

Public access expanded during the pandemic. Why do some cities want to take it away?

<https://www.latimes.com/california/story/2021-07-26/public-access-to-online-meetings-has-changed-since-pandemic>

KAREN PEARLMAN & PHIL DIEHL & TAMMY MURGA
JUL 26, 2021

Karen Pearlman has been covering the East County of San Diego, including its schools, government, water and fire district governing boards, since 2010. Before joining The San Diego Union-Tribune as a sports news assistant in 1996, she spent nearly 10 years covering sports and editing news stories at The Daily Californian in El Cajon ~ this after three years as a sports writer at The Star-News in Chula Vista. Karen covers the happenings in La Mesa, El Cajon, Santee and Lemon Grove, as well as outlying eastern county areas including Alpine, Buckman Springs, Campo, Casa de Oro, Crest, Deerhorn Valley, Dehesa, Dulzura, Fletcher Hills, Guatay, Jacumba, Jamul, Lakeside, Mount Helix, Pine Valley, Rancho San Diego and Spring Valley. A San Diegan since 1979, Karen is a graduate of Patrick Henry High, Grossmont College and San Diego State, where she earned a degree in Journalism (News-Editorial emphasis with a minor in Health Science) and covered finance and sports for The Daily Aztec for four years. She lives in the Mission Trails area of San Diego.

Phil Diehl has been a reporter and editor in North County since 1989, and has written about city government, education, health care, military issues, nuclear power and more. He was the night city editor for the North County Times for about five years until it was purchased by The San Diego Union-Tribune. A graduate of West Virginia University, he began his newspaper career at the Parkersburg Sentinel in West Virginia. He lives in Carlsbad.

Tammy Murga covers the South Bay areas of San Diego County. She previously covered local government and general assignments for The Signal in the Santa Clarita Valley and the Lake County Record-Bee, respectively. In 2016, she graduated from Mount Saint Mary's University, Los Angeles.