalho-want-him-to-withdraw-extended-school-days>

HOWARD BLUME
Aug 9, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Parents' 2022-23 back-to-school checklist: tutoring, therapy, COVID-19 vigilance

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-12/parents-have-new-back-to-school-list-amid-covid-year-three>

ALEJANDRA REYES-VELARDE & HOWARD BLUME
AUG 12, 2022

Alejandra Reyes-Velarde started as a Metpro reporter at the Los Angeles Times in 2017. She previously wrote for the San Francisco Business Times and covered local news and crime for the Sacramento Bee. She received her bachelor's degree in communication studies from UCLA, where she worked at the student-run Daily Bruin. Originally from Duarte, Calif., Reyes is a native Spanish speaker.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. Unified officials knock on doors, urging chronically absent students to return

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-13/counselor-search-for-las-thousands-of-missing-students>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL
AUG 13, 2022

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

A new normal in L.A. on first day of school: Later start times, relaxed COVID rules

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-15/late-start-time-relaxed-covid-rules-monkeypox-concerns-as-school-year-begins>

HOWARD BLUME
AUG 15, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A.'s back-to-school challenges: low test scores, scramble for teachers, missing students

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-16/families-hoping-for-near-normal-as-school-begins-in-l-a>

HOWARD BLUME
AUG 16, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writer Paloma Esquivel contributed to this report.

The Dr. Dre, Jimmy Iovine high school gets down to business, just not the music business

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-19/dr-dre-jimmy-iovine-high-school-opens-in-south-l-a>

HOWARD BLUME

AUG 19, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Back to school in the COVID era — things have changed, but not the worry

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-08-20/schools-long-covid-rules-relaxed-children>

PAUL THORNTON

AUG 20, 2022

Paul Thornton is the Los Angeles Times' letters editor. He joined the editorial pages in 2005 as a researcher and occasional editorial writer and also served as a Web producer. A UC Berkeley graduate, he lives in Alhambra with his wife, two sons and two cats.

A looming COVID risk in California? Schools return with fewer rules, lagging vaccine rates

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-24/california-schools-have-fewer-covid-rules-lagging-vaccine-rate>

RONG-GONG LIN II & LUKE MONEY

AUG 24, 2022

Rong-Gong Lin II is a metro reporter based in San Francisco who specializes in covering statewide earthquake safety issues and the COVID-19 pandemic. He won the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.'s Freedom of Information Award and the University of Florida's Joseph L. Brechner Freedom of Information Award. He was a finalist for the Ursula and Gilbert Farfel Prize for Excellence in Investigative Reporting and the Knight Award for Public Service. A San Francisco area native, he graduated from UC Berkeley in 2004.

Luke Money is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously was a reporter and assistant city editor for the Daily Pilot, a Times Community News publication in Orange County, and before that covered education, politics and government for the Santa Clarita Valley Signal. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Arizona, where he was the editor-in-chief of the college newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat.

L.A. teachers union members vote to boycott extra learning day mid-semester

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-26/l-a-teachers-union-members-to-boycott-extra-learning-day>

HOWARD BLUME
AUG 26, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Kindergarten could soon be mandatory for California children

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-08-29/kindergarten-could-soon-be-mandatory-for-california-children>

MACKENZIE MAYS
AUG 29, 2022

Mackenzie Mays covers state government and politics in the Los Angeles Times' Sacramento bureau. Previously, she worked as an investigative reporter for Politico, the Fresno Bee and the Charleston Gazette-Mail. In 2019, she received the National Press Club Press Freedom Award for her political watchdog reporting. She is a graduate of West Virginia University and proud Appalachian.

Times staff writer Howard Blume contributed to this report.

Playground asphalt sizzles to 145 degrees in extreme heat waves. Parents demand school shade

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-10-28/extreme-heat-built-environment-equity>

ALEJANDRA REYES-VELARDE
SEP 1, 2022

Alejandra Reyes-Velarde started as a Metpro reporter at the Los Angeles Times in 2017. She previously wrote for the San Francisco Business Times and covered local news and crime for the Sacramento Bee. She received her bachelor's degree in communication studies from UCLA, where she worked at the student-run Daily Bruin. Originally from Duarte, Calif., Reyes is a native Spanish speaker.

Reading and math scores nationwide fell sharply during pandemic, data show

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-09-01/reading-math-scores-fell-sharply-pandemic>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEP 1, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Collin Binkley contributed to this report.

Students wait months for mental health help. 'We're bombarded,' counselor says

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-01/california-students-wait-months-for-mental-health-counseling>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL
SEP 1, 2022

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

L.A. Times staff writer Marissa Evans contributed to this report.

Worst national reading and math scores in decades show large pandemic-fueled equity gaps

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-02/worst-reading-and-math-scores-in-decades-fueled-by-pandemic>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL & HOWARD BLUME
SEP 1, 2022

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. school district online systems, emails go down; technicians hoping to fix by Tuesday

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-05/l-a-school-district-online-systems-emails-go-down-technicians-hoping-to-fix-by-tuesday>

HOWARD BLUME
SEP 5, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

FBI, DHS join probe into massive LAUSD cyberattack as school goes on

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-05/lausd-cyberattack-takes-down-la-unified-operations-schools-will-open-on-tuesday>

HOWARD BLUME & ALEJANDRA REYES-VELARDE

SEP 6, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Alejandra Reyes-Velarde started as a Metpro reporter at the Los Angeles Times in 2017. She previously wrote for the San Francisco Business Times and covered local news and crime for the Sacramento Bee. She received her bachelor's degree in communication studies from UCLA, where she worked at the student-run Daily Bruin. Originally from Duarte, Calif., Reyes is a native Spanish speaker.

Hot, angry parents continue to hammer LAUSD for shade and even cool water for kids

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-07/hot-angry-l-a-parents-demand-playground-shade-in-heatwave>

ALEJANDRA REYES-VELARDE

SEP 7, 2022

Alejandra Reyes-Velarde started as a Metpro reporter at the Los Angeles Times in 2017. She previously wrote for the San Francisco Business Times and covered local news and crime for the Sacramento Bee. She received her bachelor's degree in communication studies from UCLA, where she worked at the student-run Daily Bruin. Originally from Duarte, Calif., Reyes is a native Spanish speaker.

Endorsement: Yes on Proposition 28. All kids deserve quality arts and music education

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-09-08/endorsement-yes-on-proposition-28-all-kids-deserve-quality-arts-and-music-education>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

SEP 8, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Criminal syndicate claims credit for LAUSD hack; authorities won't say whether it's true

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-09/criminal-syndicate-claims-credit-for-laUSD-hack-says-it-holds-sensitive-information>

HOWARD BLUME

SEP 9, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Amid heat wave, San Bernardino students were forced to sit on hot asphalt during PE, parents say

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-09/california-heat-wave-san-bernardino-students-were-forced-to-sit-on-hot-asphalt>

NATHAN SOLIS

SEP 9, 2022

Nathan Solis is a Metro reporter covering breaking news at the Los Angeles Times. He previously worked for Courthouse News Service, where he wrote both breaking news and enterprise stories ranging from criminal justice to homelessness and politics. Before that, Solis was at the Redding Record Searchlight as a multimedia journalist, where he anchored coverage of the destructive 2017 fires in Northern California. Earlier in his career, he worked for Eastsider L.A.

L.A. student scores show deep pandemic setbacks, with 72% failing to meet math standards

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-09/los-angeles-student-test-scores-pandemic-learning-setbacks>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL & HOWARD BLUME

SEP 9, 2022

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

A moment of parent-driven chaos in a typical school day

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-09-10/school-parenting-traffic-chaos>

EMILY ST. MARTIN
SEP 10, 2022

Emily St Martin is a Los-Angeles based freelance writer covering relationships, addiction, food and entertainment. She's contributed to The New York Times, Vice and The Hollywood Reporter.

L.A. schools chief given rare emergency authority to deal with cyberattack

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-13/l-a-schools-chief-to-use-emergency-authority-in-cyberattack>

HOWARD BLUME
SEP 13, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Fake active shooter reports at California schools spur investigations, authorities say

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-14/active-shooter-reports-at-california-schools-spur-investigations>

ALEJANDRA REYES-VELARDE & ALEXANDRA E. PETRI & NOAH GOLDBERG & RICHARD WINTON
SEP 14, 2022

Alejandra Reyes-Velarde started as a Metro reporter at the Los Angeles Times in 2017. She previously wrote for the San Francisco Business Times and covered local news and crime for the Sacramento Bee. She received her bachelor's degree in communication studies from UCLA, where she worked at the student-run Daily Bruin. Originally from Duarte, Calif., Reyes is a native Spanish speaker.

Alexandra E. Petri covers trends and breaking news for the Los Angeles Times. She previously was on the Live team at the New York Times, where she helped plan coverage and reported on live events, including the mass shootings in Buffalo and Uvalde, the Scripps National Spelling Bee, Russia's invasion of Ukraine, the R. Kelly trial, the Olympics, the condo collapse in Surfside, Fla., the coronavirus pandemic and the Boston Marathon. Petri even reported on the New York City Marathon while running in it. Petri is a two-time reporting fellow with the International Women's Media Foundation. She graduated from Penn State with a degree in journalism and international studies.

Noah Goldberg covers breaking news for the Los Angeles Times. He worked previously in New York City as the Brooklyn courts reporter for the New York Daily News, covering major criminal trials as well as working on enterprise stories. Before that, he was the criminal justice reporter for the Brooklyn Eagle.

Richard Winton is an investigative crime writer for the Los Angeles Times and part of the team that won the Pulitzer Prize for public service in 2011. Known as @lacrimas on Twitter, during almost 30 years at The Times he also has been part of the breaking news staff that won Pulitzers in 1998, 2004 and 2016. He won the ASNE Deadline News award in 2006. A native of England, after getting degrees from the University of Kent at Canterbury and the University of Wisconsin-Madison, he began covering politics but chose to focus on crime because it was less dirty.

California first with law protecting children's online privacy

<https://www.latimes.com/business/story/2022-09-15/california-first-with-law-protecting-childrens-online-privacy>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEP 15, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Don Thompson contributed to this report.

Teacher shortages are real, but not for the reason you heard

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-09-15/teacher-shortages-are-real-but-not-for-the-reason-you-heard>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEP 15, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Sharon Lurye & Rebecca Griesbach contributed to this report.

California makes it too hard for schools to shield kids from extreme heat

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-09-16/schools-extreme-heat-california-lausd>

NICK MELVOYN

SEP 16, 2022

Nick Melvoin is a former L.A. Unified teacher who has served on the Board of Education since July 2017. Nick's election to the Board in May of 2017 follows a career fighting for our city's schoolchildren. He believes that together, with the right leadership, we can ensure that every student in Los Angeles has the opportunity to succeed. Born and raised on the Westside of LA, Nick served as a seventh and eighth grade English teacher at Markham Middle School, an LAUSD campus in Watts, where he coached soccer and baseball and helped his students launch a school newspaper. At Markham, he saw firsthand how poor governance neglected the needs of our city's most vulnerable students. When he and two-thirds of Markham's teachers lost their jobs due to budget cuts, he fought to be re-hired and worked to end the indiscriminate, seniority-based teacher layoffs that harm so many LA families. As a teacher, Nick joined the ACLU, Mayors Riordan and Villaraigosa, and others to bring a ground-breaking civil rights lawsuit which argued that LA's layoffs violated the rights of students.

Nick holds a Bachelor's degree from Harvard University, a Masters in Urban Education from Loyola Marymount University (LMU), and a law degree from the New York University School of Law, where he was a Root-Tilden-Kern Public Service Scholar. In addition to serving as a teacher, Nick has worked in the Obama White House with the Domestic Policy Council and the US Attorney's office where he took part in various civil rights investigations as a legal clerk. Prior to his election, Nick led and facilitated efforts by students, parents, teachers, and community members to rethink and shape the future of our city's schools. He also served as an adjunct professor at LMU where he taught a course on Education Law. In working for nonprofits such as Teach Plus and Educators 4 Excellence, Nick helped to improve the support teachers across the state receive before and during their time in the classroom, as well as amplify teacher voice in policy-making. Nick has recently served on the boards of the Los Angeles County Young Democrats, Brentwood Community Council, Teach For America Associates, University Synagogue's Social Justice Committee, and United in Harmony. He is a graduate of the Jewish Federation's New Leaders Project and the New Leaders Council and has chaired the Jewish Federation's Educators' Network. Nick is also proud to serve as a director of Camp Harmony, a camp for homeless and underserved children. His commitment to solving educational inequity was first sparked as a volunteer at Camp Harmony more than sixteen years ago.

L.A. Unified cyberattackers demand ransom

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-20/lausd-cyberattackers-demand-ransom>

HOWARD BLUME
SEP 20, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

After string of teen overdoses, L.A. schools will get OD reversal drug naloxone

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-22/l-a-school-district-will-provide-overdose-drug-naloxone-to-campuses>

HOWARD BLUME
SEP 22, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year

from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts “Deadline L.A.” on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Times staff writers Debbie Truong & Alejandra Reyes-Velarde contributed to this story.

Newsom vetoes bill to make kindergarten mandatory, citing costs

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-25/newsom-vetoes-bill-to-make-kindergarten-mandatory-citing-costs>

MACKENZIE MAYS

SEP 25, 2022

Mackenzie Mays covers state government and politics in the Los Angeles Times' Sacramento bureau. Previously, she worked as an investigative reporter for Politico, the Fresno Bee and the Charleston Gazette-Mail. In 2019, she received the National Press Club Press Freedom Award for her political watchdog reporting. She is a graduate of West Virginia University and proud Appalachian.

California kindergarten saw big enrollment drop during pandemic. What's happening now?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-05-13/gov-newsom-transitional-kindergarten-proposal-how-will-it-work>

HOWARD BLUME

SEP 27, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts “Deadline L.A.” on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. school district changes plan for expanded school year under teachers union pressure

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-28/l-a-school-district-changes-plan-for-expanded-school-year-under-teachers-union-pressure>

HOWARD BLUME

SEP 28, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts “Deadline L.A.” on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Hackers set Monday deadline for LAUSD to pay up or have private data posted on dark web

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-30/hackers-set-monday-deadline-for-laUSD-to-pay-up-or-have-private-data-posted-on-dark-web>

HOWARD BLUME
SEP 30, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Young adults in California experience alarming rates of anxiety and depression, poll finds

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-09-30/young-adults-california-alarming-rates-of-anxiety-depression-suicidal-thinking-survey-finds>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL
SEP 30, 2022

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Hackers release data after LAUSD refuses to pay ransom

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-10-02/hackers-release-data-ahead-of-deadline-in-response-to-laUSD-refusal-to-pay-ransom>

HOWARD BLUME
OCT 2, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

No widespread, systemic release of confidential data in LAUSD cyberattack, Carvalho says

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-10-03/laUSD-parents-angry-cyberattack-data-release>

HOWARD BLUME & TERRY CASTLEMAN & ALEJANDRA REYES-VELARDE
OCT 3, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Terry Castleman is a data reporter covering the 2022 midterm elections. In 2020 he was named a Pulitzer Prize finalist in explanatory reporting alongside colleagues Rosanna Xia and Swetha Kannan for "a deeply researched examination of the difficult choices Californians must make as climate change erodes precious coastline." Previously, he has worked at the New York Times, served as digital director of a congressional campaign in Little Rock and volunteered as a first responder for refugees arriving on the shores of Lesbos. He's a San Francisco native and a 2016 graduate of Tufts University with degrees in engineering and economics. He is a prescriptive grammarian and it's insufferable.

Alejandra Reyes-Velarde started as a Metpro reporter at the Los Angeles Times in 2017. She previously wrote for the San Francisco Business Times and covered local news and crime for the Sacramento Bee. She received her bachelor's degree in communication studies from UCLA, where she worked at the student-run Daily Bruin. Originally from Duarte, Calif., Reyes is a native Spanish speaker.

Hackers released a bunch of LAUSD data. What can parents and employees do?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-10-03/lausd-ransomware-hack-attack-what-should-parents-and-employees-do-now>

JON HEALEY
OCT 3, 2022

Jon Healey is a senior editor on the Utility Journalism team, which tries to help readers solve problems, answer questions and make big decisions about life in and around Los Angeles. He has been with the Los Angeles Times since 2000, previously reporting on technology news and writing opinion pieces.

Times staff writer Howard Blume contributed to this report.

LAUSD parents can call a hotline with questions about data hackers released in cyberattack

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-10-03/hackers-cyberattack-los-angeles-unified-school-district-hotline-parents-staff-vice-society>

MELISSA HERNANDEZ
OCT 3, 2022

Melissa Hernandez is a reporter at the Los Angeles Times. She was born and raised in Miami and is a graduate of the University of Florida, where she studied journalism and environmental science. Hernandez was formerly an intern for The Times' 2021 summer internship program, during which she covered general assignments on the Metro desk. Before arriving in California, she was an investigative/enterprise reporter for Fresh Take Florida, a news service offered by UF. Her previous work can be found in the Associated Press, U.S. News and World Report, Chicago Tribune and San Francisco Chronicle. Hernandez is a three-time Society of Professional Journalists award winner and her biggest passion is long-form investigative reporting. She's an avid lover of golden retrievers and Rocky Road ice cream. Hernandez is a member of the 2021-22 Los Angeles Times Fellowship class.

Senators call for stronger rules for students with disabilities

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-10-05/senators-call-for-stronger-rules-on-off-the-books-suspension>

ASSOCIATED PRESS
OCT 5, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Annie Ma contributed to this report.

Voters support Newsom's mental health plan and back mandatory kindergarten, poll shows

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-10-06/voters-strongly-support-newsoms-mental-health-plan>

HANNAH WILEY & PHIL WILLON

OCT 6, 2022

Hannah Wiley is a politics reporter for the Los Angeles Times' Sacramento bureau covering the California Capitol and state agencies. Previously, she was a legislative reporter for the Sacramento Bee for three years, where she reported on housing legislation, new vaccine rules, the COVID-19 pandemic, education policy and homelessness. Wiley graduated from St. Louis University and earned a master's degree in investigative reporting from Northwestern University. She is from Kankakee, Ill.

Phil Willon covers Gov. Gavin Newsom and California politics for the Los Angeles Times. He reports from Sacramento and his previous assignments included the 2018 governor's race and the 2016 U.S. Senate race. Before heading north, Willon covered Los Angeles Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa and roamed Southern California's mountains and deserts as the paper's state correspondent in the Inland Empire. Prior to joining The Times, Willon served as the Washington, D.C., correspondent for the Tampa Tribune. At the Tribune, Willon also covered Florida Gov. Lawton Chiles, Hurricane Andrew and the investigation leading to the arrest of serial killer Danny Rolling. He began his newspaper career as the Kent Island correspondent for the Capital in Annapolis, Md. Willon grew up in Southern California and graduated from UC San Diego.

LAUSD cyberattack woes and uncertainties could be long-lasting, experts say

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-10-10/l-a-schools-cyberattack-woes-uncertainties-could-linger>

HOWARD BLUME & ALEJANDRA REYES-VELARDE & KIERA FELDMAN

OCT 10, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

Alejandra Reyes-Velarde started as a Metpro reporter at the Los Angeles Times in 2017. She previously wrote for the San Francisco Business Times and covered local news and crime for the Sacramento Bee. She received her bachelor's degree in communication studies from UCLA, where she worked at the student-run Daily Bruin. Originally from Duarte, Calif., Reyes is a native Spanish speaker.

Kiera Feldman joined the Los Angeles Times as an investigative reporter in 2019. She came from ProPublica, where her reporting on New York City's private trash industry exposed labor abuses and corruption, leading to a federal investigation and new city laws. She won a Gerald Loeb Award in 2021 for articles on toxic fumes on planes and a Livingston Award in 2015 for an investigation of college sexual assault mishandling. A longtime magazine journalist, before coming to The Times she reported for Harper's, New Republic and elsewhere.

The cyberattack on Los Angeles schools could happen anywhere

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-10-11/cybersecurity-ransomware-schools-los-angeles>

HEIDI BOGHOSIAN

OCT 11, 2022

Heidi Boghosian, a lawyer, is the executive director of the A.J. Muste Memorial Institute. Previously she was the executive director of the National Lawyers Guild, a progressive bar association established in 1937, where she oversaw the legal defense of people targeted by government. She co-hosts the weekly civil liberties radio show Law and Disorder, that airs on Pacifica Radio's WBAI, New York, and is broadcast on more than 100 other stations. She is the author of "I Have Nothing to Hide" and 20 Other Myths About Surveillance and Privacy."

Boghosian's work often focuses on how technology affects our daily lives. In a 2010 Huffington Post article titled "Are You Chip-Ready", Boghosian discusses radio-frequency identification (RFID) technology that has been making its way into many people's lives including students whose attendance can now be tracked by a RFID chip implanted in their student ID cards. She points out identity theft, stalking, government spying, and security breaches as just some of the negative outcomes of RFID technology.^[2]

In 2012, Boghosian documented her own data trail to show how everyday transactions and ventures are captured and stored, most times without our knowledge. From the surveillance monitor outside of her apartment building, to a purchase at a local coffee shop, Boghosian illustrates how corporations play a larger role in people's daily lives.^[3] The National Security Agency (NSA), for instance, collects metadata on every phone call Americans make,^[4] as was revealed in June 2013 by Edward Snowden.

Struggling L.A. students won't get a longer school year but can seek help during vacation

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-10-12/struggling-l-a-students-wont-get-a-longer-school-year-but-can-seek-help-during-vacation>

HOWARD BLUME

OCT 12, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

What happens when public schools lose students?

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-10-14/public-school-enrollment-laUSD-desegregation>

ERIN AUBRY KAPLAN

OCT 14, 2022

Erin Aubry Kaplan is a Los Angeles journalist and columnist born in 1962^[1] who has written about African-American political, economic and cultural issues since 1992.^{[2][3]} She is a contributing writer to the op-ed section of the Los Angeles Times,^{[4][5]} and from 2005 to 2007 was a weekly op-ed columnist – the first black weekly op-ed columnist in the paper's recent history.^[6] She has been a staff writer and columnist for the LA Weekly^[7] and a regular contributor for many publications, including Salon.com,^[8] Essence,^{[9][10][11]} and Ms.^{[12][13][14][15]}

Kaplan is also a regular columnist for make/shift, a quarterly, cutting-edge feminist magazine that launched in 2007^[16] and a contributing opinion writer for The New York Times^[17].

Erin's essays have been anthologized in several books, including (as Erin Aubry) "Mothers Who Think: Tales of Real-Life Parenthood" (Villard, Washington Square Press),^[18] "Step Into A World" (Wiley & Sons)^[19] and "Rise Up Singing: Black Women Writers on Motherhood" (Doubleday).^[20] The last book's contributors include Maya Angelou, Gwendolyn Brooks and Alice Walker, and won an American Book Award in 2005.^[21] She won the PEN USA 2001 award for journalism.^[22]

Kaplan has published two books. Her first book was a collection of essays and reportage titled Black Talk, Blue Thoughts and Walking the Color Line: Dispatches From a Black Journalista, and was published in 2011.^{[23][24]} Her second, I Heart Obama, an extended essay about the cultural and personal meaning of the first black American president, was published in 2016.^[25]

Kaplan was born and raised in Los Angeles, though her family is originally from New Orleans. She was married to Alan Kaplan, a Los Angeles high school history teacher, for 15 years. He died in 2015.^[26] Kaplan holds an MFA from University of California, Los Angeles, and teaches creative writing at Antioch University Los Angeles.^[3]

Parents want more school security, but student activists push back. Inside the debate

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-10-18/parents-want-more-school-security-but-student-activists-push-back-inside-the-debate>

HOWARD BLUME

OCT 18, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

L.A. Unified enrollment continues to fall, but drop is cushioned by influx of 4-year-olds

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-04-11/california-school-enrollment-drops-by-more-110-000-students>

HOWARD BLUME

OCT 19, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

‘How do you say that about a 2-year-old?’ Amid scandal, parents reckon with the politics of shame

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-10-19/recording-scandal-parents-reaction>

SONYA SHARP
OCT 19, 2022

Sonya Sharp covers the Westside for the Los Angeles Times. Before joining the newsroom in 2019, she worked as an NYPD-credentialed member of the New York City press corps, writing stranger-than-fiction stories of crime and culture for VICE, the Wall Street Journal and the Village Voice, among others. She is a Bay Area native, a graduate of UC Berkeley and Columbia, and a proud Jewish mother.

Online school put U.S. kids behind. Some adults have regrets.

<https://www.latimes.com/world-nation/story/2022-10-22/online-school-put-us-kids-behind-some-adults-have-regrets>

ASSOCIATED PRESS

OCT 22, 2022

The Associated Press is an independent, not-for-profit news cooperative headquartered in New York City. Our teams in over 100 countries tell the world's stories, from breaking news to investigative reporting. We provide content and services to help engage audiences worldwide, working with companies of all types, from broadcasters to brands. For 170 years, we have been breaking news and covering the world's biggest stories, always committed to the highest standards of objective, accurate journalism. We were founded as an independent news cooperative and remain owned by our U.S. newspaper and broadcast members, steadfast in our mission to inform the world. From delivering the news via pony express in 1846 to working in virtual reality today, we are always innovating. We are a proudly independent group of media professionals and business innovators, guided by a leadership team devoted to shaping the future of journalism. Every day, our people work toward our mission of informing the world. We have been leading the media industry ever since our founding in 1846, championing journalism across the globe. In 2005, we established the AP Emergency Relief Fund to help our colleagues around the world when they are affected by conflict and disaster. The money we've raised has rebuilt their homes, replaced their destroyed belongings and moved their families to safe houses.

Bianca Vázquez Toness & Jocelyn Gecker contributed to this report. Gecker reported from San Francisco. Collin Binkley in Washington, D.C., Sharon Lurye in New Orleans, Arleigh Rodgers in Indianapolis, Claire Savage in Chicago and Brooke Schultz in Harrisburg, Pa., also contributed to this report.

Test scores across U.S. reveal ‘heartbreaking’ pandemic declines, with math hit hard

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-10-23/test-scores-united-states-pandemic-setbacks-math>

PALOMA ESQUIVEL
OCT 23, 2022

Paloma Esquivel writes about the Inland Empire. She was on the Los Angeles Times team that won the 2011 Pulitzer Prize for public service for investigating corruption in the city of Bell and the team that won the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for breaking news for coverage of the San Bernardino terror attack. Prior to joining The Times in 2007, she was a freelance writer, worked in Spanish-language radio and was an occasional substitute teacher. A

Southern California native, she graduated from UC Berkeley and has a master's in journalism from Syracuse University.

Learning loss is bad everywhere, and demands immediate action

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-10-25/la-ed-nations-report-card-learning-loss>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD

OCT 25, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.

Those math and reading scores were horrible, but beware of the political spin

<https://www.latimes.com/business/story/2022-10-25/those-math-and-reading-scores-were-horrible-but-watch-out-for-the-political-spin>

MICHAEL HILTZIK

OCT 25, 2022

Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Michael Hiltzik writes a daily blog appearing on latimes.com. His business column appears in print every Sunday, and occasionally on other days. As a member of the Los Angeles Times staff, he has been a financial and technology writer and a foreign correspondent. He is the author of six books, including “Dealers of Lightning: Xerox PARC and the Dawn of the Computer Age” and “The New Deal: A Modern History.” Hiltzik and colleague Chuck Philips shared the 1999 Pulitzer Prize for articles exposing corruption in the entertainment industry.

New test scores show students lost a lot of ground in the pandemic. Overreacting won't help

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-10-26/pandemic-learning-loss-test-scores-nations-report-card>

SARA RIMM-KAUFMAN

OCT 26, 2022

Sara Rimm-Kaufman (Ph.D., Harvard University, 1996; M.A., Harvard University, 1993; B.S., University of Wisconsin-Madison, 1990) is a professor of education at the University of Virginia and the author of “SEL From the Start: Building Skills in K-5,” a guide to social-emotional learning for elementary teachers.

Rimm-Kaufman conducts research on elementary and middle school classrooms with the goal of using evidence to improve the quality of schooling experiences for teachers and students. There is no simple formula for creating excellent schools. Yet, the majority of efforts focus on curriculum, content knowledge and accountability, not the psychological experience and social interactions of students and teachers within them. Over the past twenty years, Rimm-Kaufman has led a dynamic team of researchers, project managers, post-docs, students, and staff toward improved understanding of the systematic ways that classroom social and psychological experiences are productive (or not productive) environments for child and youth development. In doing so, her research considers the diversity present in schools, respects the challenges that teachers face every day, and recognizes the complexity of school improvement. In all of her work, she has a steadfast commitment to educational equity.

Dr. Rimm-Kaufman has studied a wide range of programs and approaches including Connect Science, EL Education, Leading Together, Responsive Classroom, RULER, Valor Collegiate & Compass and beyond. She and her team have received numerous grants from National Science Foundation, Institute of Education Sciences, and private foundations (e.g., Carnegie, Templeton) and have authored more than 100 chapters, articles, blogs, and websites. One persistent challenge in education is that researchers have extensive knowledge about social and emotional learning but rarely share it with teachers in an accessible format. This concern led her to prepare, SEL from the Start, a new book for teachers published by Norton Publishing in November 2020. Rimm-Kaufman also serves in a research advisory capacity for the World Bank Group, EL Education, New Schools Venture Fund and other organizations. She is a Fellow of the American Psychological Association (Division 15) and American Psychological Science.

L.A. schools have a plan to reverse enrollment woes: Recruit newborn babies

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2022-11-01/l-a-schools-have-new-enrollment-plan-recruit-babies>

HOWARD BLUME
NOV 1, 2022

Howard Blume covers education for the Los Angeles Times. He's won the top investigative reporting prize from the L.A. Press Club and print Journalist of the Year from the L.A. Society of Professional Journalists chapter. He co-hosts "Deadline L.A." on KPFFK, which the press club named best radio public affairs show in 2010. He teaches tap dancing and has two superior daughters.

LAUSD's efforts to address learning loss should inspire hope, not chaos and frustration

<https://www.latimes.com/opinion/story/2022-11-14/la-ed-laUSD-acceleration-days>

THE TIMES EDITORIAL BOARD
NOV 14, 2022

The Los Angeles Times' editorial board determines the editorial positions of the organization. The editorial board opines on the important issues of the day – exhorting, explaining, deploring, mourning, applauding or championing, as the case may be. The board, which operates separately from the newsroom, proceeds on the presumption that serious, non-partisan, intellectually honest engagement with the world is a requirement of good citizenship. You can read more about the board's mission and its members at the About The Times Editorial Board page.